Teacher Salary Talks: What Will The Rules Be?

The biggest problem in teacher salary negotiations this year in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will be determining what the rules are under federal wage-price controls, according to representatives of both sides.

Under the district's present contract with the Elk Grove Teachers Council, bargaining for the 1972-73 school year will begin Tuesday. Representatives for the teachers and the administration indicated that at that time they will schedule later bargaining sessions.

Supt. James Erviti said yesterday he expects bargaining to be "friendly and effective," but added, "the biggest problem this year is going to be differing interpretations of the wage-price controls. I am going to advise that we try to negotiate as sensible a settlement as we can without too much reference to that."

INTERPRETATIONS will differ, Erviti said, because the Internal Revenue Service, which is in charge of enforcing the controls, is not giving the same advice day after day.

The big issue, he explained, may be whether the general wage increase guidelines of 5.5 per cent will include raises teachers are entitled to under the present contract because of additional experience.

If the 4 per cent raises most teachers in the district are entitled to after an additional year experience are figured into the 5.5 per cent guidelines, the district and teachers will only be able to negotiate about a 2 per cent raise. However, if the IRS rules the 5.5 per cent raises may be given on top of the already negotiated increases, it would be possible to negotiate a total raise of 8 1/2 per cent.

"Many interpretations exist in this area now," Erviti said, "and I expect it will cause trouble for all districts. If the pay board was to come out firmly, clearly and loudly tomorrow, I think our negotiations would proceed smoothly and fairly rapidly."

TEACHERS Council Pres. Robert Beaupre, a teacher at Brentwood School in Des Plaines, agreed the differing interpretations might be a problem, but said he expected no major trouble in the talks.

"Last year was a crucial year," he said, "because we got advisory arbitration."

The present teachers' contract provides for non-binding mediation by a representative of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service if either side declares an impasse after 90 days of negotiations.

Erviti said the district's bargaining team is ready to present a package to the teachers this month. The teachers' counter-proposal, Beaupre said, has been prepared on the basis of a survey of teachers in the district. The negotiations will be conducted in closed executive sessions.

The negotiation team for the district will be Albeon Waltman, assistant superintendent for personnel; Wesley Wildman, a professional negotiator hired by the board; board members Allen Sparks and Erwin Poklacki, and three principals, James Fay of John Jay School, Phil Thornton of Brentwood School and Pat Marshall of Dan Cook School.

THOMAS DRESSER, a teacher at Clearmont School, will be head of the negotiating team for the Teachers Council. Other teachers on his team will be Marv Azrael of Lively Junior High School, Leni Collette of Dempster Junior High School, Toni Kane of Byrd School, Ruth Weisbaum of Brentwood School, Eve Kaiser of Grove Junior High School and Mark Daly of Holmes Junior High School.

In addition, the teachers will have David Tomchek, a representative of the Illinois Education Association, as a member of their bargaining team.

Last year Dist. 59 settled on a teachers' contract in June and was the first elementary district to do so.

The settlement last year raised the pay scale for teachers by 3 per cent, meaning about a 7 per cent pay raise for most of the teachers in the district.

The raises, however, have been held up by the President's wage-price freeze and subsequent confusion about whether teachers were entitled to retroactive pay.

Under the present contract, starting pay for a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience is $7,828. After 15 years experience, a teacher with a master's degree and 30 additional hours of college credit receives top pay of $16,480.

High School's SIS Program

Students Can 'Cut' Class — Legally

by WANDALYN RICE

A student comes into class, goes up to his teacher and asks, "Can I S-I-S today?"

The question is part of a code at Elk Grove High School and if the teacher says yes, the questioning student is free to leave the class and go to the library, resource center, the foyer by the cafeteria or, if it's a sunny spring day, outside to sit on the lawn.

A student must find out what happened in the class he missed, and he is not supposed to go back and bother the teacher to do it. But once he has taken SIS, he is free to do what he wants during that period.

SIS means Self-Imposed Scheduling. It has been operating at the high school since it opened six years ago under the direction of Lowell Simmer, a counselor.

"ONE THING we find out with SIS," Simmer said, "is that kids need us a lot less than we'd like them to need us."

Studies done by the high school ever since the program started show that students using SIS do not get lower grades than those who do not, he said, but neither do grades go up significantly.

Generally, Simmer said, "D students continue to get D's, C students continue to get C's." Last semester more than 1,000 students had SIS privileges for at least some of their classes.

The students must have permission from their teachers to leave class on any given day, Simmer said, and the administration will allow any student with teacher permission to be in SIS, whether he is an "A" student or an average student.

Simmer said even though many students are eligible for SIS, they don't seem to use it as much as they might. A recent survey of teachers showed that only about 50 per cent of their SIS students used the privilege regularly.

"WHEN WE pointed that out to the kids, they said they don't want to be structured into using free time," Simmer said. "They want to make the choice of whether to use it or not. They don't want to be forced to be free."

The students do have guidelines when they use SIS, Simmer said. They are not supposed to leave a class the last 10 minutes of a period and they are not allowed to leave campus while on SIS.

Some teachers, Simmer said, including "some of our best teachers," will not allow students to use SIS in their classes.

"Some classes don't lend themselves to SIS," Simmer said. "It's hard to learn typing or the first two years of a foreign language if you aren't in class."

ON THE OTHER HAND, Simmer said, some teachers put their whole class on SIS and have only small groups come in each day. "It provides a lot of flexibility for creative teachers," he said.

Despite the fact that theoretically about 1,000 students could be "running

Arlington Heights Road Will Close

Beginning Monday, Arlington Heights Road will be closed to traffic between Higgins Road and the Salt Creek bridge as construction begins on the 1.4 mile section of road.

Through traffic will be diverted by way of Higgins Road, Busse Road and Devon Avenue during the construction, which is expected to take six months.

Rock Road Construction Co., of Arlington Heights, is the general contractor for the $1.3 million project, financed by the Cook County Highway Department.

Construction had originally been scheduled to begin April 15, but was moved up so it could be finished during the summer, according to Phillip Nelson, a Cook County Highway Department official. Nelson expressed hope that the work would be finished by Aug. 15.

THE ROAD WILL be rebuilt and widened to four lanes with a median strip, and a new bridge will be constructed at Salt Creek. The road will be closed to all but local traffic, and the county will maintain access to businesses and homes along the road, Nelson said.

Village Mgr. Charles Willis has expressed hope that after the project is completed, the county would schedule additional roadwork on Arlington Heights Road from the Salt Creek bridge south to Devon Avenue.

The roadwork has caused some changes in school bus routes also. Students who attend Elk Grove High School and live west of Arlington Heights Road will receive free bus service to the school by way of Kennedy Boulevard.

Residents of the area had protested last year when High School Dist. 214 cancelled bus service for students who had to walk across the Salt Creek bridge to school. The school has been running a one-stop shuttle bus for students back and forth across the bridge.

The Nation

The administration has asked Congress to officially recognize devaluation of the dollar by raising the price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce.

The director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs denied that his former deputy, John H. Finlator, had been muzzled in expressing his view that the use of marijuana should be legalized.

The average American consumer will spend nearly 6 per cent more for food this year, paying out a record of about $125 billion, the Agriculture Department has predicted.

Oregon State University officials say they may seal off the campus to all but

She's Hostage During Robbery

Reporter Lives Through A 'Thriller'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Herald reporter Vicki Hamende, always on top of the news, was a little closer to it Wednesday night than she cares to be. She was an eyewitness to an armed robbery and a participant in the drama. Her personal account follows.

by VICKI HAMENDE
I was standing at the counter at the Cumberland Pharmacy in Des Plaines, waiting for my prescription to be filled and wondering how awful the medicine would taste when a young man walked in and started pacing in the aisle next to me.

Being a young woman, I noticed him right away, but decided not to give him a second glance because he was: A — too short for me; B — all covered up with a ski mask, long coat and bell bottoms, and C — obviously a nervous wreck, judging from his rapid movements.

A young girl and her father walked into the pharmacy and I looked at them for awhile. Still waiting for my prescription, I started fidgeting with some of the goodies on the counter.

The next thing I knew, there was a long, shiny knife pointed at my stomach. Holding the knife was the nervous young man.

"Just do what I say and you won't be hurt," he said. Then he herded me and the father and daughter at knifepoint behind the counter and told us to go down into the basement through a nearby door.

I LITERALLY ran down the stairs, arriving long before my fellow hostages. The glint of the long knife and the sensation its point left on my coat were still vivid in my mind. The three of us huddled at the bottom of the stairs. I didn't feel afraid, only stunned. I somehow trusted that the nervous young man wouldn't hurt us, but for a moment I wasn't sure.

"Stay right there," he said. "I won't hurt you," I said "Okay," nudged my fellow hostages, "Say OK," I said and they did.

There we stood, or rather froze. Thoughts of gangster movies raced through my mind.

"This guy really needs it," the father said. I clutched my purse, hoping the robber wouldn't take the time to rob me. I knew I had only 89 cents in change but I was afraid that would make him angry enough to poke me with his knife.

We could hear him talking to the pharmacist, asking for the money in the cash register and various kinds of drugs. He came to the top of the stairs several times to check on us. "Just stay there, stay there," he ordered. "OK, OK," I said.

I WAS PERFECTLY content to do so, but not my fellow hostages. "See that shovel along the wall — I bet I could bust him with that," the father said. "I could help you Dad," the daughter said. "Let's don't get carried away," I said. "Let's don't try to get hurt," I was really starting to panic.

The daughter started fiddling with the

Robber Got $60 And Drugs

A knife-wielding bandit Wednesday night terrorized several customers including a Herald reporter at a north side Des Plaines pharmacy before escaping with $60 in cash and an unknown quantity of narcotics and other drugs.

According to Des Plaines police, the robber walked into Cumberland Pharmacy, 87 N. Broadway, about 6:30 p.m. and herded several customers, including reporter Vicki Hamende, into the drug store basement at knifepoint. The man, whose face was hidden by a ski mask, then demanded cash and several specific kinds of drugs from pharmacist Frank Almaier.

Almaier told police he filled a green cloth bag with $60 and provided the thief with about 20 bottles of several drugs, including morphine, seconal and nembutal, while the man threatened him with a long knife. During the course of the robbery, several customers walked into the store and were also threatened and forced into the basement by the bandit.

The man, described as in his early 20's and about five feet nine inches tall, then forced Almaier into the basement, warned the customers not to come upstairs and left. The customers rushed upstairs and saw the bandit and an accomplice driving east on Golf Road in a dark-colored 1963 or 1964 Chevrolet, according to the police report.

light switch, perhaps hoping to trigger an alarm or cause a blackout. I panicked again. She suggested tapping on the pipes to signal people in the medical center next door. "One tap and we're all goners," I said.

The robber flashed his head through the door again and temporarily quieted my adventurous companions. All of a sudden he herded a few more persons down the stairs. I felt a little safer. Then he pushed the pharmacist in and slammed the door shut from the outside and I waited for an explosion that never came.

Realizing that the robbery had been completed, we rushed up the stairs, poked our heads through the door and managed to catch a glimpse of a car pulling away. The pharmacist immediately called the police while we hostages stood around comparing thoughts.

Police and detectives arrived, witness reports were filled out and details of the event grew taller and taller as people gathered to hear our personal accounts.

I turned to the pharmacist. "Has this ever happened before?" I asked him. "Never, not in more than 20 years," he said I started to leave. "Oh, how about that prescription," I said, "and add a few tranquilizers."

THE RICHARD JOHNSONS view themselves on national television Wednesday night during Public Broadcasting Service documentary entitled "The Man in the Middle". The family said they felt "somewhat of a negative approach was taken" but Johnson said there are some real problems that the middle-class American must face. There is something special about being on national television and now the family can testify to that.

Subject Of Nationwide Documentary

TV Family: 'We're Not Poor'

by DOUG RAY

The Washington reporter wanted ordinary people and that's just what he found at the Richard Johnsons.

The Johnsons are a Rolling Meadows family, like many others in the middle-class community, who strive to pay monthly bills, worry about where the money will come from, but after each month manage to keep their heads above the water.

The family was the subject of a Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) documentary in Channel 11 Wednesday night entitled "The Man in the Middle." Reporter Robert MacNeil, who spent a week with the family at 2402 Willow St., presented the plight of middle-class suburbia, too wealthy for federal aid but not rich enough to have much left over after all accounts are cleared.

Watching the broadcast with the Johnsons, however, showed that the family is not as destitute as the program depicted. "They were showing the hardships of life," Johnson said during the program. "We're not as poor as it seems," he said.

MacNEIL TOLD THE viewing audience, which may have been as many as 3 million persons, that the Johnsons pay all their bills and can't manage to save anything — thus "the Man in the Middle." What was spliced out of the program was Johnson's statements about the stock program through his job. "Sure we do without, but not as much as they made it seem," Johnson said.

It was also stated in the program that a school lunch for the Johnson girls, who attend a Lutheran school in Arlington Heights, costs 45 cents and that is too much for the family to afford. The girls bring peanut butter and jelly instead.

But the girls said during the broadcast that they dislike the school's hot lunches and prefer the sack-lunch variety.

"They left a lot out," said Mrs. Johnson and her husband agreed. "The positive things they didn't put in," he said.

Johnson said he felt many of his neighbors could identify with the program aimed at presenting middle class problems. "We're not out to make a killing," he said, "just to survive."

BEING ON NATIONAL television was a big treat for the entire group. The girls giggled when they saw themselves. Richard and Mary Ann Johnson beamed with smiles.

It took the production crew about 30 to 40 hours to film the program, Johnson said. Segments were cut to end up with a half-hour broadcast, which showed the middle class American in a tough spot.

"We really are in a squeeze," Johnson said. "But a lot of us are in the same boat."

Government To Survey Nike Site

The first step toward the possible conversion of 100 acres of the Arlington Heights Nike Base into a regional park will take place March 6, when a representative of the United States General Services Administration will survey the property.

The GSA surveys and disposes of property that is designated surplus to the government. Part of the job includes surveying property, such as the Nike Base, to supply a preliminary analysis of its use to the Department of Defense.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., who endorsed the proposal for turning the Nike Site into a recreational area, hopes to be at the site March 6. A month ago Percy met with about 20 mayors and park district representatives from the Northwest suburbs who suggested the plan.

PERCY ASKED the GSA for a ruling on whether the property was being adequately utilized by the military, and last week the GSA agreed to undertake the survey.

"The survey will be very extensive and even include the inspection of business affairs of the GSA," he said. "I expect it will take most of the day."

The survey will be sent to the Department of Defense for review and comment. If the department agrees with the GSA findings, the decision will be sent to the Armed Services Committee in the Senate.

If the committee also agrees with the decision, it will be sent back to the GSA. At that time the GSA would dispose of the property, if it is declared surplus.

A REGIONAL PARK is planned for the Nike site, if local plans are approved. Included in features of the proposed park would be a golf course, picnicking and hiking area and storm retention basin for boating and fishing.

"This is one of the most imaginative plans for the setting aside of open space that I have ever seen," Percy said.

The park would serve Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village, all of which do not have the national minimum standard of 10 acres per 1,000 people.

"We're very optimistic about getting the property for a park, and glad that the process has been started," said Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation in Arlington Heights.

Police Assist In Big Heroin Arrest

Elk Grove Village detectives participated in the arrest last weekend of three men involved in what police believe was a fairly large-scale heroin operation in Maywood.

Four members of the village police department assisted Cook County Sheriff's Detective Gene Gargano in the arrest of a Maywood man on charges of sale and possession of narcotics and the arrest of two other men on drug possession charges. Being held in Cook County jail on $20,000 bail is Strauther Bell, 27, charged with sale of narcotics, possession of narcotics and possession of hypodermic needles and syringes. Village Det. Ray Marinee said Bell was arrested as the result of information developed by two village detectives, Ronald Iden and Robert Salvatore. The two followed a suspected heroin user, Jay Kelly, 1053 Crown Rd., Franklin Park, to Bell's apartment at Tenth Avenue and St. Charles Road in Maywood Saturday night.

At the apartment police arrested Kelly on a heroin possession charge and then arrested Bell after finding 14 "hits" of heroin and hypodermic needles in the apartment.

DETECTIVES then waited in Bell's apartment as seven separate persons came to the apartment to allegedly buy heroin. One of the seven potential buyers, Tyrone Jelks, 22, of 145 Fourteenth Ave., Maywood, was arrested on a heroin possession charge.

The alleged buyers came from as far away as south Chicago and Oak Park, Marinee said. "This led us to believe he was dealing on a large scale," he said.

A fourth man was arrested but released by police.

Elk Grove Village police participated in the raid because they developed the information about the alleged drug sales. Also participating was village Patrolman Mel Mack.

Area Man Elected VP

An Arlington Heights man was recently elected vice president of the Crusade of Mercy which combines the annual fund-raising drives of the Community Fund of Chicago, the Mid-America Chapter of the Red Cross and the Suburban Community Chest Council.

Paul G. Michaels, 64 S. Pine, will assume the duties of vice president for the 1972 campaign, which will begin in October. Michaels is the director of marketing programs at Commonwealth Edison company, and is president of the Suburban Community Chest Council.

Seek Link In Robberies

Police are trying to link Tuesday's bank robbery in Buffalo Grove to a recent series of robberies in the area, including the Wednesday night robbery of the Cumberland Pharmacy in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines police are investigating that possibility. Although Buffalo Grove police have said such a connection is remote, they haven't ruled it out in their investigation.

FBI agents handling the bank robbery investigation would not comment yesterday when asked if they thought the robberies were related.

Cop Charged With Murder

Franklin Park Patrolman Peter DiVenere has been charged with murder, attempted murder and two counts of aggravated assault in connection with the shooting Wednesday of his ex-wife and slaying of her male companion.

Arrested early Wednesday in a trailer court in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, DiVenere is being held in Cook County Jail. A preliminary hearing on the charges has been scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

DiVenere, 38, of 3306 Lincoln Ave., Franklin Park, is charged with the murder early Wednesday of Charles McConnell, 23, and the shooting of Mrs. Laurel DiVenere, also 23. Both McConnell and Mrs. DiVenere lived in apartments at 7472 Jensen Blvd., Hanover Park, where the shootings took place.

Mrs. DiVenere remained in serious condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center yesterday with gunshot wounds of the back, right arm and abdomen.

New Pay Phone Introduced

Stranded without a dime for a telephone call?

Illinois Bell is coming to your rescue with a new system of dial-tone-first pay telephone service.

Some 800 public phones in Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Prospect Heights are being converted so that the operator can be reached without depositing money, Paul Arnold, Illinois Bell manager, said.

The phones which can be recognized by a six-inch blue and white decal have already been installed in some Arlington Heights locations including the Chicago and North Western Ry. station.

The dial-tone-first system is just what it says; you get a dial tone before you deposit your money, Arnold said.

Arnold said this means that the telephone user can determine if the phone is working as soon as he picks up the receiver, and if he doesn't have change, he can reach the operator and have her place the call.

THE OPERATOR can dial the number and make the call collect or charge the call to a home phone or credit card without the telephone user depositing money, he said.

"In an emergency, if a phone user is caught without change, the operator will dial fire or police numbers without charge," he said.

Arnold added that free calls also can be made to directory assistance and Illinois Bell repair service.

A spokesman for Illinois Bell said the new dial-tone-first system will be introduced nationwide for some 94,000 public telephones by 1980 at a cost of $100 million, including $7 million to be spent by Illinois Bell.

Hospital Study Report Is Due February 22

A report, and perhaps a recommendation, will be made Feb. 22 on who is to conduct a local study to determine if a hospital is needed to service the greater Schaumburg Township area.

William Silverman, chairman of the greater Schaumburg Township area ad hoc hospital study committee, said a specially appointed subcommittee is interviewing potential consulting firms to determine which is the most qualified to conduct the estimated $20,000 study.

The five-member subcommittee, appointed by Silverman, spent Wednesday interviewing prospective firms. The field, Silverman reports, has been narrowed to eight.

Silverman said the subcommittee, in its report to the full committee, will probably narrow the field to the three firms determined the most qualified. He doesn't expect a decision Feb. 22 but does expect a selection to be made shortly thereafter the full committee studies the matter.

THE MEETING will begin at 1 p.m. at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

The local ad hoc committee, formed seven months ago, is charged with determining if Schaumburg Township needs its own hospital facility and what specific type of facility is needed. The committee is comprised of representative from the villages of Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Roselle and Hanover Park. Also participating are Alexian Brothers, Northwest Community Hospital and Elgin's St. Joseph and Sherman hospitals.

As proposed, the study's financing would come from villages' coffers and the participating hospitals.

THE STUDY would spell out the health care needs in the greater Schaumburg Township area by scrutinizing existing health care facilities, present and projected population, transportation, commercial and industrial expansion possibilities and selected demographic and socio-economic characteristics.

The consultant subcommittee is comprised of Silverman, Brother Ferdinand, administrator of Alexian Brothers; Richard Regan, chairman of the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission; Sheldon Waldstein, executive director of the North Suburban Association for Health Resources and John Zacharias, planning specialist with the Chicago Hospital Council. Silverman is assistant director of the council.

Parents To Discuss Language Program

Parents of fifth graders and junior high school students in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 will be able to discuss the district's foreign language program at a meeting Monday night.

The meeting, planned for 8 p.m. in the district's administration building, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, is being held by the foreign language study committee of the School Community Council.

School Community Council, an organization of district parents, has been working on the foreign language report since November. Questionnaires have been sent to parents asking for opinions on the program and will be given to students now taking language courses.

The completed evaluation of the program will be presented to the district's board of education.

Answer State Tax Questions

Q-1 RECEIVE alimony payments from my former husband. Must I include them in taxable income on my Illinois income tax return?

A-Yes. Alimony payments are a part of your income reported on your Federal income tax return, included in your adjusted gross income on Line 18. This amount is entered on Line 1 of the Illinois return, IL-1040.

Q-HAVE THERE been any changes in the Illinois income tax rates and withholding charts?

A-No. There have been no changes in either the tax rate or the withholding charts. The tax rate is 2½ per cent and withholding tables are the same as they were last year.

Q-WHAT IS the rule on filing of a return in case a person dies during the year?

A-If an individual is deceased, any income tax return required of such individual must be made by his executor, administrator, or other person charged with the property of such decedent.

If a joint federal income tax return was filed for the decedent and the surviving spouse, a joint Illinois income tax return must also be filed. In such cases, the surviving spouse should draw a line through the decedent's name and indicate the date of death. A death certificate is not required.

Q-MY HUSBAND died early this year. I received $15,000 as the proceeds from a life insurance policy in which I was named the beneficiary. Must I report these proceeds as taxable income on my Illinois State return?

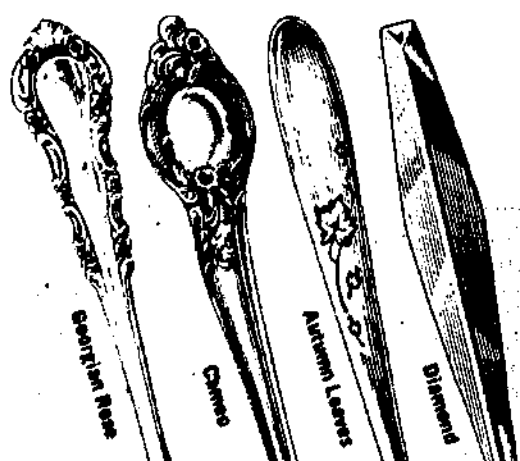

A-No. Life insurance proceeds paid to you as a result of the death of the insured are not taxable to you unless the policy was transferred to you for valuable consideration.

Words With An Immortal Echo

'... no President before or after Lincoln uttered such a jewel as the Gettysburg Address.'

by DON OAKLEY

It seems to be a law of communications that the larger the audience that is tuned in, the less memorable are the things it hears.

This is true of much of the fare broadcast over the airwaves. It is certainly true of advertising and is probably just as true as politics.

Even back in the 1920s, when radio was in its infancy, a president could command an audience far greater than was present in Gettysburg on November 19, 1863, to hear Abraham Lincoln.

TODAY, EVEN in an unscheduled, spur-of-the-moment appearance on television, a president can be heard and seen by more Americans than were alive in Lincoln's time.

But no President before or after Lincoln ever created or uttered such a jewel as his Gettysburg Address, nor has any American document been read, repeated, memorized and loved by so many people around the world.

There are at least two legends about this famous address. The most familiar is the one which holds that Lincoln's words were poorly received and that he left the battlefield with the conviction that he had failed.

To be sure, there were caustic comments in a few newspapers, typical of that partisan day. But at least one Chicago paper stated prophetically that "The dedicatory remarks of President Lincoln will live among the annals of man."

Edward Everett, the principal speaker, who preceded Lincoln with a two-hour oration, wrote him the next day: "I should be glad if I could flatter myself that I came as near to the central idea of the occasion in two hours as you did in two minutes."

RECENTLY, SOME scholars have claimed that Lincoln's speech was actually greeted tumultuously. They cite a diary or newspaper account which records that it was interrupted half a dozen times or more times with applause and cheers.

But it is as difficult to believe that this short speech — only 272 words long and taking about two and a half minutes to deliver — could be interrupted so many times than it is to believe that it was totally ignored and unappreciated.

A theory suggested by Clifton Fadiman some years ago seems closer to what really happened.

Picture Lincoln standing in the open air, speaking without benefit of a loudspeaker system to a probably restless crowd of 15,000 which had just finished listening to Edward Everett orate for two solid hours. It is likely that only a few heard what Lincoln said. The speech would have been over before the crowd could have been aware that it had begun.

THIS, THOUGHT Fadiman, may have been the basis for the story that the speech was considered to be a failure.

At any rate, no amount of modern electronics gear could have transformed into greatness a speech that was not great to begin with.

No size of audience, no amount of applause or favorable newspaper comment, could have made immortal words that were not endowed with immortality at the moment they were conceived in Abraham Lincoln's great mind.

A man like Lincoln stands above time and technology.

Bakalis Asks $207 Million School Aid Hike

State Supt. of Public Instruction Michael J. Bakalis yesterday proposed a $207 million increase in state aid to schools as a first step in a three-year program to bring state funding up to 50 per cent of the cost of elementary and secondary education.

Bakalis' proposal, which must be approved by the state legislature and the governor, included $177 million increase in the amount of state money distributed to schools under the aid formula and an additional $30.1 million for special purpose grants to schools.

Bakalis said the budget would "bring state government up from its present 33 per cent level of support of secondary and elementary education to 42 per cent."

"In three years," he said, "I hope to see the level of state support reach 50 per cent or beyond."

Bakalis said court decisions knocking down property tax as the main support for public education have imposed a new urgency on the need to overhaul the state's school finance system.

Bakalis recommended a funding of $40.5 million for the fiscal year starting July 1. The total for the current fiscal year is $700 million — or $520 per pupil, based on average daily attendance.

Or . . . Where's Money To Come From?

Putting Bite On The State

by BETSY BROOKER
A News Analysis

State Supt. of Public Instruction Michael Bakalis' proposal to boost state aid to schools falls right in line with a rising national demand for school finance reform.

Bakalis has called for a three-year plan to lower local contribution to school budgets and to hike state contribution. The first step of the plan involves a $207 million increase in state aid to Illinois schools.

Currently, Illinois districts receive less than one-third of their revenue from the state, and more than half from local homeowners.

Yet, the new Illinois Constitution says education is the "primary responsibility" of the state. The constitution is commonly interpreted to mean the state is responsible for at least half of local school budgets.

CRITICS CHARGE that the present system of school financing is inequitable and unconstitutional because it rewards the rich. When the weight of school budgets is on local property taxes, and the district with the most valuable property receives the most revenue. And the child in the wealthiest district theoretically receives the best education.

This system has been declared unconstitutional by supreme courts in California and Texas. And several suits challenging the system have been filed in Illinois.

Two leading Illinois plaintiffs are Richard Martwick, Cook County superintendent of education, and Nick Blase, Niles mayor. Both agree that the Illinois Legislature has violated the new state constitution by failing to assume primary responsibility for education. However, Martwick goes one step further by asking the court to not only declare the system unconstitutional, but to also force the state to abide by the constitution.

A CALL FOR more state aid to schools also has come from a $2 million research project funded by the U.S. Office of Education. The four year study, the National Education Finance Project, states the state and federal governments must contribute more money to education in order to end disparities in school finance and to compensate for variations in school district wealth.

The project is impressive in its caliber of researchers — officials from 20 universities — and in its precedent — it is the first nationwide study of school finance made since 1933. However, the study is only a recommendation and must be enacted by federal and state legislatures before it has any real effect.

Bakalis has joined a growing line of educators and government officials who cite more state aid to schools as the answer to local budget straits. However, Bakalis and many other finance reformers have yet to present a detailed, realistic plan showing how the state will get the additional money for state aid.

Bank Robbery Is Wide-Open Field

by TOM TIEDE
NEW YORK (NEA) — When someone asked Willie Sutton why he held up banks, the long-time crook replied: "Because that's where the money is!"
The logic has not escaped increasing numbers of other criminals. In a nation of growing crime, bank robbery is perhaps the fastest sprouting of all.
The American Banker's Association reports that money institutions were victimized 3,354 times last year (including some after-hour burglaries), for more than $10 million. That's three times the number and twice the loss of five years ago. Or, says the FBI, a numbing 400 per cent increase in the last decade.
John Dillinger? He was a piker. A robber today can hit as many banks and swipe as much money in a year as the legendary Mr. D. did in his entire career.

So what can be done about it?
PLENTY. But also, not much.
Banks have been tightening up since 1968, when federal minimum security procedures were legislated for the nation's cash houses. More guards with guns have been hired. Numerous institutions have installed elaborate surveillance cameras. Chicago's First National has put in vault doors that weigh 87 tons each.

To what end? Nothing very encouraging. The number of bank jobs last year was more than twice the rate of 1968, when the security escalation began.
The truth is, says experts, "it's awfully damn easy to rob a bank today." Especially the suburban institutions, which are feeling the brunt of rising statistics. "All the robber has to do is use his head," says a New York bank security official. "He doesn't have to be afraid of most guards, because most guards today are retired window washers or the like. As soon as he gets inside a bank, all he has to do is throw his coat over the camera. As for the big vaults, well, there are space-age 'burning bars' which can cut through anything."

AS IT HAPPENS, most robbers today don't bother to use their heads even to the extent quoted. Muscle and chutzpah are all that's required. Thus the field is wide open to all manner of opportunists. Gone are the days of Dillinger, when bank men were almost romantically professional. The perpetrators now are old men, high school teen-agers, debt-ridden dum-dums. A blind beggar tried to rob one facility. And the FBI likes to tell the story (true) about a bank teller describing his bandit as "a little old lady in tennis shoes."

Recently in New York, a robber named Melvin Schuman gave himself up after robbing a suburban bank of $17,600. Why? "Because I'm tired of running." He told police he robbed the bank with two other men, and all three of them were bungling amateurs: "It was like pulling a job with The Three Stooges." All of the bandits were clearly photographed by cameras, one of them tried to shoot it out with a customer. "Even the emphasis placed on bank robbery today is not on prevention but rather on investigation. William Barry, director of Smith & Wesson Security Services, says he is constantly drilling bank executives on the importance of robbery "after the fact." This includes everything from inch markings on bank doors (so bandits can be readily sized up) to educating tellers on total recall ("He looked like Jackie Gleason") to, most importantly, security cameras.

Barry says most banks cooperate fully. He says some have regular robbery classes for their employees. Some others have wired their floors for sound and sight. Others, like an institution in California, even lock their tellers up and do business via pneumatic tubes. Yet, alas, the robberies go on. Because no defense is perfect. Bill Barry tells of one holdup which took place in full view of an activated camera. The cops rushed the film to the developer. And when it came back it showed clear shots of the bank's annual Christmas party.

Bank Robbery In Comeback?

Within the past month, the Northwest suburbs have seen two attempts at bank robbery, one successful one in Buffalo Grove and another unsuccessful attempt in Arlington Heights.

Is robbing banks coming back from the 1930s like the style of dress? Why are banks now subject to increasing numbers of would-be Willie Suttons?

Syndicated reporter Tom Tiede looked at the problem and came up with a story as valid for the Northwest suburbs as for New York City.

when we tried to get away it was a mess," Schuman said. "The getaway driver tried to run off and I grabbed him back. Then the other jerk forgot to close the door to the car and he fell out. Oh, boy. It was something."

On the surface of it, today's bank robber hardly seems a match for organized security. But, according to William Owen, security officer for the ABA, the crooks have one thing for them — or two things: "We have to plan defenses within the framework of safety for customers, and safety for employees." Thus, says Owen, security measures, such as sharp-shooting, gas release and automatic exit locking are impossible. "We don't want anyone hurt. We'd rather let the criminal get away than have a customer or teller seriously injured."

SO IT IS that most robbers do get away. At least temporarily. And much of

Bob McNamara Always Wanted To Be A Cop

BOB McNAMARA

by HARRY WEINER
"Good luck, Bob, as a police officer."
"Lots of luck as a cop."
Those messages, inscribed in Bob McNamara's high school yearbook, tell a lot about the 24-year-old Elk Grove Village patrolman.

McNamara has been a member of the Elk Grove Village Police Department for about two years, but his plans for a career in law enforcement go back a lot farther.

"I planned on this type of job a long time ago," he said. "It was something I had on my mind through high school."

A police career remained foremost in his mind through high school.

A police career remained foremost in his mind after graduation from high school. Unable to get a job as a policeman until he reached 21, McNamara took a job with the Chicago & North Western Rwy. for three years before he was able to begin police work.

SHORTLY AFTER turning 21, McNamara joined the Western Springs police force, where he stayed until joining the Elk Grove Village department in 1970.

And after nearly four years of police work, the native Chicagoan has no regrets about his career choice.

"It's a tough job — you've got to know what to do on the spur of the moment — but I really enjoy it and it's certainly lived up to the expectations I had for it," he said.

Like a growing number of his fellow officers across the country, McNamara takes a professional approach to law enforcement and believes training and education are an important part of the job.

The dark-haired, mustachioed officer has taken advantage of a number of training programs. He has completed a traffic institute program at Northwestern University, had training in use of breathalyzer equipment and attended a narcotics training session at the University of Illinois.

"I've been very fortunate in getting as much training as I have," said McNamara, who is married and lives in Elk Grove Village.

THE YOUNG policeman also attended Triton Junior College for 1½ years, studying police science. But he sees education as a general need for police officers, not just as mechanical training for operation of police equipment.

"If the people you are dealing with are highly educated, you want to be able to speak on their level," he said.

Strapping on leather boots to prepare himself for a snowy night's work, McNamara admitted the job is not always as exciting as he envisioned it. There are lots of routine, unexciting duties involved in the job, he said.

Investigating minor accidents, dog bites, people locked out of their homes and other minor complaints take up most of a policeman's time in an area as free from crime as Elk Grove Village. But of the 10,000 complaints answered each year by the department, at least a few provide enough excitement to hold an officer's interest.

"On the midnight shift you might go through the entire eight hours and not get anything," he said. "But usually if you do get a call, it's something good," he said, obviously relishing the "good" calls.

McNamara told of the time in Western Springs when he and his partner captured two burglars as they were leaving a cleaning establishment. "You're shaking when you do it — you can't help it — but you don't even really think about it until afterwards because you're so caught up in the job."

In Elk Grove Village he also participated in the arrest of burglars. "They had stolen a refrigerator from a boxcar in the industrial park and had it in the back of a truck," he said.

But in Elk Grove Village the majority of a policeman's work involves meeting normal citizens. And as one of the uniformed representatives of the village, McNamara hopes to do his part to present the proper image.

In London, Almost Everyone Likes The 'Bobby'

by TOM CULLEN

LONDON — Ask an American tourist what impresses him most about Britain and he is apt to reply, "The police — we think the British bobby is simply wonderful."

It is a judgment in which the British people concur. According to a recent poll over 90 per cent of the nation believes the police are helpful, friendly, polite, honest, fair and efficient.

This explains why the police here are seldom referred to as "pigs" or "fuzz." Respect for law-enforcers as well as for the law also explains why muggings are so rare in London and other major British cities.

YOU CAN stroll around London at night, even down the sleaziest streets in Soho, without fear of being beaten up and robbed.

You can ride up in an elevator with a stranger without wondering whether he's going to ask you for your wallet.

You can walk your dog in a dimly lit park after midnight and return home none the worse for the experience.

Mild violence of the type that plagues most American cities has given London a miss so far, though what happens in America has a habit of turning up here five years later.

RECENTLY, in order to find out how much Britain's police are responsible for this idyllic state of affairs, I spent the day with Edward Lawrence, 34, a Dublin-born police constable, who patrols a beat in the tough Stoke Newington district of East London.

Lawrence is married, with two children aged 5 and 6, and is paying off the mortgage on a house on his salary of $250 a month, which includes a rent allowance. He is of medium build, has the fresh complexion for which the Irish are noted and seems reasonably happy.

Before starting out, Lawrence explains a little bit about Stoke Newington. "It's a typical London working-class suburb," he says. "With about 130,000 people crowded into an area of three square miles."

"We've got a large number of Jewish refugees who came here in the 1930s to escape Hitler."

More recently there has been a big influx of West Indians, and we notice them now as we walk along Stoke Newington High Street the black women with their Afro wigs, doing the day's shopping.

THE WEST Indians tend to crowd together, sometimes three families to a house. Many are unemployed. Altogether Stoke Newington has all the explosive ingredients making for crime and racial conflict, or so one would think. But it hasn't worked out that way.

"There's very little racial tension in the area," Lawrence says. "As for crime we get the occasional payroll robbery. We even have one or two murders a year but housebreakings and burglaries are the most common crimes."

A punch up outside a pub, a purse snatch or a gas meter that has been broken into these are about all a police constable will be called upon to deal with in an ordinary day's work.

The same would seem to be true for the whole of London. Fifty-one murders took place last year, as compared to 961 in New York. Crimes of violence are on the increase here as elsewhere, but they still constitute a small proportion of police work as a whole.

AS WE WALK along, an old codger with a growth of white stubble on his chin comes up to report that some buildings due for demolition have been broken into and the furniture removed. "I've already reported it to town hall," he complains. "But there's an old woman, aged 81, and her daughter living in the building, and they're frightened to be there all alone after the break-in."

Lawrence pulls out a notebook, makes a note of the address and assures the man that he will look into the matter when he gets back to the police station.

In the heyday of the British Empire, whenever trouble broke out in the colonies, the British sent a gunboat to "show the flag." Usually this was enough to quell all incipient rebellion.

As I follow Lawrence around the byways of Stoke Newington I get the impression that he is performing much the same function. Unconsciously he is "showing the flag." He is a living symbol of law and order. On second thought, the gunboat comparison is an unfair one, because it implies coercion, which Lawrence is against.

"PEOPLE USED to fear the police in the old days, but they don't any more, and I think it's a good thing," Lawrence explains. "I don't want people to be afraid of me, and to look upon me as though I had some contagious disease. I would much rather they had a friendly feeling towards me."

"Of course, there are times when you have to be stern and to assert your authority, but these are rare."

As we reach the heart of the shopping area where the big supermarkets are located, Lawrence is stopped frequently by people with questions. Where is the nearest public lavatory? Is there a matinee today for old-age pensioners at the local cinema? A man on a bicycle wants to get to the polytechnic school, a woman asks directions to the swimming baths.

AS WE TALKED a rabbinical student with long side whiskers wearing a broad-brimmed beaver hat passes us in the street. "We get a lot of these on their way to the synagogue on Saturdays, and for some reason their hats are a great temptation to the local hoodlums, who want to knock them off."

"There's nothing racial in it, mind you. Knocking off the hats has nothing to do with anti-Semitism. It's just pure hoodlumism — about as close as you would get here to a mugging."

The only time Stoke Newington gets a glimpse of black power in action is when a police raid results in arrests. Then a few bearded Jamaicans wearing black berets or black wool-knit caps show up outside the magistrate's court and begin to picket it. They disappear, however, as soon as the court hearing is over.

As are 94,000 other police constables in the United Kingdom, Lawrence is armed with nothing more lethal than a 16-inch wooden truncheon when he is on patrol duty. The billy club is carried in a special pocket that runs down the outside seam of the right trouser leg; hence it lacks even the merit of being a visible deterrent to crime.

DOESN'T HE ever feel naked and vulnerable when making his rounds down a dark alley at night? "The thought never crosses my mind," he says. "Besides, if anything happens I've got two-way radio connection with the station."

Like every British policeman I've ever talked to, Lawrence is strongly opposed to an armed police force.

"The mere sight of a .38 revolver in a hip holster would antagonize the public and destroy the confidence that we have built up over the years," he says.

"Besides, it would be an open license to the criminal underworld to arm, and you would have gang warfare in the streets instead of the relative calm we now have, and a lot of innocent persons would be shot down."

The system, to Americans, is based upon such peculiar notions as British sportsmanship and the possibility of a gentleman's agreement existing between police and underworld — "If you don't arm we won't." But it works here, with the backing of 55 million Britons.

"You'd have chaps resigning from the police force right and left if they were asked to carry arms," Police Constable Lawrence says indignantly.

Turkish Farmers Feel Drug 'Pinch,' Thanks To USDA

by DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—It has now become clear that the United States has been taking the wrong approach in its efforts to smash the illicit drug market. The tendency has been to treat drug abuse as a police problem. The way to stop the drug traffic, we told ourselves, is to arrest the participants. That method has proved largely ineffective despite the apprehension of large numbers of drug pushers and shovers, addicts and smugglers. Far better results could have been achieved by treating drug abuse as an agricultural problem. For once you put a problem into the hands of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, you've got it surrounded by the kind of thinking that made America great. WHEN WE HAVE a surplus wheat crop in this country does the government send a posse into the fields to capture the rascals who grew it? Not as long as the farm vote keeps coming in late on election night it doesn't. What the government does is buy up the surplus wheat under its price support system and then pay farmers a subsidy not to grow so much of the stuff next time. This is called the farm program.

It may sound almost too ingenious to be practical, but it works. Since adoption of the farm program, there has been hardly any trouble with wheat abuse among the young people of America.

THIS YEAR, somebody finally had enough sagacity to export our farm program to Turkey where much of the opium, brought into the United States as heroin, is grown.

With funds supplied by the U.S. government, the Turkish government is buying up the opium harvest and paying farmers a subsidy to switch to other crops.

According to the State Department, the Turkish supply is expected to dwindle this year, thus striking a heavy blow at the drug traffic in the United States.

It is doubtful that a thousand more coke could equal the impact.

The only drawback is that the United States, not having an opium crop of its own, must depend on the cooperation of a foreign government to curtail production. At some point, that arrangement might collapse.

To be on the safe side, the government should encourage American farmers to plant poppies on the land where the surplus wheat used to grow.

Then it could buy up the domestic as well as the foreign harvest and be doubly certain of keeping opium off the market.

Win At Bridge
by Oswald and James Jacoby

It is almost impossible for North and South to keep out of four hearts with today's cards. Of course, if North is a no-trumpist he will respond one no-trump to his partner's heart opening and then bid three no-trump after the correct three heart rebid. This time the no-trumpist would be right and three no-trump is a cinch.

There is no real play for four hearts but South brought it home.

East put his ace of spades on dummy's queen and led back the queen of diamonds. South ducked and East continued with the jack. South played his ace this time. Then he cashed his club ace!

West played the four spot and South was home with the bacon. He entered dummy with a trump, ruffed the six of spades; entered dummy with a second trump; discarded his last diamond on the king of spades; ruffed dummy's last diamond and led one of his low clubs.

West was stuck in with the king of clubs and had to lead a spade or a diamond. It did not matter which, South ruffed in dummy and discarded his last club.

South was lucky. He found West with king and one club and each opponent with exactly two trumps but South had given the cards every chance.

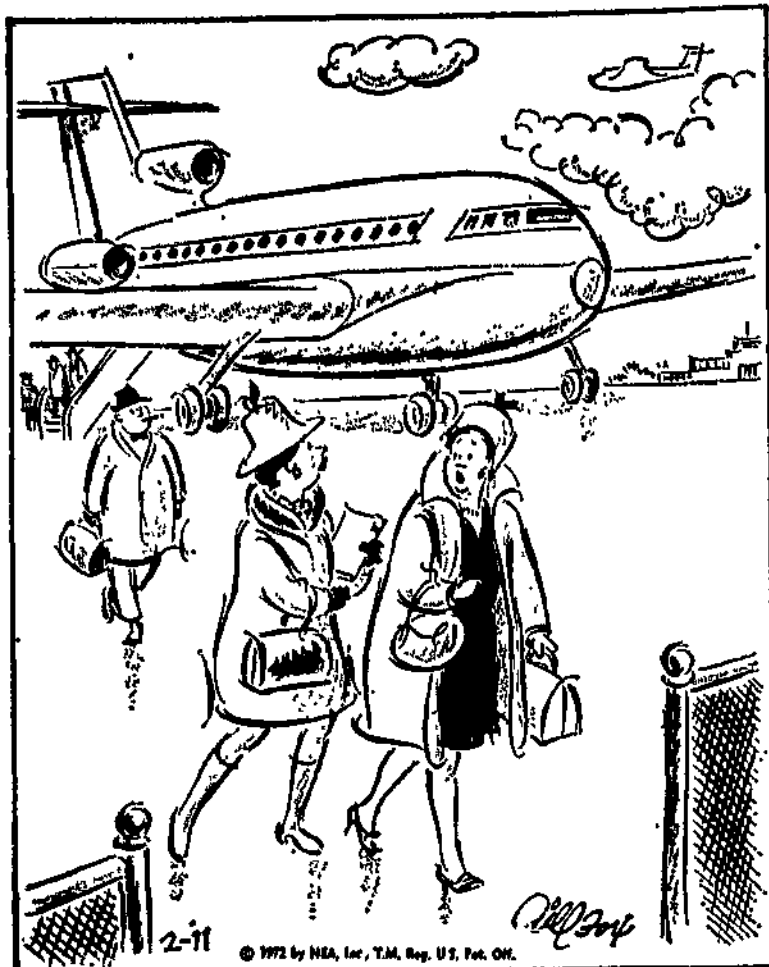

Note that he led the ace of clubs as soon as he got in. If he had postponed that play the chances are that West would have dropped the king under the ace.

What Censorship Is Most Destructive?

by RICK DUBROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—What kind of censorship is the most destructive to network television's regular entertainment series?

In a week in which the Senate Judiciary's constitutional rights subcommittee has heard testimony about video censorship it is instructive to consider the view of a past president of the television branch of the Writers Guild of America-West, Richard M. Powell.

Mr. Powell prepared a statement on the matter that the guild notes was sent to the subcommittee. Here are parts of the statement:

"The most effective kind of censorship... is built into the 'format' on the series, or what the program is all about. If the program is essentially about nothing and if the format has no contact with reality then there is little need for continuing censorship on the series. 'My Three Sons' is never going to become a battleground for the freedom of expression... 'IT IS VIRTUALLY impossible for a writer to create a television format and have the resulting series even approximate the author's original concept. Network involvement in the creation of formats is total. And invariably, the involvement is destructive.

"Reception of the new script in Hollywood is good, and after a few revisions by writer A the script is sent to New York. The man in New York is generally pleased, but wants three more children and a dog added to the family from outer space.

"Writer A states that you can't insert three more children and a dog into the format without throwing out all the satire; what you would end up with would be a 'Brady Bunch' from outer space." "Writer A states that there is only one element responsible for 'The Brady Bunch' success — the fact that it precedes the very successful 'Partridge Family.' No one listens, since the power of decision is not in that room but in New York. Writer A then resigns from the project."

Loop-O'Hare Link Needed

In the next few years, it may finally become possible to zip from the Loop to O'Hare International Airport in less time than it takes to fly to New York.

It's only about 15 miles from the Loop to O'Hare, but for any motorist who has crept to the airport on the Kennedy Expressway in the rush hour, it can be an hour-long, nerve-racking journey.

However, the city of Chicago recently unveiled a plan which will extend the CTA line along the Kennedy to O'Hare — thus easing a nightmare for airline passengers.

The $70 million project is included in the city's capital improvements budget for 1973-75. The extension will make the total trip from the Loop to O'Hare 35 minutes (the trip from Jefferson Park, the current end of the line, to the airport will take ten minutes).

The convenience of the system to Chicagoans, suburbanites and out-of-towners is obvious. A Northwest suburbanite could, for example, take the train to Jefferson Park, then catch a fast and inexpensive CTA train directly to the airport. The trip would be cheaper than relying on costly taxicabs or airport buses which can easily get delayed in Chicago traffic.

Already, the concept of direct rapid transit to a major airport has been tried and found effective. Although Cleveland's rapid transit system is not used as widely as Cleveland officials desire, it does provide fast, comfortable and low-cost transportation to the airport from the downtown.

The decision to commit money to the Chicago project, however, comes under the shadow of a 1967 agreement with the Chicago & North Western railway, in which the CTA agreed not to extend its line to the airport.

CTA, C & NW and Chicago officials met in Mayor Richard Daley's office in 1967 to draw up that agreement. CTA officials now contend that a new CTA chairman, Michael Cafferty, is not bound by the old agreement.

The C & NW argues that extending the line will further chop the rail line's revenue. It also contends that public funds should not be used to drain passengers from one transportation system to another.

The C & NW has written a bill which creates the Chicago Metropolitan Area Transportation System (CMATS), an agency which would end a project-by-project approach to mass transit. We've supported the CMATS proposal as the best means of developing a transportation system capable of meeting transportation needs in the 1970s and 1980s, and we continue our support.

We realize the C & NW may be stung financially by the CTA extension. Perhaps the impact could be eased by allowing no intermediate stops between Jefferson Park and O'Hare; perhaps more energy could be directed towards seeking support for the CMATS bill.

There is an obvious and pressing need for immediate action to stretch the CTA to O'Hare. The winners will be the air commuters, as well as the motorists who will find more room on the expressways as a result of the extension. For all of us, it will provide traffic and personal relief; it is needed, and we support it.

The decision to commit money to the Chicago project, however, comes under the shadow of a 1967

Irony Of Helium

The fiery death of the Hindenburg in 1937 ended the zeppelin era. The Germans had been forced to use highly flammable hydrogen gas because of the refusal of the United States, the world's only source of helium, to sell the non-flammable, lighter-than-air gas to the Nazis.

Now, some 34 years later, helium has been discovered in West Germany's Ruhr district, bubbling out of salt water in the bottom of mine shafts. According to experts, retrieval of the helium should be relatively easy.

If so, and if the gas is present in any significant quantities, the nation that was once denied helium by the United States may eventually aid this country to conserve its limited supply by serving as another source to meet worldwide scientific and industrial demand.

County Line

A County Civics Lesson, 1972

by ROGER CAPETTINI
Metropolitan Editor

A smallish, elderly man wandered into the board room on the fifth floor of the County Building shortly before 10 a.m., Monday and sat in one of the new plush, red chairs which ring the room.

He was mostly bald, overweight and chomped an unlighted cigar.

He looked pretty much like an alderman or a precinct captain, but was not. You could tell when he asked someone already seated if it would be alright if he took the seat he had his eye on.

No alderman would be caught dead asking a silly question like that.

He was more likely an interested homeowner, retired for several years, and anxious to find out how he was going to have to pay his property tax next year.

But before the county commissioners ever got to mulling their unanimous "ayes" for the four-installment tax plan, this visitor got a real education on the operation of the government of Cook County.

Mathew W. Bieszczat

Faster than James Gaughan, board clerk, could race through the printed agenda in his high-pitched, sing-song voice, the county commissioners were interrupting to utter motions to approve whatever was requested.

When Gaughan was about halfway through the fifth item on the agenda, he was interrupted. One of the commissioners, Charles Chaplin of Winnetka, wanted to ask a question.

Gaughan read the item again. "Transmitting a communication from the Clerk of the Circuit Court requesting that the Purchasing Agent be authorized to approve additional charges for moving records from 26th and California (Criminal Courts Building) to 730 W. Lake St., and in the amount of $11,315."

Democratic Comr. Mathew Bieszczat said, "Move approval," several times, each time with a little more volume. Chaplin, a Republican, continued to ask his question.

It was a simple question. "What for?"

"Read the communication," Board Pres. George Dunne ordered Gaughan.

The records are being moved from the basement of the court building, he explained, where they have been for some time, by A. Johnson & Sons, Inc. 3271 W. Armitage, Chicago.

He said a letter from the purchasing department claimed the added costs were "incurred through circumstances beyond our control," and that the other bids for the original contract were for roughly $19,000; $23,000; and $28,000 respectively.

"What was Johnson's original bid," asked Chaplin.

"The purchasing department told them they were seriously underbidding at the time," Gaughan continued. He related that loading dock, elevator and other problems at the court building caused serious delays.

Now Chaplin's Republican colleague, Floyd T. Fulle of Des Plaines joined the fray. "What was Johnson's original bid?"

Gaughan answered, "$11,315."

Three people began talking simultaneously. Chaplin was talking about re-bidding. Dunne said nothing would ever get done if work stopped every time there were delays, waiting for new bids.

Chaplin added, "I just don't think we should be so generous in awarding additional payments."

"This would make them the second highest bidder," Fulle argued, "by more than $2,000."

Now it was starting to get interesting and the taxpaying visitor scooted to the edge of his seat.

His thoughts were written all over his face — "Here it is, democracy in action. Checks and balances."

But just as suddenly as the debate began, it screeched to a halt.

Bieszczat saved the day. He must have been the one tabbed to have his name down for getting the thing through.

"Go on to the next matter, go on to the next matter," Move approval, his raspy voice shouted impatiently.

Within seconds his motion was seconded and passed by the standard tally, ten Democrats to five Republicans.

And the county board went on to the next matter — authorization for the printing of vehicle stickers, necessary for the collection of the new tax the board adopted because it needs more money.

The elderly man looked around the room with a big question mark on his face. It appeared he still was expecting someone to do something about that $11,315.

Falconry Condemned In Des Plaines?

Being a lover of wild living things (of which there are not too many left in this area), a problem has arisen of which I would like to have your readers' opinions.

The morning of January 29 there were six (or possibly seven) men in hunting logs, with long sticks (of which two or three had falcons or hawks of some description) probing around for wild rabbits just east of the Union Camp loading docks.

They would form a huge circle and gradually close in, releasing their birds when a rabbit was flushed into the open. This usually takes place on a Saturday or Sunday around 9 a.m.

Whether or not this type hunting is legal in Des Plaines, I have no idea, but I do know it's not very sporting like to encircle the bunnies and practically seal their fate.

Here I am faithfully feeding these wild creatures rabbit pellets, sunflower seeds and the like all winter long and along come the "mighty hunters" with their birds and long poles to eradicate the remaining few wild things still left to watch and enjoy. I wonder if the freshly killed rabbits are eaten by these hunters or left in the field just to exercise their birds. We've had pheasants here too, but no longer.

Now some may say a rabbit is only a rodent who trespasses all over their gardens and creates all sorts of havoc. Let me state that I have had gardens with beans, tomatoes, lettuce and carrots in them and not once have the bunnies ever taken any of these. They seem to prefer clover.

Only once, in 1967 following our huge snowstorm, did they do any damage and that was minimal, being a small amount of bark eaten off a pussy-willow bush, which, incidentally, is still flourishing. It was all they could reach at the time, the snow being over two feet deep.

My question, which the Des Plaines Police Dept. could not answer and neither could Johnson's Sporting Goods store, to whom the police referred me, is this: Is hunting with hawks or falcons (falconry) condoned in Des Plaines?

After reading about the falcon population diminishing in our country, is it legal to keep these birds in captivity?

Oakton Condemnation Draws Fire

First of all, I want to go on record that I firmly believe in what our constitution stands for. RESPECT FOR ONE'S INDIVIDUAL RIGHTS. AND, I MEAN TO FIGHT FOR MY RIGHTS.

I served in World War II along with four brothers. Now that's a lot of brothers for one war and I am proud of it. One was a Marine and he is now buried at Maryhill Cemetery in Niles, Ill.

There is something frightening about this situation which has developed in relation to the Oakton Jr. College Board and their condemnation of 105 acres of Maryhill Cemetery. Here we are with this land of ours at Maryhill. They (the Oakton Board) are saying — Get out, we want your land. Thus we may be forced to leave because we are in the way. If they condemn 105 acres now, with the way schools expand, they are bound to condemn the balance in the future.

Isn't a cemetery a necessity, don't we have to plan for it just like we plan for a school, a church?

Now, this does not sound like the democracy I grew up with. Instead it has the familiar ring that belonged to the World War II period in Europe. Oakton Board, do you still remember? Did you forget so soon?

We have schools that teach young students good Americanism and Fair Play. Philosophers that teach thoughts of wisdom, etc. Our history is something to be proud of, but we are putting into practice the very opposite of these teachings.

If this type of activity persists today, what kind of a world will we have tomorrow? We have our future leaders from today's students. Let us then set a better example of proper leadership.

Ask the average citizen and, they respond with shocked disbelief. They say, "Can they really, honestly, do this terrible thing, anytime, anywhere. Oh My God!"

I honestly feel there is a misunderstanding somewhere in the interpretation of this law of eminent domain and that this is a violation of our civil and religious rights. Locating a site does not mean grabbing it. There must be a better way of solving our problems. The school idea is fine. I'll vote for it and campaign for it, but in the name of Decency, build it on one of the other sites available, which they tell me will cost the taxpayers less money.

Build it on a site where no one is hurt. Then we can hold our heads up high and say with heartfelt thanks . . . THIS IS DEMOCRACY!

Business Today

by ROBERT E. SWEET

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — When the aerospace business began to sour several years ago and when the supersonic transport (SST) program was killed by Congress, the Boeing Co. found itself with a colossal collection of sophisticated junk.

Since then, with the help of what the company calls its "surplus sleuths," Boeing has sold more than $20 million worth of obsolete or worn-out items.

The acres of extra items ranged from axes, axes and axminsters to zippers and zincs.

At the same time, about $14 million worth of items from cancelled programs were re-directed into other active Boeing programs instead of purchasing new equipment.

IN CHARGE OF the aerospace "junk" yard in Seattle is King Dunham, who could pass for entertainer Tennessee Ernie Ford but who doesn't laugh away a penny of surplus if it can be sold.

His cardinal rule is: If you can't use it, get rid of it. "But don't assume that getting rid of it means waste, destruction or stockpiling," Dunham said. "Turn it into cash which the company can turn into products, jobs, debt retirement, dividends or new business opportunities."

It has been this type of economic philosophy that has kept Boeing alive and showing a profit although its payroll has dropped from 100,000 to 40,000 during the past three years while its inventory grew.

On an average day, Boeing sells about $5,000 worth of surplus items from its giant stockpile to persons who buy on the spot.

PROFESSIONAL AUCTIONEERS are brought in to help move expensive, exotic items in "million-dollar sales." And as many as 3,000 persons have turned out for a single auction.

The only type of sales of surplus items the firms discourages is direct, private sales to Boeing employees. Dunham contends this practice avoids rivalry and grumbling among employees who would be vying for an item and diminishes time spent by workers keeping track of a wanted gem as it progresses toward surplus status.

Dunham said he has learned some things about the surplus-junk business that even would apply to the average attic owner who wants to sell excess household baggage.

His advice is:

"If you have few things of high value, advertise for it at a preset price.

"If you have many small or medium value items, consider an auction.

"And if you have a mixed bag, some items of high and low value, then try a garage sale."

3 Little Words Can Be Costly

by CARLTON SMITH

There may be three words in the deed to your home that could prove quite costly at some future date. They are a prelude to another of life's injustices.

It's common practice for husband and wife to hold joint title to their residence. In the legal phrase, "in joint tenancy." This has a number of advantages — and one major disadvantage. It can result in a survivor paying a wacking big tax that's not justified. But right or wrong, it's hard to escape paying it.

This week's mail includes a plaintive letter from a man who's probably going to pay around $600 in-estate tax, for no very good reason. "I thought that when a house is jointly owned," he wrote, "there is no tax when the husband or the wife dies."

If he had only income tax in mind, he was right. Property that's inherited, residence or otherwise, isn't subject to income tax. But there are other kinds of taxes, and inheritance and estate taxes are aimed specifically at levying on inheritances, on the estate of the deceased.

WHEN A COUPLE hold title to property "in joint tenancy," it means in effect that each of the two persons owns the whole property. When there is "right of survivorship," the survivor becomes the sole owner upon the death of the other owner. Even if there is a will leaving the deceased owner's "share" to someone else, it's of no effect. The survivor takes full title, with no need for the property to pass through probate.

This is the chief advantage of joint ownership — and it can be a considerable one, as it's no secret that probate is generally expensive, often tying up property for many months, and can be not merely inconvenient but onerous.

Nevertheless, as our correspondent learned, the collectors of estate taxes will descend on you. The one who appeared at this home "took a picture outside, raised the valuation of the house," requested information about a joint bank account and some insurance proceeds, and informed the widower that the tax would be 5 per cent of the total value of his late wife's estate.

What happens here is that taxing authorities assume that joint tenants, who enjoy equal ownership of the property, contributed equally to its purchase. The wife may never have worked, never have had any income or means of her own. Every dollar that went into the house may have come out of the husband's earnings.

YET IT WILL be assumed that the wife helped to buy the house, and half its value will be included in her estate. It's actually, in this situation, a tax on something which represents the husband's earnings — and heaven knows they've been taxed enough during his lifetime.

The only way this tax can be successfully contested is to produce documentary evidence that the wife contributed no means of her own to the purchase. That could require detailed financial records covering their entire married life — something few people have.

If it's a choice between having the house become part of the probate estate, or escaping probate and paying an estate tax, it could be less expensive and less troublesome to pay the tax.

It can be possible to escape both, with some such device as a trust. The decision as to what's best in each case will be affected by individual state laws, the size of the tax that would be involved, and general estate planning.

In any event, before a husband and wife take joint title to property, an attorney should be consulted about the options, with all this in mind.

American Motor Club Changes Name

The American Oil Motor Club recently changed its name to Amoco Motor Club. The announcement was made by William H. Vehmeier, manager.

"Amoco is more streamlined," he said, "easier to say and write. Also the new name lies in with an overall system of corporate and product identification of parent company, Standard Oil of Indiana."

Vehmeier said, "The Amoco Motor Club will remain a wholly owned subsidiary of the American Oil Co. During 1972 both Amoco and American Oil Motor Club membership cards will be honored as new materials are being sent to all members at time of renewal."

Amoco is the largest motor club in the country he said. Presently no other oil company operates a motor club.

"We are now in our seventh year," said Vehmeier, "and business is great." Some features of the club are a trip guarantee policy, insurance, bail bond protection, trip routing, a quarterly magazine, and of course, our road and towing service.

Vehmeier mentioned the club's unique routing service in Dekalb, where Northern Illinois University students work on a "business demand" basis.

"When the club was first organized," Vehmeier continued, "it was restricted to credit cardholders of the American Oil Co. When the club was opened to the public, 46 million potential club members were created." The club has offices in Chicago.

Business Optimism In Purchasing Group

Reports from the monthly questionnaire sent to a representative group of the Purchasing Management Association of Chicago indicates a continued business optimism for early 1972.

However new orders and backlog do not give a solid foundation for this outlook. The dramatic increase in those reporting higher prices in Phase II is cause for renewed concern about inflation. The report indicates there is ample unused plant capacity to handle further increases in production.

IACP Calls Legislation Unenforceable

'Implied Consent' Hurts Us: Police

by TOM LAUE

SPRINGFIELD (UPI) — The Illinois Association of Chiefs of Police is complaining to Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie and the General Assembly that parts of the state's new "implied consent" law are "unnecessary, irrelevant and an obstacle" as well as a "waste of public funds."

The charges are contained in a resolution adopted by the 600-member association. The group's executive secretary, Jacob Novak, is making copies of the resolution for Ogilvie and every member of the Legislature.

"We're for the idea behind implied consent 100 per cent," said Novak, "but we contend it will be almost impossible to carry out the law because it requires police to chauffeur a suspected drunk driver anywhere in the state if he wants to take a drunkometer test independent of the one given by police."

"When a fellow can demand that his own personal physician or someone else examine him as well as the police and there are no limits put on it," Novak said, "these drunk drivers could have the police running all over the state."

NOVAK'S OBJECTIONS were echoed by county and local police.

Gerald Pratt, Winnebago County sheriff and president of the Illinois Sheriff's Association, said the "vague transport portion" of implied consent makes the measure "unenforceable" and Jacksonville Police Chief Charles Runkel said the "legislative intent may have been to allow the police to transport drivers within reason but the law doesn't say so."

"This may not mean much to Chicago-area police," Runkel said, "but it does to us downstate. We could be making long trips to meet the provision of the law. Imagine the money and time we could be wasting."

Under implied consent, a driver ticketed for a traffic offense must agree to a drunkometer test if asked or else lose his license for three months. He can also ask for an independent test wherever he likes and the police must take him there.

THE IACP ALSO is upset because the law requires new machines to automatically record how drunk a driver is. On July 1, state, county and local police no longer will be allowed to use the 400 manually run breathalyzers currently in use throughout the state.

The manual devices were purchased for about $750 each by police departments around the state beginning in the fall of 1969.

The cost of replacing them, according to State Police Capt. Daniel O'Brien, could run between $1 million and $1.5 million since the costs of four types of automatic devices the state police are looking at range from $2,000 to $3,000 apiece.

So far, said O'Brien, who heads the state police chemical testing section, "I've seen only one of the machines, but we hope to have looked at all four by mid-March."

After the state police pick one of the devices, it still remains for the Illinois Department of Public Health to give final approval before anyone can buy the machine — another thing that triggers Novak's ire.

"There aren't two dozen of these machines available in the country right now," Novak charged. "If they're not available, how the hell can you train people to run them? July 1 will come and go and we won't be able to enforce the law at the rate we're going."

FOR THESE REASONS, Novak said in the IACP resolution he drafted, the police chiefs "condemn these requirements

Chiefs Here Still Optimistic

In the Northwest suburbs, municipal police department heads are still optimistic that the new Illinois law will be enforced here. Police department officials indicated they were hopeful the necessary equipment would be available by July 1 and have begun studying specifications of the required equipment.

Several departments have included requests for funds to buy the devices in budget proposals for the year, and have indicated they will seek the help of state subsidies for funds.

as unnecessary, irrelevant and an obstacle" to effective police implementation of the antidrunk driver law. He further describes them as a "waste of public funds."

The resolution also says the IACP regards the automatic machine provision as an "unintended but nevertheless real and serious legislative criticism of the integrity of the more than 600 certified breathalyzer testers" in Illinois.

Those who pushed for the automatic devices when the issue was debated in the Legislature said automatic machines would wipe out fears, chiefly those of urban blacks, that implied consent would be used by police to harass blacks.

"Actually," Novak said, "I personally feel this law was written to retard us rather than to help us, but we've got to give the lawmakers the benefit of the doubt in the resolution."

"THE LEGISLATURE in Illinois has never been in favor of implied consent and the only reason it passed this time was so they could conform with federal regulations so they could keep getting federal money," Novak said.

U.S. Transportation Sec. John Volpe twice wrote Ogilvie last fall warning Illinois would lose some $40 million in federal highway funds if the state had no implied consent by June this year.

"So they passed the bills and the executive departments got what they wanted — federal funds," Novak said. "But the law is a hell of a blow to the people who have to make it work, the police in villages and towns around the state."

"This is going to cost them a hell of a lot of money, time and trouble," Novak said, "and it didn't have to be."

'Bridge' Staff In Meade Talks

Two staff members of The Bridge, a community youth services organization, have been invited to participate in a sociological workshop with noted anthropologist Margaret Meade Saturday at Immaculate Heart of Mary High School in Westchester.

Jay Pace and Mrs. Cynthia Sherly, consultant for youth at The Bridge, will lead group sessions on the Counter Culture and the Youth Culture. The Bridge was invited to participate because it has first-hand knowledge and resource information in those two areas.

The seminar, entitled "Education: Preservation, Determinant or Detriment of Culture," will be an all-day affair sponsored by the Archdiocese of Chicago School Board Curriculum Department. The program will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 5 p.m.

The guest speaker, Miss Meade, has performed extensive field work in cultural anthropology. Other featured guest panelists will be Ronald Edmonds, author and assistant superintendent for school and community affairs at Michigan State University Dept. of Education; Neil Postman, author and professor of English education at New York University; and Rudolph Vecoli, author and professor of history at the University of Minnesota.

Advance registration is required for attendance at the workshop.

THE WESTGARD'S SON. Scott, 2, Sylvia Westgard. It hangs in the living room of their home.

THE BARNYARD SCENE. This painting is made from a Mrs. Westgard uses both a palette knife and brush to sketch of a farm located off Arlington Heights Road. achieve her desired texture.

While Her Son Naps, This Mother Paints

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Time for painting for Sylvia Westgard is more or less regulated by her son's napping hours. When Scottie, 2 years old, is bedded down in the afternoon, she's free to bring out her brushes and palette knives.

In the evenings, the studio in the Westgards' Buffalo Grove home is reserved for Sylvia's artist husband, Dick, art director of the Super Group, an advertising arm of Paddock Corporation.

Sylvia is being featured as the artist of the month in the Art Corner of the Des Plaines National Bank. Originally from Des Plaines, Sylvia is a graduate of Maine East High School and the Art Institute of Chicago, having received a B.A. in fine arts from the latter.

IN ADDITION to her paintings, Sylvia is a commercial artist, doing free lance work, including fashion illustrations for various merchants in the area. She and her husband met as staff artists on the former Chicago's American.

To distinguish among the paintings hung on the walls of their home, one must check out the signatures. Sylvia always signs hers with her first name. Dick uses Westgard. Often the subject matter is much the same ... only the medium and treatment are different.

"The northwest suburbs are very rich in art," said Mrs. Westgard. "One indication is the number of art fairs and art leagues. There are a lot of good artists living in the area and also craftsmen."

Sylvia belongs to the Des Plaines Art Guild and the newly organized Community Arts League of Wheeling and Buffalo Grove.

She has exhibited at many art fairs in the northwest area and received awards from Randhurst, Des Plaines and Mount Prospect art fairs and the Artists Guild of Chicago. Sylvia has also received a second prize and honorable mention from the Society of Illustrators of New York.

"PEOPLE TODAY are more aware of art because of the art fairs and paintings now available in all the stores and small boutiques. Of course, when you're shopping while an art fair is in progress, you can't help but notice what's going on."

However, Sylvia added that she feels it is more difficult now to sell original work. The mass-produced, inexpensive prints flooding the market are one primary reason.

"If I sell one piece at a place where my work is on display I consider I'm doing well," she said. "I've been exhibiting now for 10 years and it wasn't always like this. But now you can buy reproduced prints a lot cheaper."

"I ALSO THINK many artists are over-pricing their work too," she added. "I price my pieces according to how much time I put into each."

But selling her paintings is not Mrs. Westgard's primary objective. She paints because she enjoys it ... working with both oils and acrylics.

She does not limit herself to one particular subject matter and has even done quite a bit of abstract work. Mrs. Westgard also captures on canvas animals and nature scenes.

SHE AND HER husband often go out sketching together. Several of her paintings are made from sketches of an old farm located close to their home off Arlington Heights Road. One of these is included in the exhibit at the Des Plaines National Bank.

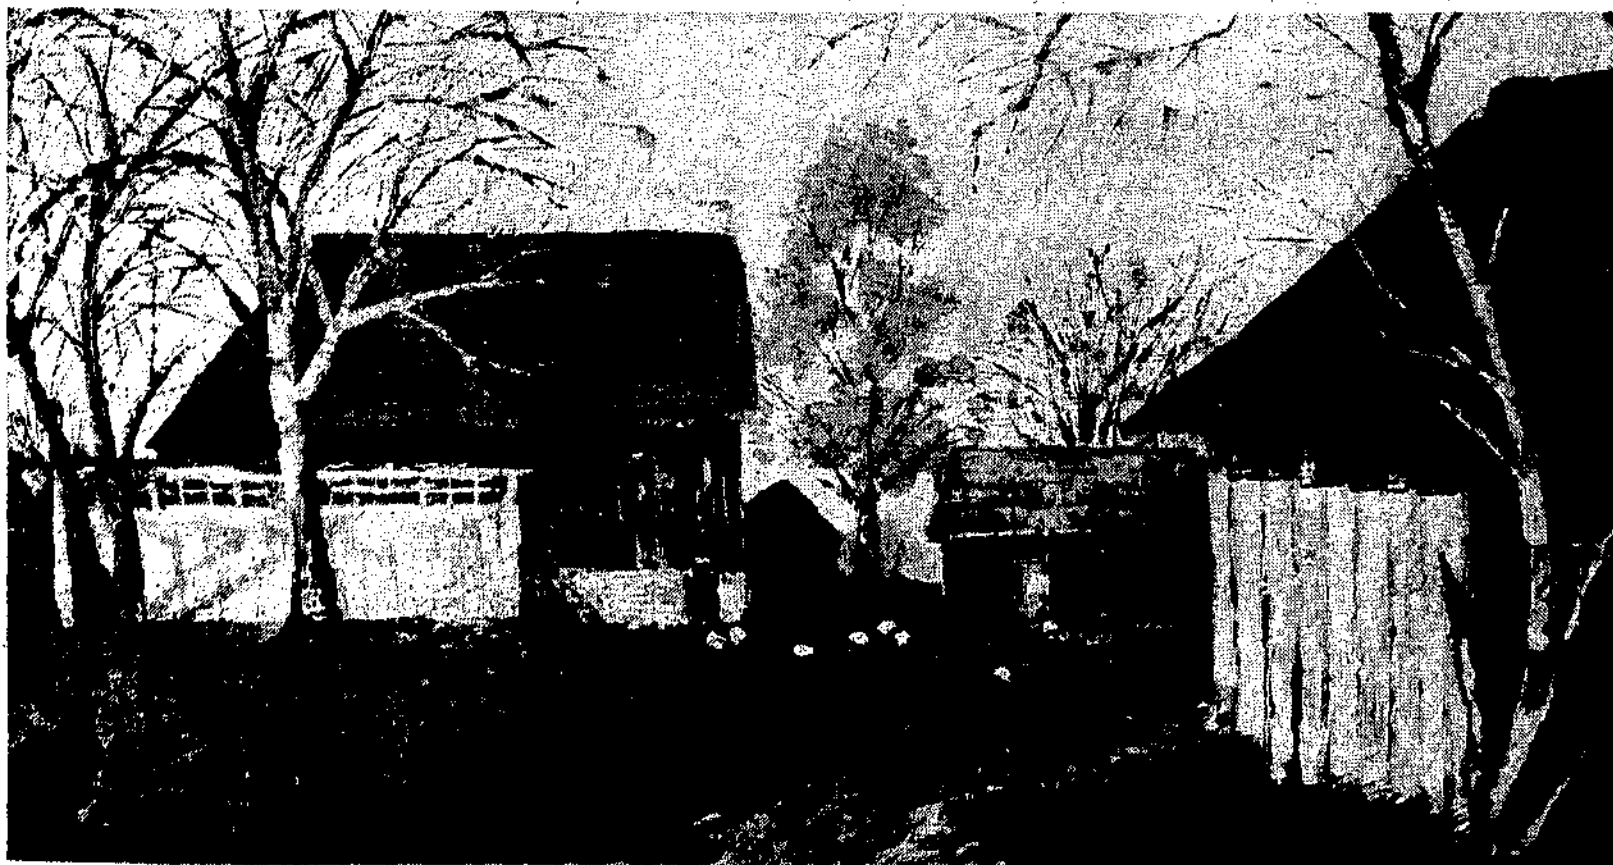

"I did a lot of sketching when we went out West last summer on vacation," she said. "And I've painted a lot from pictures I took while in Europe one summer."

It's rather early yet to determine just how much artistic talent is rubbing off on little Scott whose favorite pastime already is mimicking his parents by sitting at the drawing board creating his own works of art.

"One thing for sure," laughed Mrs. Westgard, "he is getting a lot of coaching from his parents."

Of all the hand-painted or transfer-printed china your grandma received as wedding gifts, none is more valuable today than the fine translucent ware bearing the mark, or some variation of it, "R.S. Prussia," printed in red with a star over the initials, encircled with a greenish wreath. The simple little mark added to a piece of fine German porcelain makes it many times as valuable as one without the mark.

Besides the word "Prussia," some R.S. bears the word "Germany" (not so valuable) or of a particular region such as Suhl, Thuringia, Tüllowitz or Poland China. All these marks designate the works of three brothers, Reinhold, Erdmann and Oscar Schlegelmilch. (Don't try to pronounce it.) These three worked in the above mentioned areas on the continent during the latter part of the 19th century.

Most of their ware is transfer-printed by a decal process and may be floral, scenic with birds, windmills, etc., or portraits of classic ladies. Some pieces have hand painting added, especially about the borders.

A PECULIARITY of R.S. china is the shading of the colors and the deep relief molding on some of the pieces. After seeing several good pieces, it is fairly easy to identify, even without the aid of the famous mark on the back. The surface of the ware may be a pearly, iridescent, a dull satin or a highly glazed finish.

Around the turn of the century, a bride received and treasured a piece of this china, or if she were blessed with rich relatives, perhaps an entire dinner set.

In one source I read about the china, a couple recalled that they ordered an entire set, service for 12, for $185. Quite a sum in 1900, but imagine what they would think if they saw one bowl priced at that figure today!

What is it that makes this china so favored over almost any other contemporary ware? Strangely enough, it seems to be the "R.S. Prussia" mark. A bowl decorated just as beautifully, but unmarked, will bring only a fraction of the price of a marked piece. It is one of the strange vagaries of the antiques world. Another type of china may be just as handsome, or even artistically superior, but it is that magic little red and green stamp that dealers look for and that sets their adrenalin pumping.

"POOR COUSINS."

BY ANDE MANNERS.

Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, $8.95
From 1881 until the passage of the American Immigration Act of 1924 nearly 3 million Russian Jews, victims of czarist pogroms, streamed into the United States.

They really were "poor cousins." They had been preceded by German Jews who had a half century to establish themselves in the American Dream, and who viewed this avalanche of Yiddish-speaking refugees with everything from genteel horror to fears they would set off a wave of anti-Semitism.

But instead of turning away, the Germans, armed with high-minded compassion and generosity, sailed into the job of making their Russian cousins more presentable by wooing them into non-controversial work, conservative politics and liberal Judaism.

In her first book Mrs. Manners offers a delightful and detailed account of this Americanization process. "Poor Cousins" is spiced with that wry Yiddish humor kept through years of adversity, and loaded with sharp vignettes of how these bearded and babushkaed newcomers not only survived the ghetto life of New York's Lower East Side, but also the "Our Crowd" Germans' cultural onslaught.

"...GLORY."

BY VLADIMIR NABOKOV.
McGraw-Hill, $6.95

This last of Nabokov's Russian language novels to be published in English is threaded with tantalizing autobiographical detail—flight from the Russian revolution, Cambridge University, emigre life in Berlin.

But why Nabokov warns that the "fun" of the book should not be sought in pinpointing the convergence of hero Martin Edelweiss' history with author Nabokov's life.

"It is to be sought in the echoing and linking of minor events, in back-and-forth switches, which produce an illusion of impetus; in an old daydream directly becoming the blessing of the ball huggled to one's chest, or in the casual vision of Martin's mother grieving beyond the time-frame of the novel in an abstraction of the future that the reader can only guess at."

Martin is gifted with the ability to make his fantasies come true and it is this gift that gives the novel its resonances and complexities and its circularity of structure.

He dreams and then becomes an exile, a lover, a star footballer for his Cambridge college and a traveler. Finally he disappears into his dream of himself as a mysterious visitor to "Zoorland," his birthplace transformed into Soviet Russia.

"CLEOPATRA."

BY ERNIE BRADFORD
Harcourt Brace Jovanovich, $12.75

Bradford's "Cleopatra" is not the treacherous siren of our school history books. Wide research has helped him flesh out the personality of the last of the Ptolemys who dedicated her life to keeping Egypt independent of Rome. She was unsuccessful, but while she lived the culture of classic Greece had its golden autumn in her many-splendored capital, Alexandria.

She was no beauty, but her sustained allure enthralled the two most powerful

Romans of their time — Caesar and Antony. She was almost a modern woman — bold, intellectual, a brilliant conversationalist in five languages, and a political strategist of the first water. She truly loved Caesar and Antony, but that did not prevent her from manipulating them.

The book is fabulously illustrated with color photographs of Egypt and Greco-Roman sites, of sculpture, frescoes, jewelry and coins. But its chief strength is Bradford's ability to excite the reader about the larger-than-life personalities of the period and their complex maneuverings for power. As a popular historian, he has few peers.

"NO BRIDGES BLOWN."

BY WILLIAM B. DREUX.

Notre Dame University Press, $8.95

If James Thurber's Walter Mitty had gone to war as an American agent behind-the-enemy-lines in World War II, he might have lived William B. Dreux's book.

Dreux, now a New Orleans attorney, dropped into German-occupied France in 1944. The Office of Strategic Services (OSS) sent him to blow up bridges and do other mayhem to help pave the way for the advance of the Allied armies pushing inland from Normandy. Dreux had a strange war.

He made contact with the French resistance he was supposed to lead into battle. But things went awry.

There was the rattletrap car ride down a German-controlled road. When stopped by SS stormtroopers, one of Dreux's fellow agents threw up his hands to surrender but Dreux just shouted obscenities — the confused Germans backed off in puzzlement.

There were the "soldiers" of the resistance Dreux mustered to lead into battle. They turned out to be Boy Scout types.

It is a modest and witty and enjoyable memoir of one man's war. And it says a lot about the little people of war.

"THE GREAT MOGHULS."

BY BAMBER GASCOIGNE.

Harper & Row, $15.

Bamber Gascoigne, 36, is chairman of the successful British television program, "University Challenge," and his wife Christina, 32, is a professional photographer. To write — and illustrate — "The Great Moghuls" they traveled through India and Pakistan for six years in the footsteps of the great moghuls.

The moghuls were the emperors of India in the 17th century, men so rich and powerful — and with such great collections of jewels — they would make a simple maharajah of today a pale, poor imitation.

Perhaps the best known of the Moghuls were Shah Jahan, who built the Taj Mahal in memory of his wife, Mumtaz Mahal, who died in childbirth; and Jahan-gir, who built the great marble gardens of Shahjimar, complete even to pools in which the fish swam with solid gold rings through their noses.

The moghuls were ruthless, sometimes bloodthirsty warriors, who ruled with absolute authority, and the book details their histories in vast detail — while glossing over the pitiful plight of the people they ruled.

Mrs. Gascoigne has done some splendid illustrations, notably the color prints of the Indian art the moghuls fostered along with architecture.

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

by TOM VON MALDER

Johnny Mathis has been around for a long time. That's the thing with interpreters of popular songs. Given a good voice and a competent selection of other's songs, they can perform indefinitely.

Mathis has the necessary good voice and in "You've Got A Friend" (Columbia C30740) the selection of songs has been very competent. There are contributions by Carole King, Kris Kristofferson, Gordon Lightfoot, the Bee Gees, Lennon-McCartney and James Taylor, among others. Yet often the album's overproduction — lush choral and orchestral arrangements — detract from Mathis' fine singing.

Miss King's songs have become hits for middle of the road artists for years. So it's no surprise when Mathis runs to her for two of her most recent hits. Unfortunately, "It's Too Late" falls victim to that basic fault — overproduction. But happily, the over-full choral work is dropped in the other King tune, "You've Got A Friend." This is the best song in the album, opening with simple piano accompaniment. Then Mathis' voice is double-tracked and a harmonica is added.

KRISTOFFERSON'S "Help Me Make It Through the Night" is given a good rhythm and blues treatment and even the chorus helps. But the chorus ruins an otherwise fine version of the Bee Gees' "How Can You Mend A Broken Heart?"

Again, in Taylor's "Long Ago And Far Away," the choral addition is too heavy — but then if you've heard Joni Mitchell's simple and pure backing of Taylor in the original version, no other would ever satisfy your ear. The song has a fade-out that grates too.

The Beatles' "We Can Work It Out" is fine until near the end. Then the French horns enter and the orchestra acts as if it's playing the final movement of a symphony. "If We Only Have Love" is over-orchestrated from the beginning, and so much so at the end that it becomes unbearable.

THE OLD, SIMPLE Mathis treatment does come through here and there. Lightfoot's "If You Could" is the best example. A song called "If" is another. We would probably hear something great if Mathis left the orchestra and chorus home the next time he enters the recording studio.

The album has a challenge on the back cover for the listener: "In this wrapper is the music they made. Can you dig it?" The inside, however, is no challenge. Paul McCartney and his new group Wings, in their album "Wild Life" (Apple SW 3386), have produced a bomb.

The album has only eight songs but they seem to last forever, going on and on when there really was no point to their being written in the first place. We are informed on the cover that most of the tracks were recorded in a three-day span. That's about as long as they'll be remembered.

THE FIRST SIDE is baby food-rock. McCartney seems to have left even his bubblegum at home. "Mumbo" and "Bip Bop" say and do nothing. "Love Is Strange" (a non-McCartney song) creates an image of the junior high school prom where everyone is just prancing along except for those crazy fools in the corner trying out that new step. What's it called? Rock 'n' Roll?

Yes, the songs sound that old. Side two is pock-marked by Linda McCartney's too harsh voice on "Some People Never Know" and infantile lyrics, such as "You are my song Linda-o. You are my singer." In his "Tomorrow," McCartney does not come up with a sequel to "Yesterday," rather he finds some pretty stale cliches.

"DEAR FRIEND" has some strange sounds in the background that make me almost like it, but "Wild Life" fails as an ecology song. "Across the Universe" was so much better.

On occasion you can hear something that reminds you of the Beatles. Alas, it is true they no longer exist as a group. Yet if I have to choose among the former Beatles as to who is turning out good music on his own, I would have to go to John Lennon or George Harrison.

Sorry, Paul. I just can't dig it.

Entr'acte

Sandra Reimann of Schaumburg, vice president of Schaumburg Festival Theatre, has found that her enthusiasm for a hobby has turned into a full-time project.

While rehearsing for her leading role as Helena in "A Midsummer Night's Dream," opening at the end of February, Sandy is also supervising the properties committee and handling the layout and typing work for the program.

In a moment of madness, she also volunteered to take charge of advance reservations for the production, devising an entirely new group rate plan. Information on discounts and advance reservations for "A Midsummer Night's Dream" are available through Sandy, 882-1894. Performances are Feb. 26 and 27; March 4 and 5. Two performances are staged each of the two Sundays.

One At A Time

NEW YORK (UPI) — Finding time for smaller grooming practices is often difficult with a demanding infant in the home. The solution for the new mother; do the personal grooming tasks separately on a daily basis. Plan a manicure for one day, a pedicure the next. Try to include one beauty routine in each day. Finding the extra hours to catch up may be impossible if you wait to do all the grooming things at once.

ARTIST HARRY JOHNSON will be making a return engagement at Carson's Randhurst Store, first floor, Monday through March 4. He will be available for portrait sketching. Advance appointments are suggested.

Talent Of Nine Villages

Actors from nine communities will be performing in the fourth production by the Schaumburg Festival Theatre, the Shakespearean play "A Midsummer Night's Dream." Performances are Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 26 and 27 and March 4 and 5, at the Schaumburg Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Drive.

One of Shakespeare's well known comedies, the romantic fantasy has been modernized by the theater group which is the first in the area to present a Shakespearean production.

While preserving the story and essence of the play, certain cuts have been made in the lengthier speeches. Modern costuming and staging will also be utilized to heighten the appeal for contemporary audiences.

A MUSICAL SCORE will be played by harpist Diane Hrachovec of Elmhurst during the two acts. A special intermission program will feature reproductions of costumes and historical drawings from the Elizabethan period during which time the play was written.

Playing the male lead roles of Theseus, Lyander, Demetrius and Oberon will be Steve Heller of Hanover Park, Tom Fitzgerald of Palatine, Joe Kearns of St. Charles and Fran Getz of Hoffman Estates. Puck will be played by Glenn Markgraf of Schaumburg while the roles of Bottom, Quince, Flute, Snout, Snug and Robin Starveling will be taken by Ron Isaacson of Streamwood, Ted Thomas of Elk Grove Village, Dan Carrigan of Skaneateles, Monti Leraas of Schaumburg, Paul Root of Palatine and Ken O'Conner of Rolling Meadows.

FEMALE LEADS of Hermia, Helena, Hippolyta and Titania are being played by Barbara Ashby, Sandy Reimann, Sonja Leraas and Sue Werner, all of Schaumburg. Judy LaFollette of Streamwood will be Philostrate while Gretchen Shaw of Elgin will appear as Titania's handmaiden, Fairy.

Additional members of the cast are Sherri Isaacson of Streamwood, Candy Thomas of Elk Grove Village, Gerry Rubinkowski of Rolling Meadows, Harry Mamach of Schaumburg and John Snyder of Rolling Meadows.

Joe McAuliffe of Schaumburg is directing the production. A veteran actor with the Festival Theatre, he studied drama at Northwestern University and has performed and directed for most of the theater groups in the area. His wife, Ruth, also active in community theater, has designed the special sets and costumes for this play.

ASSISTING McAULIFFE with direction are Barbara Ashby and Lynn Hrachovec. Lighting is being provided by John Grabowski of Prospect Heights and operated by John Neidvicky of Schaumburg. Meg Sculerati of Schaumburg is stage manager; Sonja Leraas, production coordinator; Monti Leraas, sound manager; and Beverly Fitzgerald of Palatine is serving as house manager. Other production members are Richard Ashby, Mark Hrachovec and Rudy Waesche of Mount Prospect.

Performances on Sunday, Feb. 27 and March 5, are 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. Curtain time on Saturday, Feb. 26 and March 4, is 8:30 p.m. Tickets, 882-1894. Group rates are available for parties of 15 or more.

Free Puppet Show

"Gulliver '72," the 1972 version of "Puppets and People" will be presented in two different area locations next week.

Two performances of the puppet show, loosely based on "Gulliver's Travels," will be presented Wednesday at Recreation Park, 500 E. Miner in Arlington Heights. Show times are 4 and 7:30 p.m. The Wednesday performances are being sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Then on Friday, Feb. 18, The Buffalo Grove Junior Woman's Club will sponsor the puppet show at Booth Tarkington School, Anthony and Scott Streets in Wheeling. Curtain is 7:30 p.m.

THE JUNIOR Woman's Club is presenting "Gulliver '72" as a part of its fine arts program, a division of their Community Services Program. All performances of "Gulliver '72" are open to the public free of charge.

"Gulliver '72" will retell the tale of a young man's visit to three strange and fanciful lands.

In Lilliput, he will visit the little people who are terrorized by his gigantic size. In Brobdingnag, he will be terrorized in turn by the 8-foot giants who are natives of that land.

In Laputa, the floating world, Gulliver will meet the people of the counter culture who think they are living free of all restraint.

How Gulliver is treated by these mythical inhabitants will gradually reveal to the hero that he alone must take responsibility for his own life and actions.

"PUPPETS AND PEOPLE" is one of many free street programs offered by GULLIVER MEETS up with the Lilliputians during his travels in "Gulliver '72," a puppet show coming to Arlington Heights and Wheeling.

The Illinois Arts Council with the financial support of the National Endowment for the Arts and private donations.

Valentine's Is Lady's Day

by PATRICIA MC CORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — If statistics mean anything, here's one that seems to indicate women are more aggressive than men in the love game.

The statistic in this instance: 80 per cent of Valentines are bought by women. Presumably, they're sent by women, too.

To give you some idea of the furious pace at which women purchase Valentines there is another statistic — more than half a billion Valentines will be sent through the mails by Monday, the day on which Valentine Day falls this year.

Now if that's not bad enough — women buying 80 per cent of 500 million cards — there's this additional facet of the Valentine card scene to consider:

Fully one third of the cards going through the mail will be either unsigned or marked "guess who."

THE WOMEN WHO buy most of the cards also like to play their love game by being coy!

The statistics come from Norman Rowland, of Hallmark Cards. He's not surprised at the extent to which women keep the Valentines flying. A woman introduced Valentine cards to America.

Esther Howland, the daughter of a Worcester, Mass., stationer, did it by deciding to make her own Valentines after receiving one from England.

In 1840, a leap year just as this one is, she put her first cards on sale in her father's shop and quickly sold them all.

Soon she was making so many Valentines that she had to have people helping her. In her lifetime, Valentine historians say, she designed and sold thousands. But all of the drum-beating on behalf of love never came full circle in her life. Miss Howland died a spinster.

Its Grand Opening

"We have taken special precautions to protect our guests from the Mushroom Invasion at the grand opening of our new gallery," said Bertha Barboro, Countryside Art Center president.

She was referring to possible unusual happenings when Countryside Art Center, with the cooperation of Michael Wyman Galleries in Chicago, presents a showing of Harry Boursas, who will display his new drawings. Boursas, a well known Chicago artist, has been actively drawing mushrooms since 1964.

An opening reception of the new gallery, 414 N. Vail in Arlington Heights, will be held Sunday, Feb. 20, from 2-4 p.m. It is the first chance to view Boursas' work.

Ravinia Expands Season

Ravinia will expand its regular season of music and dance to 10 weeks, beginning June 19 and continuing through Aug. 26, to be followed by a theater season, announced Edward Gordon, executive director of Ravinia Festival.

Adding two weeks to the customary eight-week pre-theater season, Gordon has scheduled an opening week of ballet by the City Center Jeffrey Ballet Company, making its Ravinia debut June 19 through 24, and eight weeks of classical, contemporary and popular music, instead of the usual seven weeks. The closing week of ballet by the New York City Ballet, Aug. 21 through 26, marks the company's 13th consecutive Ravinia engagement.

As previously announced, the traditional gala concert by the Chicago Symphony Orchestra opens the music season on Tuesday evening, June 27, with the orchestra's first performance of Benjamin Britten's monumental "War Requiem."

Ravinia's second major release of artists and programs for the 37th Festival includes concerti, symphonic repertoire for several concerts and a partial listing of popular attractions.

NEWLY ANNOUNCED soloists with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra are world-famous pianists Peter Frankl on July 6 and John Browning on July 11, with Istvan Kertesz, Ravinia's principal conductor, on the podium. Three stellar vocalists of the Metropolitan Opera will make their Ravinia debuts: Mignon Dunn, mezzo-soprano; George Shirley, tenor; and Justino Diaz, lyric bass, appearing July 22 in Berlioz' "Romeo and Juliet." Seiji Ozawa will conduct.

Bonita Valente, internationally-acclaimed lyric soprano makes her first Festival engagement on July 29, under the direction of Lawrence Foster. Renowned soprano Eileen Farrell, the leading Wagnerian tenor, Jess Thomas in his Ravinia debut, and celebrated concert and opera basso, Ara Berberian will be featured in Act I of Wagner's "The Valkyrie" on Aug. 8, conducted by James Levine.

The famed conductor of the Boston Pops, Arthur Fiedler, has been added to the roster of distinguished maestri appearing this summer. He will conduct the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in a Sunday evening popular concert at 7:30 o'clock on July 9, featuring trumpeter Dizzie Gillespie and his Quintet in their Festival debut.

LAST DECEMBER, Ravinia announced its new summer education program in affiliation with the Northwestern University School of Music. Areas of study in the initial project will be chamber music, violin, cello and piano. The LaSalle String Quartet and Janos Starker were listed as Ravinia artists who will participate in master classes, seminars and lecture/demonstrations at Ravinia. Itzhak Perlman has now joined the guest artists who will be involved in the Ravinia-Northwestern program. A pianist will be announced soon.

In releasing several attractions scheduled for the Wednesday and Friday programs, Ravinia's executive director said the number of popular events will be increased this summer because of the longer season. Buffy Sainte-Marie, a star of pop, rock, folk, country, jazz and even symphonic music, will make her Ravinia debut on Wednesday, June 28. The Preservation Hall Jazz Band brings its classic style of jazz to Ravinia for the third time on Friday, June 30.

ELLA FITZGERALD, the reigning queen of songstresses, will return for her 12th Ravinia engagement on July 5. Singer-composer Don McLean, whose recording of his "American Pie" is No. 1 this week on Billboard's Chart of top 200 LP's, will make his first appearance at the Festival on Friday, July 7. Arlo Guthrie, singer-composer whose albums include "Alice's Restaurant," will make his Ravinia debut on Wednesday, July 12. Another young singer-songwriter, Melanie, will appear in her first Ravinia engagement on Friday, July 14. On July 19, B. B. King will bring his soulful blues to Ravinia for the third time.

The nostalgic big band sound will come to Ravinia on Friday, Aug. 11, when Tex Beneke, Ray Eberle and The Modernaires with Paula Kelly and their Orchestra star in music made famous by Glenn Miller.

MARY TRAVERS, the "Mary" of Peter, Paul and Mary, will return to Ravinia on her own in a concert on Wednesday, July 26. The well-known rock group, Blood, Sweat & Tears, will make its Ravinia debut on Friday, Aug. 4, and singer-pianist Roberta Flack, who made her successful debut at Ravinia last summer, will appear at the Festival on Friday, Aug. 18.

She has since appeared with Ann Sothern in "Personal Appearance" at the Arlington Park Theatre.

for her supporting role of Dan Dailey's younger daughter in "HOLIDAY FOR LOVERS," now being staged at PHEASANT RUN PLAYHOUSE.

The Jefferson Awards are given annually to honor professional theater productions and actors in the Chicago area.

ZSA ZSA GABOR opens next Thursday at the ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE in "FORTY CARATS," while BARBARA BRITTON stars in the same play at PHEASANT RUN PLAYHOUSE beginning Feb. 22. Theatergoers have a choice.

Plenty Of Potential

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — Cable television has the potential of becoming a two-way educational system in every home, a means of conducting nationwide polling and voting, a replacement for local postal delivery or a way to carry out 24-hour surveillance of entire cities.

That's the view of Dr. Norman Balaabanian, professor of electrical and computer engineering at Syracuse University.

Lorne Narrates

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Bonanza's" Lorne Green will narrate an hour-long television documentary based on the 40 remaining members of Peru's primitive Indian Tribe, the Ango-Tero.

TV Notes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Universal Television has produced for the ABC network a one-hour film, "For the Woman I Love," about Britain's former King Edward VIII and the commoner for whom he gave up the throne, Wallis Simpson. Richard Chamberlain plays the current Duke of Windsor, and Faye Dunaway is "the woman."

Peggy Lee makes her television dramatic debut in a future episode of ABC's "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law." The story is "Smiles from Yesterday," and Miss Lee plays a former singer-songwriter involved in a plagiarism suit.

NBC will have a May 7 one-hour attraction entitled "The Special London Bridge Special," featuring a number of the big name performers and, of course, London Bridge. This musical fantasy winds up in Lake Havasu City, Ariz., to which this historic structure has been transported to become a tourist attraction.

CBS is importing an Italian-made series, "The Life of Leonardo da Vinci," for broadcasting this year. There are five parts dealing with the various aspects of the remarkable career of the Italian artist. The backgrounds are authentic. Philippe Leroy appears as Leonardo, and Giulio Bosetti is narrator.

Another Lockhart

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Anne Lockhart, 18, daughter of June and granddaughter of the late Gene Lockhart will appear in "Fuzz" starring Burt Reynolds.

'Sanford And Son' Viewers Lucky Redd Foxx Held On For 35 Years

by DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Redd Foxx has finally made it and now he can afford those $250 suits he wore when he was a kid.

The saga of Foxx' rise to the top is one of a man who is behind schedule. He should have been a big star years ago but he was black. Those were the days when black comics played to black audiences only.

So, for almost 35 years, Foxx was known as the funniest of the black comics, but he had to play small clubs and theaters. Sometimes he was broke and sometimes he was stranded in strange cities.

He almost quit a few times. He could paint and he thought maybe that was what he should do. But always he stuck it out for one more week, and now he's on top. Now he's starring in "Sanford and Son," NBC's new hit show from the same team (Norman Lear and Bud Yorkin) who gave us "All in the Family."

SUCCESS IS LONG overdue. Foxx has a brand new, silver cigarette case. He opens it up and inside there is an engraved message: "We're glad you waited 35 years — Norman and Bud."

Now that the waiting is over, and success is his, Foxx is happy with the way things have turned out. But it has been a long, often hard life.

It began in St. Louis, where he was born with the name John Sanford. (On the show he plays Fred Sanford — Sanford is his real family name, and Fred was his brother, who died five years ago. Demond Wilson plays his son, Lamont, and Lamont was the name of one of Foxx' oldest friends.)

He moved to Chicago as a boy, where his mother worked as a domestic for the Grabner family. Harry Grabner was a rich man, a vice president of the Chicago White Sox. Redd got all of Grabner's hand-me-downs when he was a teenager and walked around in expensive suits and the finest shoes.

GRABNER'S DAUGHTER went to Hollywood, became a starlet named June Travis, and made a movie with Jimmy Cagney. Young Foxx saw the movie a dozen times — it was the first time anybody he knew was in show business — and decided he wanted to be an entertainer, too.

He'd always been a funny kid. He used to sit on the mailbox in front of the Dixie Drug Store and do funny bits to amuse the people passing by. He started out with some of his friends. They formed a tramp band — playing washboards and things — and they called themselves The Hep Cats.

He would sneak out the window, climb down the tree and go off to play on street corners. Sometimes the group made $50 by passing the hat. So they turned professional, and they stuck together until World War II broke up the act.

That's when he became a single act, and Smiley Sanford, as he was called, became Redd Foxx. He had red hair then — a gift from an Irish great-great-grandmother — but it's mostly gray now. And "Foxx" was the in-word in those days ("That Smiley Sanford is a pretty foxy cat") so he called himself Redd Foxx.

HE NEVER MADE big money. Many times he worked for $15 a week. Once he put some money aside and his wife wanted to open a liquor store, for security. Redd vetoed that idea, and started a nightclub, which flopped. Now, he says, it's her turn. She wants them to invest in an apartment house and that's all right with him.

Today, because of the way things are, it's possible for a black comic to become a star. But he says there are some things still out of his reach. The swanky nightclubs will book black singers, he says, but not black comics.

"I've been trying to get into the Royal Box in New York for years," he says. "They say I'm too dirty, my material is too blue. But I think Redd, the whites and blue can be a nice combination."

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

AFTER 35 YEARS as a top black comic, Redd Foxx, right, has hit national big time in TV situation comedy with Demond Wilson, his co-star in "Sanford and Son." Now Foxx says he'd like to play a swanky night club like the Royal Box in New York's Americana Hotel.

A Star-Spangled Birthday?

by MARGUERITE DAVIS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — America's observance of its 200th birthday celebration in 1976 will be a means of celebrating its past, honoring its present, and setting priorities for its future.

And Rep. Julia Butler Hansen, who made that assessment, is extremely pleased with her appointment as a director of the American Revolution Bicentennial which will approve various plans for celebrations throughout the country.

The Washington State Democrat had no specific suggestions what local events should feature, but in an interview, she spoke of what she believed the general philosophy should be.

The observances should capture the nation's spirit so that every citizen will want to say, "I'm proud to be an American," she said.

"A lot of what we do is right and a lot is wrong," she said. "You just have to build out of your troubles. I'm proud of my nation, and I'm determined to keep building it.

"WE HAVE TO make Americans aware again of what we were, what we are, and where we're going."

Mrs. Hansen endorses the idea of star-spangled celebrations at events across the country in 1976. She noted that John Adams, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, called for bell-ringing and other joyful signals when that document finally was approved.

Honors should be paid the bedraggled little Revolutionary Army which defeated the most powerful military force in their world, she said, as well as the small group of statesmen courageous enough to shake off Great Britain's tyranny and wise enough to write a Constitution.

She pointed out with amusement that although the first article of the Bill of Rights provides for freedom of the press, history records that reporters were not admitted when the bill was written because "we'd never get anything agreed to."

Plans Underway For Charity Fair

Invitations have been mailed to representatives of area organizations to attend a planning meeting for the second annual Charity Fair at the Mount Prospect Plaza.

The meeting is set for 10 a.m., Tuesday in the Sweden Room of the Scanda House Restaurant in the Plaza.

The Charity Fair will be open to all local charitable and civic organizations or social organizations with a philanthropic purpose or project. There is no charge to participate, and each organization will keep whatever profit it makes.

Mount Prospect Plaza will provide the facilities for staging the fair such as space, signs, advertising and publicity. Booths in previous fairs have included baked goods, homemade jams and jellies, handcraft and gift items, white elephants, sandwiches, soft drinks, etc.

Purpose of Tuesday's meeting is to get a definite date for the Charity Fair (sometime in May). The 1971 fair will be reviewed and new suggestions made.

Last year's Charity Fair with 27 booths and 13 queen candidates provided $4,886 in revenue for participating organizations. Additional information is available through 255-0644.

Clean Crayoning

NEW YORK (UPI) — Crayon and pencil boxes also carry dirt after a while, reminds the Cleanliness Bureau. A cleanup is in order when they do. Take all crayons and pencils out, soak container in soap or detergent suds, rinse well and dry. Before replacing crayons, remove hanging paper from those old ones. Sharpen the dull ones.

HAVE A HEART!
By Marilyn Hallman

Make a heart necklace for your favorite Valentine! Mix one cup of flour, 1/2 cup salt, 1/2 cup water and a few drops of red food color. Pat this mixture flat on a piece of waxed paper. With a heart shaped cookie cutter, cut out a heart. (Or cut around a paper heart pattern with a small knife.)

Near the top of the heart, poke a small hole with a drinking straw or pencil. Let it dry overnight. Then tie a piece of yarn through the hole.

Winter invariably brings heart-rending stories of deaths in home fires. Accidents will happen no matter what precautions are taken, but every family ought to have escape plans for such emergencies. If it's at all possible, parents should figure out at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house. After all, fire may block a stairway or hall exit. From upper floors, porches and garage roofs, ladders or trees all ought to be traced as ways to safety. Everyone should be coached to understand that hall or bedroom doors should be closed to help hold back a fire. And impress the rule — "once out, stay out." After a plan has been laid out, practice once in a while. We have fire drills in our schools; we ought to have them in our homes, too.

Dear Dorothy: I'm a secretary and spend much of each day at my desk. As a result, most of my things soon begin "cupping." I can't afford to send these things to the cleaner after only one wearing. Is there any way to solve the problem?—Miss Eva O.

Can only suggest you hike up your garment when you sit down, wear the proper slip and if the dress looks as if it needs pressing, try one of the new steamers. It will bring back most materials so they look neat.

Dear Dorothy: Was interested in the comment about using only cream on the face when the skin gets too dry from using water. This happens to me every year or two and for a short while I just use cleansing cream until the skin settles down. It only happens in the winter, so it must have something to do with the humidity in our home. Whatever it is, I've learned to cope with it.—Katherine L.

AN IMPORTANT SEMINAR ON MIND CONTROL & ESP

for Everyone Interested in Developing Mental Powers

Recently, many national publications such as Glamour, Life, and the Wall Street Journal featured articles titled "BRAIN WAVES" and "BRAIN TRAINING." These articles discussed a fantastic breakthrough, a new science dealing with the conscious control of brain waves. This new science is called Alpha Waves and concerns itself with the Alpha rhythms of brain. Noted researchers discussed how any person can learn to control brain waves and revealed some of the phenomenal capabilities of man with self-control of his brain waves. Exploration of this almost unknown continent — the human brain — has been pioneered by a self-spoken pure-psychologist, Jose Silva, of the Institute of Psychobiology in Laredo, Texas. This sincere dedicated scientist has been training people to control their brain waves for many years.

ALPHA BRAIN WAVE CONTROL—Twenty-six years ago Silva and his associates began their research in Mind Control to see if it was possible to increase a person's IQ factor. Amazingly, Silva discovered that not only could IQ be increased, but a person trained in this technique could even control certain areas of the Autonomic System — heart beat, respiration, blood pressure, etc. The implications of this breakthrough with regard to health and disease were staggering. With Mind Control a person could banish pain, accelerate healing, eliminate insomnia, migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems, in-depth studies also revealed that anyone with a normal brain and sufficient training could develop so-called ESP and clairvoyance.

35,800 GRADUATES — COAST TO COAST — Five years ago the Institute decided to release their findings to the general public. Techniques have been refined to where only a few hours of class time were all that was required to become a truly effective person.

On August 23, The National Observer discussed Silva mind control in a lengthy article. It describes how once you have mastered actual mind control you can totally relax any time you desire, banish insomnia, anxiety, tensions. Eliminate pain, enhance your learning capacity and memory. Eliminate bad habits, create good habits, control weight and smoking.

Results Guaranteed — By learning to control your alpha waves you will easily develop psychic power and learn practical applications of ESP, become a better student, parent, employee or employer and more effective problem solver.

An Old-Fashioned Wedding

An old-fashioned bride and groom exchanged vows at the altar of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, Prospect Heights, on Jan. 15. The bride, Karen Lynn Kiffel of Wheeling, wore an antique ivory crepe gown with high neckline, bishop sleeves and a ruffled bib centered with a cameo brooch. The groom is Daniel A. Rohr of Rock Island, who wore an Edwardian suit to complement his bride's attire.

Karen had a crown of daisies and pink roses over her hair and carried pink roses and stephanotis in her bouquet. Her gown was made by her maid of honor, Jill Robertson of Davenport, Iowa, and her brooch was a wedding gift from her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Louise York of Chicago.

Karen's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Kiffel, 1029 Anthony, Wheeling. The groom is the son of Mrs. Bernice Rohr of Rock Island.

FIVE ATTENDANTS came down the aisle before the bride for the evening candlelight ceremony. Preceding the maid of honor were four bridesmaids, all gowned alike in ivory crepe and green velvet. The girls made their own dresses, styled with a bodice of the same fabric as the bride's gown and a skirt of green velvet. A cummerbund in pink, green and ivory embroidery accented the waistline. The girls wore pink carnation wreaths in their hair and carried pink carnations and white baby's breath.

Bridesmaids included Karen's sister, Kristen Kiffel; Mrs. Virgene Mayne, Dubuque, Iowa; Melody Peterson, Northbrook; and Debbie Isaacs, Jefferson, Mo. JAMES HADLEY of Jefferson, Mo., was best man, and groomsmen were Dale Kiffel, the bride's brother; Ronald

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Rohr

Kiffel, Chicago, an uncle of the bride; James Mulac, Davenport; and Richard Fey, also of Davenport.

Mr. Fey was soloist for the wedding service, and the bride and groom assisted the Rev. Anton P. Weber Jr. in serving guests communion. At the dinner reception which followed in the church hall, several of the wedding attendants who are music students sang and played piano in an impromptu program.

The newlyweds are living in Rock Island while the groom attends Blackhawk College in neighboring Moline. Karen is a '68 graduate of Wheeling High School, attended Wartburg College, Waverly, Iowa, and was a student at Blackhawk last year.

Groom Sings To His Bride

During the wedding ceremony of Indiana University sweethearts, Peggy Lynn Landfadt and Douglas Allan Maloney, the groom sang "A Time for Us" to his bride. The couple exchanged vows and rings Jan. 15 in Kouts (Ind.) Christian Church, home church of the bride and her family, the Alvin Landfads.

Douglas is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Maloney of Palatine. He and Peggy met two years ago at Indiana U. and are now seniors awaiting graduation in May. Both are student teaching in Frankfort, Ind., for eight weeks and will return to the campus in Bloomington to finish the year.

The groom, a graduate of Fremd High School, is majoring in music education at Indiana.

PEGGY CHOSE a red and white color scheme for the 1:30 p.m. candlelight nuptials. She carried red roses along with white carnations and baby's breath in her bouquet. Her bridesmaids wore red velvet gowns and carried white fur muffs accented with a cluster of miniature red roses and baby's breath.

The bride wore a gown of white velvet with reembroidered lace scallops edging the Empire bodice and long puffed sleeves of lace. She completed her attire with a cathedral veil of illusion attached to a lace headpiece.

Peggy's attendant's gowns of ruby red velvet were styled like the bride's and they wore ruby velvet bows in their hair. Phyllis Lazarowitz of Wantagh, N.Y., the bride's college roommate, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Carol Hammons, Martinsville, Ind., and Beth Landfadt, Peggy's sister. James Templeton of Palatine was best man, and ushers included David Craigmile of Connecticut, Patrick Magill of Bloomington, Ill., and the bride's brother, Robert Landfadt.

The newlyweds were feted at a party immediately after the ceremony at Strongbros in Valparaiso, Ind. They had a short honeymoon at the Playboy Club at Lake Geneva.

THE WAITING BEGINS, the waiting and wondering.

Steve Conley has to wait until May. That's when he reports with the rookies to his first session with the Cincinnati Bengals of the National Football League.

While he waits, he wonders just what lies ahead. Can he make it in professional football? Where will he play if he does make it? What will they expect from him?

Conley, an Arlington High School product, was the fifth player selected by Cincinnati in the recent draft of college talent. He went on the seventh round but will negotiate as a fifth round selection.

He was one of two Arlington High grads picked by the pros. Former teammate Tom Chandler, who starred at Minnesota, was a 14th round pick of the Atlanta Falcons.

Both boys have good shots at making the teams. Both boys love to play football. They love to hit. They thrive on the contact. They have the necessary attitude and desire.

It's just a matter of waiting now, of counting off the days until they get a chance to prove they can play in this violent but fascinating sport.

It's rare, extremely rare, when an area football product gets drafted by the

The outside, or corner linebacker has the responsibility of stopping or at least forcing the end sweep, turning it inside, into the flow of traffic. He must read the wide screen pass and somehow get in front of it. If the offensive back on his side of the line swings out wide to catch a pass, he must go with him. If the back continues on deep, down the field, the linebacker must keep up with him, or at least try. If the tight end is lined up on his side, he must jam him, or pop him at the line, to break up his possible pass route, although some defenses are getting away from that theory.

And in some varieties of zone pass defense, the corner linebacker must wind up covering a flanker back.

"I know there are more responsibilities, but I want to play and I think I can do the job, whatever job it is," says a determined Conley.

Agility is the outside linebacker's game and coaches are willing to sacrifice a little size to achieve it. . . . just a little. Agility is what Steve Conley possesses to go with his strength, speed, and size.

Cincinnati wanted a personal look at Conley before they drafted him. They weren't disappointed.

"The Friday before the draft," Conley recalled, "I was working when coach Costello (Vince) of Cincinnati called and said the Bengals were interested in me. I had received a lot of form letters from teams during the year, and Dallas kept in touch about once a week. Baltimore, New England and San Diego also seemed to be interested, particularly New England. But this Cincinnati thing came as a surprise."

The Bengals' Costello, who serves as linebacker coach after several fine years in the NFL with Cleveland, watched Conley go through several agility drills at Rolling Meadows High School on the weekend before the draft.

Steve was timed in 4.7 for the 40 yard dash (extremely fast for a linebacker) and there were also some one-on-one drills in basketball as part of the agility exercises. Costello was satisfied.

"He told me then that Cincinnati would draft me if I was still available," says Conley. "Actually my dad found out before I did. He called some television station that night of the draft and when he found out, he called me at home and pretended he was Paul Brown. I knew who he was, but I still hadn't heard from Cincinnati so wasn't sure if it was accurate. I called the same station, found out I had been drafted by the Bengals and then my wife and I went out to celebrate. I didn't even wait for them to call."

"Early the next morning we left for Kansas City to see my wife's parents and Cincinnati finally got hold of me there. It's all been pretty exciting these past few days."

Steve Conley has been waiting for this chance for a long time. He was a standout as a youngster in the Arlington mid-level football program. He was the leading ground gainer and pass receiver on Arlington's unbeaten team in 1966. He was a steady ground-gainer on a Kansas team that had to play against such classy outfits as Nebraska, Oklahoma, and Colorado.

Cincinnati is the next stop. Although rich in the history of other sports, Cincinnati has only begun to establish a pro football tradition. The Bengals were new in 1968, yet they began with much that was already time-tested; Paul Brown, as head coach; and the state of Ohio, always a football hotbed.

Steve Conley is happy to be with Cincinnati. He wants Cincinnati to be happy with his performance. He'll have his chance, starting in May.

The waiting begins.

Ron Kozlicki poured in 27 points as Palatine topped McHenry, 67-57 . . . Gary Brodman had 18 and Chuck Close 16 as Arlington beat Glenbard West, 66-60 . . .

The Cards lost a 49-46 decision to touted LaGrange . . . Prospect moved into a tie for third in the Interim Association with a 61-55 victory over Maine West as Mike Francek scored 15 . . . Gary Jonland (now a member of the United States Olympic team) of the Mount Prospect Skating Club won the Pony Boys title in the Stehman Ice Derby in Chicago.

It would be easier for a young man out of college to adjust at running back. It's a position governed by instinct and many of the great ball carriers were never better than they were as freshman pros. It's the most instinctive position in football, the only one in which a rookie can step in with a total lack of knowledge of everything except running the ball, and be a success.

Conant Awaits Prospect Challenge; Hersey Plays Two In North Action

by THE HERALD SPORTS STAFF

Just two more weeks remain in the Great Race — or Great Races, if you will.

Those would be the two divisional basketball scrambles in the Mid-Suburban League, which are headed very shortly for a roaring climax.

It is clearer now than ever before who is in the drivers' seats in the two sections, and cage fans will know even more after this weekend's seven games — five of them tonight.

Hersey is standing on firmer ground than anyone at this point with a two-game lead in the loss column over both Arlington and Wheeling in the North. The Huskies quite possibly could wrap up the North title in the next two days if they beat two underdogs, Palatine and Fremd.

Things are more doubtful in the South, with Conant leading Forest View by just one game and the Cougars facing a rocky road ahead against dangerous Prospect and Elk Grove.

After tonight's games, which are pre-viewed below, Saturday night's two clashes will have Glenbard North at Prospect and Fremd at Hersey. Wheeling will take the weekend off.

As for tonight's agenda, read on:

PROSPECT AT CONANT

Conant must feel like a mountain-climbing team that has just scaled one long, steep cliff only to find another just like it.

The job gets no easier tonight for the Cougars, who survived a nerve-racking battle with Forest View Tuesday night to win 61-56 and take over first place in the South.

Prospect has been considered one of the MSL's finest all season and the fact that it has lost three times in the division makes the Knights no less dangerous. In fact, Prospect may be even tougher now, since it can play loose without the pressure Conant must endure.

It looks like an even matchup, with Conant's main advantage being its home floor. These two teams showed how little difference there is between them when Conant eked out a 53-52 thriller at Prospect in January.

Chet Pudlosky, one of the top rebounders in the MSL, collared 19 boards in that first Prospect game, giving Conant an advantage in that department that decided the game. Rebounding, of course, has been the Cougars' forte all season.

And the conference must still be buzzing about the 23-point, 23-rebound performance of 6-7 center Dave Schmitt against Forest View Tuesday. If he can keep up anything approaching that kind of play, it will take a lot of pressure off Bill Arkus and Pudlosky, who have been the team's top scorers all season.

Since Forest View is a top-heavy favorite to knock off Schaumburg tonight, this probably is a must game for Conant if it is to protect its one-game lead.

Likewise, this clash will either make or break Prospect. Head coach Bill Slayton's Knights are still long shots to win the South Division race despite suffering their third loss of the campaign against spoiler Elk Grove last week.

"I guess mathematically we're still alive," Slayton said. "but the way we've been playing, I don't know. Physically, we're all right, but mentally, we're not."

Prospect is not having trouble putting points on the board. "I have no quarrel with our offense," Slayton said. It's preventing their opponents from scoring more that bothers the Knights. "We're too benevolent defensively," he confirmed.

The Grenadiers, for example, tallied 49 points in a loss to Forest View last Friday, but had 47 on the board by the half against the Knights the very next evening.

The key against Conant tonight seems to be the rebounding game. "They're probably the most physical team on the boards in our league," Slayton said.

"If we expect anything this year, we have to win the rest of the way out (three games)," Slayton admitted, "plus we still need help from the rest of the league."

The Cougars, having broken the first-place deadlock Tuesday, have only to rely on themselves to capture the title.

PALATINE AT HERSEY

Hersey is only a couple of games away from wrapping up another North Division crown and coach Roger Steingraber is very anxious to whittle that magic number down to one Friday night when the Huskies entertain Palatine. "Ideally, we can put it out of reach before we even professionals. Only two have ever made it in the NFL. Arlington High's Marv Berschet played with the Washington Redskins in 1954-55, and Palatine's Len Rohde just finished his 12th year with the San Francisco 49ers.

"I'm anxious, very anxious to play pro football. I'll admit that," said Conley this week just before he left for Cincinnati and a meeting with head coach Paul Brown. Steve will be one of the special guests at next Monday's Paddock Publications Pro Sports Club Luncheon.

"Playing football is what I always wanted to do, ever since I can remember. Dad used to take me to the Arlington football games when I was small. Later I would watch the college games on television on Saturdays and afterwards grab my brother and dad and we'd go out and play in the yard."

"At first all I could think of was playing in high school, at Arlington. Then it was waiting to get a chance in college. Now, I want to see what I can do with the professionals."

Conley, who played his college football at the University of Kansas after one year with Arizona Western Jr. College, will get his first chance starting in May but it won't be as a running back, the position he has manned quite capably for so many years.

"They drafted me as a linebacker," says Conley, "and if that doesn't work out, then maybe I'll get a chance as a running back. That's the agreement. They had an injury problem with a couple of their linebackers and they don't know if they'll be able to come back. I'll play anywhere. I just want the chance."

Conley, who stands 6-2½ and weighs 220, knows what defense is all about although his primary responsibility through the years has been trying to penetrate the defense, not cooperate with it. He did play some linebacker at Arizona Western and he was a defensive back (with some duty at defensive end) on those powerful Arlington teams in the mid-1960s.

It would be easier for a young man out of college to adjust at running back. It's a position governed by instinct and many of the great ball carriers were never better than they were as freshman pros. It's the most instinctive position in football, the only one in which a rookie can step in with a total lack of knowledge of everything except running the ball, and be a success.

St. Viator Plays Tonight; Saturday Game Cancelled

by JIM COOK

After six straight Saturday night basketball games, head coach Ed Wasielewski's eagles might show up at the school just out of habit.

The scheduled game which had Viator traveling to Marist has been cancelled by mutual consent of both schools' athletic directors. At the time the schedules were drawn up, the league called for just 13 games and made the Saturday night date "optional" for the Suburban Catholic Conference clubs.

"We've filled our quota of games permitted by the Illinois High School Association," Marist athletic director Al Brazen said in referring to the 18-game, two-tournament ceiling posted by the state's ruling body. "We would be in violation of the rule if we played another one."

Actually the Indians have 17 games under their belt and must save the last one for the SEC's East-West playoffs next week.

The Lions will tune for the playoffs against Carmel tonight in their Arlington Heights gym. After a shaky 59-55 triumph in the first go-round, Viator can't take the league's cellar-dwellers lightly.

The Redskins ran circles around the Lions in the early stages of their first confrontation in assuming leads of 14-1 and 16-3 before settling for a 16-7 first-quarter edge.

Viator spurred to a halftime deadlock and then pulled the decision out of the fire with a fourth-quarter rally. The Lions — win or lose — won't budge in the SEC standings, but a win tonight and victory in the playoffs would certainly enhance their hopes for a successful showing in the state tournament.

SKATERS DO IT AGAIN

Dear Sirs:

The skaters may have done it again, giving us our only medals in the Olympics. Maybe the United States will wake up now and get these kids some adequate training facilities. We have only one Olympic size speed skating rink and we still turn out champions. Imagine what we could do with proper facilities. Congratulations to the Northbrook skaters and to Janet Lynn of Rockford.

Dear Sirs:

I like your new format of concentrating on particular sports on a certain day. With everything happening on the weekend, it obviously is impossible to get everything in Monday and Tuesday so giving us wrestling, gymnastics and swimming fans something to look forward to is appreciated. I hope you do the same in the spring.

HOPES FERGIE IS HONEST

Dear Sirs:

I'll be anxious to hear the Cubs' Jenkins (Fergie) next Monday at your sports luncheon. I hope he's honest and admits the Cubs can't possibly win the pennant with the material they have now. It's unbelievable that the only left-

PREP CAGE NOT "DOWN"

Dear Sirs:

It has been said very often this winter that Illinois high school basketball is having a "down" year. People are saying that Thornridge is the only respectable team in the state.

Well, I beg to differ with them. I believe that the caliber of high school ball in this state is as good this year as it ever has been. The main difference is that everyone is comparing the rest of the teams in the state with Thornridge.

When you do that, you are comparing those teams to one of the best basketball fives in the United States. Of course, no team in the state can compare favorably with Thornridge. But these teams, Lincoln, Hinsdale Central, East Aurora, Tilden, LaSalle-Peru, are still very good.

A Question Of Priorities

The leaders of tomorrow, those studying in Illinois junior and senior colleges, will help shape the lives of multitudes after graduation. But who will keep their own bodies in shape? Each much do it himself.

In the past, students have learned how to both master their muscles as well as their minds through an involuntary physical education program. Although not all may enjoy these required P.E. courses, what they learn will carry over in later life.

This requirement could be a thing of the past if the Illinois Board of Higher Education has its way. Apparently recommended that involuntary P.E. be eliminated in the 1973 fiscal year budget because it isn't considered a "high priority program."

The board, in attempting to make budget cuts, believes students are "full fledged citizens at the age of 18" and should "carry a greater burden for their own activities, physical and otherwise."

The board is recommending that a non-credit intramural activities program take the place of the present setup on a non-credit basis.

In its interpretation of the P.E. question, the board seems to be saying this:

• That today's student isn't prey to human nature and will voluntarily add to his already heavy class load some courses not needed for graduation.

• That the student learns enough about P.E. in high school so that he doesn't need the more involved aspects of fitness that will pay off in later life.

• That he is fully aware of how to cope with the sizable amount of leisure time, soon to be increased with the four-day work week.

This doesn't appear to be the case. However, it is easy to see why the board has taken this attitude — It has not sought the opinions of those directly involved in the program, the P.E. departments. By not seeking their thoughts on the matter, the board has departed from a tradition of higher education.

Those in P.E. programs throughout the state are joining forces in an effort to have their ideas on the subject aired, however.

For some, the end of an involuntary P.E. program will mean the loss of a job; for others, the end of a coaching assignment; and, most importantly, for the students it could mean the lack of knowledge concerning physical fitness.

The board's next meeting is March 7. Those involved in P.E. will be waiting to see just what new thoughts are expressed concerning this truly high priority matter.

Wrestlers In District Tournaments

District wrestling gets underway around the state this evening with a dozen area teams traveling out to three separate locations to begin their climb through the ranks.

A winner and a runnerup in each of 12 weight divisions at each of 26 district tournaments in Illinois will channel into sectional action the following weekend. Eventually 16 grapplers will emerge at each weight to compete in the state finals at Normal Feb. 25-26.

Area chances of faring well in the districts are good. At Maine South in Park Ridge defending state champion Hersey rates as a slight favorite over Maine East. Both are conference winners, the Blue Demons having gone through an undefeated dual state to reign in the West Suburban League while the Huskies were dominating Mid-Suburban League play. East finished just three points behind Hersey atop the 16-team Glenbrook South holiday tournament standings this past December.

Also figuring to do well at Maine South are Forest View and St. Vitor. Other area teams are Arlington and Prospect with Maine North, Maine West, Luther North of Chicago and the host Hawks rounding out the field.

Six local squads are included in the 11-team lineup at the Lake Park District and Elk Grove should head up the list, battling with Barrington possibly for the tourney title. Schaumburg might also be running and outflits from Fremd, Conant and Palatine are also highly competitive with Rolling Meadows the only local entry not expected to place high.

Other schools in the Roselle meet are Cary Grove, Crystal Lake, Fenton and the host Lancers.

At Mundelein a three-horse race could develop between the host Mustangs, Carmel of Mundelein and the only Herald area representative — Wheeling. The Corsairs edged out the Mustangs by a paperthin margin last year in district activity and this year the Suburban Catholic conference champs are just as strong. Other teams in this tournament are Lake Forest, Lake Zurich, Libertyville, McHenry, Prairie View and Wauconda.

Tonight's opening session gets underway at 6:30 at Lake Park and at 7:00 at Maine South and Mundelein. All three schools will begin their second sessions at 1 p.m. Saturday and the finals tomorrow night will be launched at the same time tonight's respective activity begins.

Northbrook, Chicago Set To Honor Skaters

NORTHBROOK, ILL. (UPI) — They're ordering Olympic flags to deck the tree-lined streets of the village of Northbrook. The Chamber of Commerce is talking about changing its slogan to: "The Speed Skating Capital of the World."

And the brothers and sisters of Diane Holm and Anne Henning, the two Northbrook Girls who won America's only gold medals so far at the Winter Olympics, stayed home from school Wednesday to answer telephone calls and give interviews.

Diane and Anne were expected to arrive at Chicago's O'Hare Airport Monday morning, along with Coach Ed Rudolph, and village officials and business leaders were already busy planning the welcoming ceremony.

"The governor's going to be here. It's going to be tremendous," businessman Phil Hillinger, the chairman. We're putting up pictures and Olympic flags will be going up."

"We're planning a caravan to meet them at the airport," Chamber of Commerce President Chester Bloden said. "And we're trying to get the schools to close for the day, so the kids can welcome them home."

Village President John Williams, who learned of the second medal during a political meeting in his home, said Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago had already called to ask if they would be interested in a ticker tape parade.

And Northbrook police made another prediction about the forthcoming celebration — particularly if Anne and Diane perform as predicted and win at least one more medal each.

"They're going to wait until they wrap up a couple more and then they'll tear the place apart," one patrolman said.

Ball Sign-Up In Arlington

The second registration for Boys Baseball in Arlington Heights will be held Saturday, Feb. 12, at the Recreation Park Fieldhouse, 500 E. Miner, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Any boy living in Arlington Heights who will be age eight through 16 on July 31 is eligible to play. Five leagues are operated for boys in the different age groups.

Every boy registered is assigned to a team in an appropriate league, and every boy must play a specified number of innings each week. Assignment in the older age-group leagues is made on the basis of tryouts, to be announced in the spring.

A registration fee of $10 is required for the first son in a family to register. Subsequent sons have a registration fee of $7 each. In addition, $6 worth of Pancake Day tickets are issued for each boy registering. The tickets may be used by the family or sold.

One parent must be present at registration, and proof of age must be presented for all boys being registered in the baseball program for the first time.

Parent participation is another league requirement. One parent must sign up during registration to participate in one of a number of jobs including manager, coach, umpire, equipment manager, scorekeeper, Pancake Day committee, Program Book committee, etc.

Northwestern And Brodnan Host Hawk Five Saturday

by PAUL LOGAN

Some prestige hangs in the balance Saturday when Northwestern's freshman basketball team hosts Harper College at 5:45 p.m.

As far as the Hawks are concerned, it's a feather in their cap if they can knock off the Wildcats. If the latter team should win, it could just be written off as a big school beating a little school.

John Brodnan

"Obviously, going down to play a Big Ten freshman team has glamour," said Harper coach Dave Etienne. "Three of our last four games will probably help us in the sectional."

Following the contest with the 'Cats, the Hawks must take an always potent Joliet and undefeated Skyway Conference leader Triton.

The Northwestern game offers an interesting matchup at the guard spots. Former Arlington star John Brodnan is presently leading the 'Cats in scoring; former Wheeling prep Kevin Barthule is tops on the Hawks. Both have been right around the 25-point plateau all season.

"How well we rebound and defense them will determine the outcome," according to Etienne. "I have confidence in our scoring ability. However, I hope we don't force things and don't get awed down there. I don't think we will."

The Hawks will have their hands full with the 'Cats big front line — 6-10, 6-6 and 6-5. In the middle is big James Wallace, the 'Cats' center. He's averaging 13.4 points a game and leads the team in rebounding. He's the intimidator.

"We're fast and we can fastbreak, but we don't force it because we have some good shooters," said freshman coach Jim Sarno, a former 'Cat varsity performer. "All our people can shoot."

The 'Cats are just coming off a 95-87 loss to Valparaiso on Wednesday, their third loss in seven games. This limited schedule could prove a handicap to Northwestern, according to Etienne, because the Hawks have had the experience of 23 games.

Following the Harper game, the Northwestern varsity will take on potent Minnesota.

Hawk Wrestlers Enjoy Big Week

Harper's high-rolling wrestling team came within a shade of complete domination at a meet with highly touted four-year Wisconsin schools last Saturday and then came back to Illinois to wrap up their conference dual campaign on a perfect note Wednesday.

The results of action over the past week put the Hawks into high gear as they ready for their conference meet at Triton next Saturday.

Coach Ron Bessemer's outfit stopped Triton Wednesday 25-15 in dual action. Coupled with a pair of wins and only one setback up North over the past weekend, the Hawks finished up with a stellar 18-2 dual meet record.

The Wisconsin victims included the nation's ninth-ranked small college mat team while the number six ranked small school nationwide barely edged Harper by six points.

"I think we just might have beat all three of them had we not forfeited at 167 because one of our wrestlers couldn't make weight. It was nice to pick up a couple of victories over four-year schools anyway," Bessemer said.

Wisconsin State University at Superior was the club turning back the Hawks, 24-18. At the same time Harper felled Stout State 27-18 and nipped ninth-ranked Whitewater State 19-18.

Tom Moore and Scott Ravan headed up the local effort in Wisconsin, each gaining a trio of triumphs Saturday. Moore's winning decisions were 7-5, 7-0 and 3-2 at 125 pounds while Ravan pinned a couple of foes in a minute and a half each and mauled another 19-3 at 177 pounds.

Fred Wideman at 134, Mike Weber at 142 and Mike Squires at 150 picked up a pair of victories apiece. Against Stout the Hawks trailed 18-0 with three bouts to go and Ravan pinned, Andy Locken pinned at 190 and Harold Spence won by forfeit at heavyweight to give Harper 18 quick points.

Against Triton the Hawks fell behind 12-3 after four bouts with Jerry Ancona gaining the only Harper points with a 12-3 decision at 118.

Squires turned the tide around with a 5-2 decision at 150 and four more Hawks followed suit, Kurt Ehling pinning at 4:43, John Majors working for an 8-5 verdict and Al Vaccarello pinning his opponent at 4:15.

Ravan topped off the rally with another impressive victory, 13-2.

the motivating force which the Bears needed. In that sense, he is very much like Phil Bengtson the former Green Bay Packer coach who is now with the Chargers. Bengtson has one of the best technical football minds in the business but, like Dooley, did not have the personal makeup to be successful as a head coach.

To Coach Dooley, I wish him the best of luck.

BELTIN' BILL IS BEST

Dear Sirs:
I read with great interest recently that Bill Melton of the White Sox finished the 1971 season with a better fielding percentage than Ron Santo of the Cubs.

Since Melton had a much better season at the plate than Santo, it should qualify Mr. Beltin' Melton as the No. 1 third baseman in Chicago — and the No. 2 third baseman in baseball behind Brooks Robinson.

Much of the credit should go to Sox manager Chuck Tanner who stayed with Melton all year at third base, unlike Don Cutteridge who lost faith in Bill and moved him to the outfield.

Since B. Robinson will be 35-years old this summer and Melton is only 26, it will not be long before Sox fans can proclaim that Chicago has the premier third baseman in the game.

BULLS SHOULD GET HAYES

Dear Sirs:
The only thing standing between the Bulls and the NBA championship is a top caliber center.

It has been reported that Elvin Hayes of the Houston Rockets desires to be traded. That is the caliber of center which could take the Bulls all the way.

Here is the trade I suggest:
The Bulls give up Howard Porter and Tom Boerwinkle for Elvin Hayes.

Hayes is an individualist, to be sure, but I think that coach Dick Motta can handle Hayes' personality and mold Hayes into the type of team player that all of the Bulls are.

At the same time, Houston would be getting a potentially great forward in Porter and a decent center in Boerwinkle. Since Houston needs to be built from the ground up, a two-for-one deal would certainly help the Rockets. And it would help the Bulls too.

Locals Pace NIU Gym

Four Herald area products have been pacing Northern Illinois University's varsity gymnastics team, which won seven of its first 11 dual meets.

Wayne Olson, who prepped at Elk Grove, has the top pommel horse score of the season with an outstanding 9.45, which is an NIU school record. Pete Botolof of Palatine heads up the rings with a high of 9.35, John Isaacs of Arlington has the school's best floor exercise mark with 9.3, and Bob Berglund of Forest View posted the top all-around score with a 45.85 total.

Southern Guards Sizzle

Guards Greg Starrick and John Garrett are continuing their incredible machine-like accuracy from the free throw line for the Southern Illinois University basketball team.

Totals for the first 16 games showed Starrick hitting .942 on charity tosses with just six misses in 104 tries. Garrett is almost as impressive with 72 of 79 from the line for .911. Each is hitting about 46 per cent from the field.

The two hot-shot guards also are the leading scorers on the team. Starrick is averaging 23.6 per game with a high of 36 and Garrett carries a 15.5 standard with a 24 high. SIU won half of its first 16 contests.

Rolling Meadows To Face Wheeling

Rolling Meadows' basketball team will have two motives for trying to beat Wheeling's junior varsity team tonight—revenge and a .500 record.

The Mustangs, losers to the Wildcats in the first meeting, 56-49, will be trying for their seventh win in 14 jayvee tests tonight at 6:30 on the 'Cats' home court.

Next week the junior varsity season comes to an end for the Mid-Suburban League's newest school. The Mustangs will be at Fremd on Tuesday and will host Arlington on Friday.

Lake County Tips Hawks In 91-90 Thriller

by MIKE HUSTON

Three seconds remained in the ball game. Harper trailed Lake County, 91-90, but the Hawks had the basketball. The plan called for Kevin Barthule to get the ball for a last second shot.

Barthule did get the ball, but there was no shot for him to take. Instead, his desperation effort missed everything, and Harper dropped into a tie for second in the Skyway Conference at 8-3. Overall, the Hawks are 15-8; Lake County boasts an 8-4 SC record.

"I'll have to take the blame for not having a better play for that last shot of the game," Harper Coach Dave Etienne admitted. "If we'd have had a few more seconds, we could have run our regular in-bounds play."

Etienne may claim the responsibility for Harper's last second failure, but Etienne was not the one who failed to box Lake County's top scorer, Clyde Simpson, off his own offensive boards when he scored ten points on tip-ins in the first half.

Nor was Etienne responsible for 17 turnovers to the Lake County team, several coming when Harper was struggling to overcome a huge 38-45 halftime, Lake County lead.

The difference in the game was Harper's inability to stop Lake County and to generate their own offense in the first half.

Barthule was again Harper's most potent offensive weapon, hitting 13 of 24 field goal tries and totaling 29 points. Simpson also scored 29 for Lake County.

Simpson's scoring support came from forward Keith Bolton with 25 points, but Barthule's help was more balanced. Jeff Algaler added 20, Terry Rohan 18, and Scott Felge 15 points to aid the Hawks. Lake's Greg Holman was the top rebounder with 16; Don Spry collected 15 for Harper.

The Hawks led by as many as eight points in the early going, but inadequate defense and poor offense gave Lake County the 13-point margin at half.

The second half was a different game for the Hawks, as Barthule and Felge led a charge which resulted in a 20-20 lead with more than eleven minutes remaining in the game. Then, a rash of Harper turnovers gave the momentum back to Lake County.

The Hawks came back again, however, to tie the score at 80 with four minutes remaining. Algaler had the hot hand from the top of the key, scoring Harper's next ten points, but all were countered by Lake County. The Hawks could not take the lead.

Lake County led 91-90 with 26 seconds left, and Simpson shooting a free throw. His air ball gave the Hawks possession out of bounds, and Harper ran the clock down for the last shot. But Lake County's defense met Barthule's challenge, and the game ended as Simpson grabbed the loose ball.

Above-par free throw shooting allowed the Hawks to outscore Lake County by a point from the charity line. Harper hit 16 of 19 free tries for 84 per cent compared to Lake County's 15-24, 62.5 per cent.

Harper also hit on a good 47 per cent from the field while Lake hit on 44.7 per cent. But Lake County out rebounded the Hawks 54-50, and 23 of Lake's rebounds were off their own offensive boards, giving them countless second and third shots.

Barthule broke his own season scoring record against Lake County, running his total to 568 points. His old record was 549, set last year. Barthule's total of 1117 points is also a career scoring record at Harper.

Rohan has been Harper's most improved player in recent games, scoring 85 points in his last four games. Rohan also grabbed 12 rebounds against Lake County.

Harper's next game will be Saturday evening at 6:00 against the Northwestern Freshmen at Evanston. The game will be a prelude to the Big 10 encounter between Northwestern and Minnesota.

League Swim Meets Slated

When a team's favored to win, the pressure's on. But in the case of Forest View and St. Viator as they face conference swim showdowns this weekend, they should measure up for the test.

The Falcons rolled through their dual meets without a loss and are shooting for their second outright title in three years. Last year they shared the championship with Arlington. The Mid-Suburban League conference meet will get underway tonight at 7:00 in Olympic Pool.

The Lions are shooting for their second straight Suburban Catholic Conference crown. They dropped just one dual during the league season, but it won't hurt their chances should they win their big meet on Saturday at Marmon Military Academy. The meet at the Aurora school will begin with diving at 10 a.m. Swimming events are scheduled for 1:00.

Rolling Meadows Handles Palatine

by DON FRISKE

No one may ever know the final outcome of the Rolling Meadows-Palatine junior varsity game played at Palatine Tuesday night. Was it 56-44 in favor of the Mustangs or 54-44?

With 19 seconds left to play in the game Mustang forward Jack Lloyd shot from under the basket for two points that were never counted. Apparently, the official scorers and the scoreboard attendant missed the play and the final score that flashed on the board at the end of the game was 54-44. This was the official score.

In any case, the Mustangs defeated the Pirates.

THE Mustangs finally utilized the third quarter to their advantage. They outscored the Pirates 12-5 in the period having a 42-39 lead at the end of the quarter. The first half ended in favor of the Mustangs, 30-25.

The game's high scorer was the Mustangs' forward Len Link with 13 points. Not far behind were Mustang guard Pat Geegan and Lloyd with 12 each. This isn't counting Lloyd's mystery bucket.

The Pirates had a balanced offensive attack with four players having eight points apiece. No Pirate scored in double figures.

Guard Gary Olson of the Mustangs had 11 points so the attack was pretty well balanced with four players breaking into double figures.

Both teams were weak in their free-throw shooting. The Pirates only hit 12 of 24 from the line while the Mustangs weren't doing much better, hitting 14 of 24.

"We were also playing better defensively," said Ken Arneson, the Mustangs' coach. "We were hustling and doing what we're supposed to do."

Guess who's coming to dinner? The whole Mustang team will be going over to their coach's house for a free meal. They finally held their opponents to 44 points, the last Pirate point coming with one second remaining on a five-footer by forward Jim Sobczynski.

"This game cost me a little chow," said Arneson. He hasn't decided yet as to when or how he will feed them all. "I asked them how hotdogs and beans sounded but they didn't say much."

It was another victory Saturday for the Northwest YMCA girls swim team as they defeated visiting West Suburban "Y", 190-155. As usual, the girls continued to set new records in many events. Four new relay times were established along with records in seven individual events.

Joyce hit 603 while Wilma Ranger posted 587, Bonnie Hofbauer 573, Maxine Moehling 547 and Carol Bischoff 539. Lee Stiebel rolled a 537, Dot Wilkens a 535 and Torchy Dul a 532.

At Hoffman Lanes

Sixth-place Collopy Plumbing, only three points out of second place in a tight race, had high team series with 2345 in the Three-Man Scratch League at Hoffman Lanes. . . . Space Home Improvement, one-half point behind Collopy, came up with high team game of 668. . . . High individual series was by Art Koch of Cynthia Shoppe with 857 on games of 205, 207, 232 and 213. . . . Best individual game was Gil Hartman's 259 on the way to an 853 series for four games. . . . Frustrating Afternoon For Countryside Teams

Both Countryside YMCA (Palatine) swim teams, boys and girls, visited Elmhurst YMCA for a coed swim meet. The local girls were morning line favorites and the Elmhurst boys were expected to win.

For Countryside it was a frustrating afternoon. The girls swam steadily and up to their times, but Elmhurst introduced a host of new strong swimmers producing many district and state qualifying times.

There was a ray of hope near the end of the meet when Countryside girls closed within 13 points of their host. But Elmhurst rolled out the big guns and Countryside girls were sunk 202-147. The score shows a great leap forward for Elmhurst as Countryside had won rather handily last year.

Meanwhile, the Countryside boys got off to a very slow start, then began to put some pieces together to show some surprising strength against a balanced Elmhurst team. The backstrokers and freestyle relay teams posted good speed to close the gap but were not able to make up all the points for a 177-133 loss. Despite the score, our boys fared very well against a strong opponent.

There is a brief lull in the competition this week but practices continue as usual. In fact, the tempo of practice sessions is increasing as the swimmers point for the district and state finals in March. The goal is to polish the basic strokes, starts, and turns and to develop the physical and mental discipline to compete against the best swimmers in the area and state.

Schaumburg Kings Hockey

Schaumburg Kings hockey teams on six levels recorded four wins against two losses last week. Four of the games were against Naperville, and three ended in shutout wins for the Kings.

PRE-WEEK
Schaumburg had the most one-sided victory in this division with a 5-0 triumph over Naperville. The winners skated fast, checked hard and held Naperville off for 60 minutes to help goalie Jeff Ross to the shutout.

In the first period, two goals by Rich Wallischeck (one unassisted) with an assist from Ron Kruse got the Kings started. Jim Lynch also scored before the period ended on a pass from Kurt Kilmer. Lynch added a second goal in the last period, from Carl Gallo. The final score from Donovan on assists from Wallischeck and Kruse.

HANTAMS
Schaumburg squeaked past the Palatine Norsemen 1-0 as both goalies thwarted many opportunities. It was a non-league win for the Kings.

After a scoreless first period, Cary Dickson notched the lone goal on an assist from Joe Cloca. Neither goalie would yield after that.

MIDGETS
The Kings held off an inspired Naperville team for a 6-2 victory. Joe Vulgar got the scoring started with assists from Dennis Pardi and Lloyd Jensen. After Naperville tied the score, Marzee put Schaumburg ahead on an unassisted goal. Naperville came back again to make it 2-2 at the end of the first period.

Vulgar's second goal, a tip-in on a power play, came on alert passes from Marzee to Jack Kramer to Vulgar, putting the Kings ahead to stay. Marzee notched his second goal on a hard shot from the center line. Then it was Danny Kilmer's turn to put frosting on the cake. He provided some excitement with two straight breakaways, being stopped on the first but succeeding on the next with a high backhand shot after a pass from Mike Dusk.

Tom Lamentia, Kramer and Jensen were outstanding on defense. Bob Pehme in goal made some outstanding saves to stop 23 shots. This was the most shots on goal against the Midgets this season.

JUVENILES
Schaumburg put everything together for one of its finest games, blanking the Chicago Royals 4-0 behind fineness contributing by B. Marino, T. Kilhousen led the offense with two goals and D. Brandenburg and R. Gavron added one each. Gavron also assisted on two goals, with other assists by B. Woller, F. Tansigalla, S. Bird and J. Golias.

SQUIDS
Schaumburg did not have one of its better games and as a result lost to Naperville, 3-2. The Kings got the only goal of the first period on a breakaway by Scott Phillips, unassisted, but Naperville rallied for three scores in the last period. The Kings got a consolation goal with nine seconds left, Adam Chapman scoring from Jon Melkersson.

MITES
Despite a three-goal hat trick by Billy Dunne — the first for the team this year — the Mites were whipped by Naperville, 6-3. Assists were by Mike Rudinski, Jody Horn and Paul Atkinson.

COMING GAMES
Schaumburg's next games will be at the Palatine Dome in Dundee Tuesday, Feb. 15 from 6 to 9:30 p.m. Admission is free.

At Striker Lanes

Karen Thiel fired a hot 573 series and Kathy Tarrant a 217 for the best individual efforts in the Cambridge Quartettes league at Striker Lanes in Buffalo Grove. Other high series were Bobbie Cavallero's 570 and 569's by both Harriet Thielke and Phyllis Shaeffer. Carol Kall recorded a 208 game and Bev Musfeldt 203. The Inconsistents hold first place, followed by the Ups and Downs and Alley Cats. Ellen Gayle picked up the 5-10 split, Karen Thiel the 5-7-9 and Jeannine Theis the 6-7. A week earlier, Sue Peterson had posted the high series with 636, followed by Dot Paulini's 613 and Cele Green's 599. Top series were Lori Kirby's 223, Edith Noelle's 217 and Sue Klein's 216.

At Rolling Meadows

Six series of 500 or better were recorded in the Wednesday Morning Melodies league at Rolling Meadows Bowl, headed by Paula Betzold's 533 with a 201 game. Others were Marilyn Elliott's 519 (189 game), Pat Hofer's 518 (194), Claire Bakowski's 503 (192), Marilyn Graham's 502 (192), and Barb Bade's 501. Other high games were 181 by Helen Daly, 178 by Honey Reese, 166 by Elly Holzer, 164 by Julie Grassy and 163 by Dolores Sapp. High game was a 742 by the Silverbirds, while high series was 2121 by the Nice 'N Easy team.

Midwest Boat Show Seeks Best Boat Story

Here's a chance to tell about your boating adventures, and win some cash in the process.

The 1972 Midwest Boat Show, to be held March 10-19, at the Arlington Park Exposition Center in Arlington Heights has announced a "Best Boating Story" contest.

Boat owners are urged to write their favorite boating yarn in 500 words or less, and turn it in to their marine dealer, who in turn, will enter it for them in the Midwest Boat Show.

Best boating story will win $100, and three runner-ups each will win $50, according to Edward P. Hansen, president of the Midwest Boat Show and owner of Hansen Marine Service, of McHenry, and Cary.

"We're looking for true-life stories about your most exciting and adventure-some boating trips, your longest voyages, and incidents which reflect genuine skill in both sailing and power boating," Hansen added. Contest finalists also will receive publicity, and will have a chance to tell their stories in person at the Midwest Boat Show.

Area marine dealers who will exhibit at the Midwest Boat Show who are on the lookout for "Best Boating Stories" include Florida's Mackie Bros., 663 Busse Hwy., Park Ridge; Larry's T.V. & Marine, 714 W. Irving Park, Bensenville; go into Wheeling's gym next week but we have to take it a step at a time."

The Hersey helmetsman, who has been home from school all week wrestling with a bout of pneumonia, has nonetheless had the word passed on to his charges not to take the Pirates lightly. "True, we beat them pretty handily last time out but not before they gave us all we wanted for nearly three-fourths of the game."

Continued Stelzgraber: "Palatine will always be dangerous. They've got too much offense not to be. One of their big men (Doug) Fyfe, has given them a big lift the last couple of weeks but any one of their starters is capable of a big point night. We've got to play tough defense if we want to hole them in."

Including their victory earlier in the current campaign, the Huskies will take a four-game win streak into the Palatine rivalry dating back to 1970, and Hersey is now 8-0 overall against conference competition this winter. If they can get by both the Pirates and Fremd on Saturday they could drop their final scheduled encounter at Wheeling next Tuesday and still remain on top of the circuit.

Winning them all is the alternative but first there is Palatine.

However, the Pirates will need a better overall effort if they are to pull an upset, according to coach Ron Finfrock, who admits that he is discouraged.

"We aren't competitive enough," admitted Ron. "We tend to quit too easily when we get behind. We seem to just lay off and say, 'It's your ball game; take it.'"

One exception to this rule, said the coach, is 6-4 forward Fyfe. "He's been our strongest competitor since Christmas," praised Finfrock. "He's worked hard on defense and offense and picked up his board game considerably. Fyfe has gone from an average of two or three boards a game to 10 or 12; and from eight or 10 points to 16 or 17 a game since Christmas. That's quite an improvement."

Finfrock continued, "Fyfe seems to be the only senior working to improve himself. The others are a little complacent. They figure they have a job locked up and they can take it easy."

Turning his thoughts more specifically to tonight and Hersey, Finfrock remembered the first encounter with the Huskies which ended in an 82-84 score. That was deceiving, though, since Palatine was within two late in the third quarter.

"This time we'll have to do a better job on the boards against Hersey and a better job against (Andy) Pancrats. (He had 29 points against Palatine in the first meeting). "Pancrats started hitting from about 20 feet and I don't know how you're going to stop a 6-9 guy from doing that."

Finfrock still feels the Pirates, now 8-9 overall, are capable of staying with anyone — even powerful Hersey.

ARLINGTON AT FREMD

"I suppose we were three points away from winning it," said Arlington's George Zigman concerning his team's faded chances of an MSL title. The trio of markers represented the 63-60 loss to Hersey on Saturday.

Zigman wasn't too thrilled with the officiating in the rugged game, especially in the latter stages.

"Hersey had only one foul in about the last 12 minutes," said Zigman. "That's pretty tough defense, especially in a game that was as aggressive as that one was."

"Actually we had hit 18 out of 22 at that point and this is what had kept us in the ball game."

Zigman said that it looked like Hersey would play Conant for the title. As for his team's goals the rest of the way, he had this to say:

"We'd like to finish second, win as many games as we can and make a good showing in the regional and maybe beyond that."

The Cardinals' weekend doubleheader should present a challenge, according to Zigman, because Fremd is hungry and Racine Case, a non-conference game Saturday night, is potent.

"They've been on the verge of beating people, but they seem like they can't get over the hump," said the Arlington coach. "They're dangerous."

As for visiting Case, Zigman recalled that the Wisconsin team had given Wheeling a battle earlier in the season despite the foul trouble.

Things have gone from bad to worse for Fremd in the last month as the Vikings have dropped five of the last six games. None of the losses have been close, either, and Fremd has won just once (over Stevenson) since the New year.

The main problem for the Vikings (now 6-11 overall) has been not so much a shortcoming on their part as the fact that they must compete in such a tough division. Other North teams seem to save their best efforts for the Vikings, who are still looking for their first divisional win after five losses.

The weekend agenda certainly doesn't get any easier for Fremd, which faces double trouble against Arlington at home and then in the gym of first-place Hersey. Both of those squads won convincingly over the Vikes the first time around.

Hersey fashioned an 83-87 romp over Fremd a couple of weeks ago as center Dave Corzine ran rampant with 28 points and Mark Leonard added 19 for one of the best games. Arlington was an 81-61 winner over the Vikes earlier this winter as Ken Peters and Tim Will destroyed them with 29 and 24 points, respectively.

So if those earlier games mean anything, Fremd will have to tighten up its defense and shut off some big guns in order to gain a much-needed victory in the next two days.

Forward Mark Hollinger and guard-playmaker Terry Kukla, while not spectacular scorers, have been in double figures consistently. Kukla has led the league in assists all season. Dan Mize, the other forward, has become a better scorer lately too. And Craig Johnson has returned to his center post after being sidelined for a few games.

SCHAUMBURG AT FOREST VIEW

"If these kids played poorly most of the time, I think it would make my job easier," Schaumburg coach Joe Breault sighed as he prepared the Saxons for their encounter at Forest View.

"When you're not doing a good job and you lose, it's pretty easy to explain. I've felt, for the most part, we've played pretty decent ball all season even though our record sure doesn't reflect it," the mentor continued.

With this in mind Breault figures it's a difficult task to get a team up for their games, week after week. "Take our last game with Elk Grove, for instance. The kids did just what they were told to do. They scrapped and they hung right in there all the way. Still, we got beat. How can I make our players believe it will be any different next time?"

He'll try to make them believe in any event. Last time Schaumburg lost to the Falcons 56-43 after battling them evenly through three quarters of the game. Breault will hope Schaumburg's staying power can be extended a bit this time around by injecting another dose of belief into the lineup.

"It will be an uphill battle though. The game is at their place and they realize now that they can't afford to lose another one if they want to stay in the race. They'll be throwing everything they have at us to try to break it open."

If Forest View plays the same way it did against Conant earlier this week, the Saxons shouldn't have too much trouble.

"We just blew it," said Ted Wissen, the Falcons' coach. "We didn't play one of our better ball games."

The crucial South Division loss, which knocked Forest View out of a share of first with Conant, was possibly due to his team's tightness, according to Wissen.

"We missed four one-and-ones in the last quarter," recalled Wissen. "Plus a layup or two."

The conference loss also stopped a Falcon four-game winning streak, the longest of the season. The team is now 10-7 on the year.

Win No. 11 might be harder than win No. 6, over Schaumburg was, according to Wissen. "They worry me," he said. "We're going to have to be ready for them."

Wissen is just hoping his team can win the rest of its games. Should Conant slip up in the meantime, the Falcons could still have a shot at the crown.

GLENBARD NORTH AT ELK GROVE
Opposing head coaches Bill Connors of Glenbard and Bill Parmentier of Elk Grove will go into tonight's affair almost blindfolded in anticipation of just how their clubs will perform.

"I think we had our seasonal high and low within the span of eight days," Connors said. His inconsistent Panthers ran touted Prospect out of the gym, 84-65, Jan. 28 but turned right around and got crushed by Forest View, 55-33 last Saturday.

"If I knew what caused our ups and downs, I wouldn't hesitate to correct the situation," Connors said. "It just seems that some nights we're ready to play ball and others we're not."

Parmentier is interested to see if the slow-down tactics employed by Schaumburg Tuesday night will have an adverse effect on his running Grenadiers.

At Rolling Meadows

A popular number for the hottest bowlers in the Washday League at Rolling Meadows Bowl was 531. . . . That was the best series posted last week, with three ladies tying — Helene Stephens, Christa Stanton and Rosella Huntley. . . . Other scores of better than 500 were Marion Schneider's 513, Marlene Gerau's 512, Norma Rafferty's 509, Bonnie Master-son's 507 and Bobbie Thomas' 501.

At Beverly Lanes

Only one pin separates second through fifth positions in the Parkway Men's bowling league. . . . Gutwein moved into second place, four points behind Rose. . . . Bill Larson's 591, including 213 and 219 games, paced individual scoring. . . . Al Karsten had 552-202 and Fred Turcotte 546-221. . . . Glenn Quade had a 200 game.

"We've put together a couple good ball games in a row," Parmentier said, "and I thought we were getting used to running with the ball. We were lucky to get out of Schaumburg (47-45) alive, but now we're going to have to adjust back to our running game."

The Grenadiers' biggest concern has to be a 6-5 Panther center Tom Witucki who averages 17 points a contest and can be devastating on the boards at both ends of the court.

Elk Grove has only 8-3 sophomore Ken Politz to rival Witucki in the giant department, but the Grenadiers' ability to position well and block out has kept them from losing games under the basket.

"There's no question that our game plan centers around shutting him (Witucki) off," Parmentier said. "I think if we can accomplish that and be able to run at Glenbard, we'll be able to stay with them."

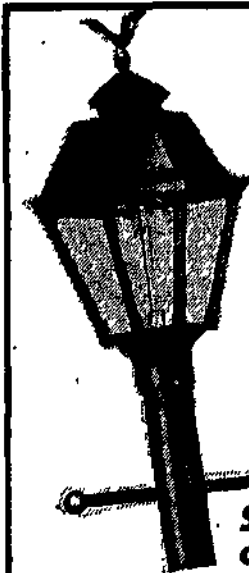

Tonight's battle also represents the first time in four games that the Grenadiers will sport a home court advantage. "I think we've been winning better on the road," Parmentier admitted. The Grens have posted a 7-3 record away from home and only a 2-5 slate within their friendly confines.

Glenbard has been experimenting more and more with the press, "but still with only mediocre results," according to Connors.

"We've been struggling in the early parts of our last couple of ball games," the Panther coach explained. "We know we're not very good at playing catch-up ball, so we might be tempted to throw the press on at the start to shake up our kids."

The Arlington Jaycees lost a 6-0 decision to the Dundee VFW Demos.

The Midnet All-Stars dropped a 3-2 game to Palatine. Dick Glass and Mike Browley were the goal scorers, with assists going to Rob Hudec and Tom Kneisel.

The All-Stars got back on the winning track by taking a 5-3 game from Wilmette. Tom Cronin, Mike Browley, Jeff Palmer, Dan Schultz and John Cooper scored one goal each. Assists went to Craig Glander, Dave Retzer, Marc Kemp, Cronin, Palmer, Browley and Schultz.

Arlington's Rob Roy Golf Club dropped a tough decision to the Chicago Royals, 4-3. Arlington jumped out to a 2-0 lead on goals by Vic Incinelli and Terry Nield with the assists going to Rich Bugalski, John Hetta, and Chris Mann. The Royals then scored three in a row to take the lead before Incinelli tied it up with a pass from Bugalski. With two minutes remaining, the Royals scored the winner on a breakaway. George Moldenhauer and Tom McGuire shared the goal-scoring.

Arlington's Lott Chevrolet outshot Dundee 21-4 and posted a 6-1 win. Scott Paulsen and Lee Schmidt led the way with two goals each. Tom Bailey and Lee Gray rounded out the scoring. The Squirt All-Stars faced a very strong Glenwood All-Star team and dropped a 3-0 game. Goals by Jim Murphy were called on to make 49 saves and was outstanding.

Arlington's McEnerny Insurance, in a great team effort, beat Elk Grove 3-1. Goal scorers were Pat Kelly, Bryan Schumann, and Jim McGuire. Rick Palmer picked up two assists.

The Arlington Firefighters lost a hard-fought game with the Rolling Meadows Maple Leafs by a score of 3-2. Goal scorers were Rick Palmer and Jim McGuire, with a single assist going to Chuck Lynch. Bill Donato was excellent in goal as he made 36 saves, several of which were on breakaways.

Arlington's Franklin Club lost 7-1 to Dundee. Jim Byers scored the lone goal assisted by Bob Macho and Dan Schmidt. Outstanding play was turned in by Bob More. Mark Rustenbauer and Jack Labouche.

Arlington's PeeWee All Stars were defeated by a strong Glenwood team 5-2. After a shaky first period in which the Stars gave up five goals, the boys settled down and played a fine game. Goal scorers for Arlington were Rusty Gault and Bryan Schumann.

Arlington's Conoco Schilling Oil dropped a 7-0 game to the Rolling Meadows Wings. Everyone but the players and coaches were surprised last Friday night when the Arlington Bantam All-Stars eliminated a good Deerfield team from the State Tournament. Deerfield had been favored but Coaches Don Cahalin and Bob Wheeler and their players inspired the outliners and outgrew their opponents to gain a 2-1 victory in double overtime. It was truly a team victory with everyone hunting and doing their job.

Goals by Dave DeLesse were superb as he turned back 20 of the 20 Deerfield shots, while making some unbelievable stops. Two of these saves were on breakaways in the overtime period. After a scoreless first period, Captain John Walsh put Arlington ahead with a goal assisted by Mike Retzer and Tom McDonald. Deerfield tied the score and that's the way the regulation time ended.

Then at 4:40 of the second overtime, Retzer took a pass from Jeff Gardner and Jerry Dudzinski and hit the lamp, giving Arlington its thrilling win. Arlington now advances to the semi-finals of the upper bracket of the tournament.

Following Friday night's victory, the Arlington Heights Bantam All-Stars journeyed Saturday morning to Glenwood for an early game against the Glenwood Gulls. Although Arlington's spirits were high and they showed flashes of their fine talents, clearly the efforts expended during the previous nights triumph were evident as they bowed by a 3-1 score. Goals by Mark Monroe made some fine saves and the defense was anchored as usual by a fine performance by Bill McGuire. Arlington's lone tally came off the stick of Brian Locker, assisted by Scott Glander.

Semi-Pro Team Being Formed

A semi-pro baseball team is presently being formed in the northwest area, according to Frank May.
 May, a former prep star at Forest View and also a standout with Harper College the past two years, is helping found the hardball team.
 The only requirement is that athletes be too old to play legion baseball. Those interested should write May. His address is 1 Bernard Court West, Buffalo Grove, Illinois 60089.
 May said that the team has applied for league status, but he wasn't sure if it would be granted yet. If it is, the team would be playing such teams as Northbrook and Skokie in the Central States League, a very competitive organization.

Wheeling Wins First Swim Meet

Wheeling ended nearly two full seasons of frustration in the Mid-Suburban League Wednesday afternoon.

Hosting the youthful Rolling Meadows swim team, the Wildcats snapped their nine-game conference losing streak with a 79-16 victory. The 'Cats had been winless in nine meets going into the dual against the MSL's first-year school.

Three 'Cats posted double wins as their team slammed the Mustangs in six events. Matt Zukowski started the 1-2 finishes with a win in the 200 freestyle (2:21.1). He later won the 400 freestyle (5:01).

Splashing to the other two doubles were Fred Metz in the 50 freestyle (1:25.8) and the 100 freestyle (1:59.5) and Ken Bergman in the 100 butterfly (1:03.6) and the 100 breaststroke (1:13.2).

Wheeling completely shutout Rolling Meadows in first-place finishes. The Mustangs, 0-6 in league duals, could manage only three seconds in individual events — Mike Tousey in diving, Milan Diklich in the butterfly and Dave Knox in the breaststroke.

Behind the double wins of Paul Lindquist, the 'Cats won the frosh-soph meet, 63-32. Lindquist finished first in the 200 individual medley and 100 butterfly. Bill Grunwald won the 100 and 200 freestyle events for the Mustangs.

Grosch, Olson Win In Doubles

Four-game averages of 215 and 197 are hard to beat any time, and they were just that in the Paddock Classic Traveling League Doubles Tournament at Rolling Meadows Bowl Monday night.

The above two figures were the standards posted by Russ Grosch and Ray Olson, respectively, who won the tourney and a fat $140 first prize while representing Buick-In-Evanston of the PCTL.

The duo combined for a 1642 total for their four games, 26 pins ahead better than runner-up Des Plaines Ace Hardware, which entered Don Christensen and Barry Stjernberg.

Grosch and Al Haase of Gaare Oil Co. each rolled a hot 245 in their second outings to tie for high game of the tourney. Grosch's other games were 192, 208 and 207 for an 852 total — best series of the night — while Olson strung together games of 189, 213, 220 and 168 for a 790 final mark.

Christensen and Stjernberg contributed almost equally to Des Plaines' cause with 811 and 805, respectively, to combine for 1616 and a $90 second prize. After just a 153 start, Christensen took off for 212, 200 and 246. Stjernberg opened in the groove for 232, 204, 203 and 166.

Third prize and a reward of $70 went to the Uncle Andy's Cow Palace twosome of Joe Simonis and George Schmidt. Simonis banged out the third-best series of the evening with 824 after games of 190, 218, 232 and 184. Schmidt posted a 738 with a high game of 218.

A Gaare Oil team of Al Jordan and Gene Kirkham took $47 for fourth place with a 1550 series. Jordan had a 223 game and three others in the 190's on his way to an 804 mark. Kirkham came up with 755.

Fifth place and $15 ended in a tie between duos from Buick-In-Evanston (Terry Herlihy and Fred Hansen) and Gaare (Haase and Thullen). Hansen hit 886 on the nose with three 200 games and Herlihy had 747. Haase had a 244 to go with his 245, ending with 839 for the second-best series of the night, and Thullen's series was 708.

High game out of the money, worth $20, was a 450 by another Buick-In-Evanston pair — Don Pozsgay (235) and Dick Kamin (215). Ernie Koche and Bob Glaser of Morton Pontiac were only four pins out of the money with a respectable 1543.

At Beverly Lanes

Bette Hennessy of the Mustangs rolled games of 196, 182 and 176 for a high series of 551 in the Elks Ladies Auxiliary League at Beverly Lanes. . . . There were six 200 or better games with handicap — Marge Clockesser's 211, Ginny Lietz's 210, Ella Kramer's 206, Nan Larsen's 202, Mary Regan also 202 and Carmella Nelson's 200. . . . The Stingrays hold first place by two points, followed in order by the Cougars, Pintos, Mavericks and Dusters.

Donalies Paces Hoffman Entry In Power Lifting

Dick Donalies of Hoffman Estates led an eight-man team that took two first places, two seconds and a third in the Central AAU Junior State Power Lifting meet at Northwestern University.

The competing team from Hoffman represented the Iron Horsemen Lifting Club, which was formed by Donalies and friends less than a year ago. Dick won second place in the 242-pound class, weighing 199 pounds.

Other members of the team also were impressive against tough competition. The club's 165-pound lifter won the first division Best Lifter trophy and the Iron Horsemen's 148-pounder set a new state dead lift record of 480 pounds.

Youth Hockey

The Elk Grove Village Amateur Hockey Association had another successful week, winning two against one loss and one tie.

The Squids took a 4-3 decision from the Naperville Stars to maintain their first-place status. The Foxes won 1-1, the Bananas lost 5-2 and the Midgits won 4-2.

In Bananas action, Naperville took a 2-0 half-time lead before Elk Grove came back to tie the score on an unassisted goal by Brian Helm and a score by John Campbell, assisted by Bill Javors. But Elk Grove could not keep the momentum as Naperville rallied for three goals and the victory.

In the Midgits' win over Naperville, Larry Mitsch got things rolling with 3-36 left in the first period on a goal which was assisted by Sven Overland and Jim Laine. Naperville tied it with 1-36 left in the period.

Ron Cleecker gave Elk Grove the lead for good when he scored at 5:04 of the second period, assisted by John Christensen. At 2:23 Laine scored assisted by Ray Fedel and seconds later, Frank Ferraro put in another with Bill Halpenny assisting.

Also playing fine games were goalies Steve Cimino and John Javors, who made some good stops. Ron Hayden, Gregg Ibarra, John Foster, John Gallagher, Rob Gocke, Mike Wellman and Mark Meizo.

In addition, the team did so well that it accumulated the most points and won the team championship trophy. Other members were Armand Christopher (123-pound class), Lester Martinez (132), Denny Thompson (140), John Kocovsky (165), Ed Hall and Ralph Sisk (198), and Steve Davidson (super heavyweight).

Donalies and most of the club members are employed at Bell Telephone Laboratories in Naperville. Several members work at Western Electric.

Dick, Chairman of the club, said he feels it has been so successful (16 trophies from three AAU meets in 11 months) because of three factors:

- The systematic use of tried and proven weight lifting principles along with the proper amount of experimentation.
- A lot of hard work.
- Ability to always keep workouts interesting, sometimes humorous and occasionally hilarious. With this atmosphere, workouts are easy to bear.

At Rolling Meadows

A high series of 1997 and a 699 game were rolled by the Ford's in the Thursday Eye Openers league at Rolling Meadows Bowl. . . . Top bowlers of the week were Dorothy Kash with 518-215, Willa Funk with 499-197, Angie Pilcher with 497-180, Shirley Twigg with 494-192, Clarie Bakowski with 485-188, Marilyn Klug with 484-180, Ginnie Smith with 476 and Grace Lisching with a 182 game. . . . Angie Pilcher had a triplicate series of three 145 games. . . . Sophie Topp converted the 5-10 split and Claire Bakowski and Pam Snell each covered the 5-7.

Highlights — All Grades
 St. Hubert's eighth grade Knights came from a two-point deficit at the start of the fourth quarter to defeat St. James by 13. Joe Kuzak led the way with 20 points and 12 rebounds while Joe Gajewski had 17 points and 13 rebounds. The winners were aided by the fact that two Bulldogs fouled out. Terry Green of St. James led all scorers with 24 points and Phil O'Kane scored 16. The Bulldogs put up a strong fight despite the loss of two regulars because of illness.

Three teams clinched playoff berths last week — St. Hubert and Our Lady of the Wayside in the North Section and St. Thomas Villanova in the South. The playoffs will be held Feb. 26 and 27 at St. Viator High School.

In seventh grade action, three other teams clinched spots in the playoffs. They were St. Colette and St. Thomas of Villanova in the South Section and undefeated Our Lady of the Wayside in the North. The remaining North berth has fallen down to St. Hubert or St. Raymond. Each has an 8-3 record with two games to play.

The seventh grade team from St. Raymond continued its winning ways with a 28-22 victory over stubborn St. Emily at the losers' gym. St. Raymond again was led by Lou Citro's 11 points and 10 rebounds. The winners pulled ahead to lead by five at halftime and upped the margin to 10 in the third quarter behind a solid defense that held St. Emily to just two points for the quarter. Both teams emptied their benches in the last quarter. St. Raymond upped its overall record to 14-6.

This Saturday, St. Raymond will take on Lincoln Junior High at the latter's gym at 7 p.m. St. Ray's next league game is Sunday against St. Alphonsus of Prospect Heights in Lincoln at 2 p.m.

St. Colette's seventh graders made it eight wins in 11 league games, defeating St. Theresa by 15 points in a well-played game both offensively and defensively. Bob Rose was high for the Tigers with 16 while Terry Gees and Scott Sauer added eight each. Jeff Schrock led rebounders with 12.

In eighth grade action, St. Theresa rolled 68-37 with Ivorio leading the way with 21 points. St. Colette's Mark Lavin had 11 and Dan Williams potted 10. St. Theresa also won the sixth grade game, 20-10.

ST. THERESA (PALATINE)

St. Theresa's Trojans used a full-court press to crush the St. Colette Tigers 29-10 at Sacred Heart High in Rolling Meadows. It was the Trojans' 14th win of the season.

Forward Chris Plazak led the winners with 10 points while John Joston and Kevi Weaver added five each. The Theresa press was so effective that St. Colette did not score a point for nearly three quarters. The halftime score was 16-0.

St. Theresa will meet St. Joseph of Wheeling at 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 12 at St. Francis in Lake Zurich in the first round of the St. Francis Invitational Tournament.

In all, eight teams from the Herald newspapers area will compete in the St. Francis Invitational for sixth graders. St. Joseph of Wheeling and St. Mary's of Buffalo Grove will represent the Northern Catholic Conference. The Northwest Catholic Conference will have six teams entered — St. Raymond and St. Emily of Mount Prospect, Our Lady of the Wayside of Arlington Heights, St. Theresa, St. Alphonsus of Prospect Heights and St. Colette of Rolling Meadows.

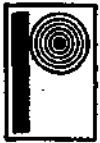

JACK LONDON (WHEELING)
 Jack London's eighth graders avenged their only loss of the season and broke a Junior High Mid-Suburban League tie for first place by noing out the River Trails Chiefs, 42-41.

Playing at home, the London Huskies stomped to a 21-16 lead at halftime but the Chiefs used a tough press to cause numerous turnovers and took over the lead in the fourth quarter. The Huskies fought back, finally winning the thriller on a 20-foot jumper by Chuck Salloway with 10 seconds left. Salloway led both teams with 17 points while teammate Glen Barry hit for 13. Maddix and Abraham led Trails with 10 each. London's record now is 10-1.

'I'd never shoot an animal again,' Plimpton pledges after Africa trip

"I'd never shoot an animal again," George Plimpton said with conviction. "The whole idea of a trophy is ugly to me now."

Plimpton, recently returned from his third trip to Africa, has permanently exchanged his shotgun in favor of a long-range lens for his cameras. George had gone off to the northern regions of Kenya in search of Ahmed, considered the largest living land mammal, in order to photograph him for Life Magazine. "Plimpton! Adventure in Africa," was recently shown on the ABC Television Network.

"I DON'T say that the hunters' instinct has been driven out of me," continued Plimpton. "It's true I once shot a buffalo—he's a pretty mean character. But I thank my lucky stars I never shot a lion or a leopard

"I was given the opportunity to go on safari," George explained about a trip he made several years ago. "I'd always been an admirer of Hemingway's books, and books about big game shooting. It was part curiosity, part the challenge of looking for a monster buffalo. Then also, I thought I could write about big game hunting. In particular, the hunt for an animal I went in search of called the bongo...a very rare antelope which lives in the mountains up in the Aberdares. I spent two weeks looking for him and never got one. Never even saw one, though I did come very close.

"That's hunting at its very best," said Plimpton. "You spend two weeks tracking an impossibly difficult animal with the chance of getting him about one in 50; that's true hunting on his terms. He left me crawling around looking like an idiot—that's pure hunting and I enjoyed it enormously."

idea of sitting over a dead zebra waiting for a lion to come to you, that's spooky. It's too easy.

"If you go on safari to gun down an elephant—that's fiendish," said George. "I spent over a month studying elephant and talking to hunters and knowing something of the lust they have for ivory. After having seen the largest elephant in the world—Ahmed—you think twice about hunting him. There's one corner of your brain that says holy mackerel look at that thing...there's a part of the psyche that says I'd like to have that tusk. But there's an even better part of your brain that says 'No, I've had the supreme opportunity of watching this animal for a week, of seeing what he does...that's fun. That's terribly exciting. And that's what our film shows.'"

'Dirty, nasty' Jack gets a lovable role

Actor Jack Elam was in considerable pain. He had cracked a rib a couple of days earlier while working in a strenuous scene.

Nevertheless, for four takes, he burst through the bar's swinging doors and lightfooted it up the street in double time, in the style of someone secretly on the lam—he was sneaking away from Sheriff Nichols (James Garner), whose pocket he had just picked in the "Man of the Cloth" segment of NBC Television Network's "James Garner as Nichols," to be colorcast Tuesday, Feb. 15.

ELAM PORTRAYS a lovable scoundrel in the episode. Earlier in his career he specialized in just plain scoundrels—dirty, nasty characters.

"For a while, every time there was bunch of heavies, I was one of them," said Jack. "After that, whenever there was a bunch of heavies, I was the leader."

Then Elam appeared as a likable rascal in two Garner films, "Support Your Local Sheriff" and "Support Your Local Gunfighter."

"NOBODY OFFERS me heavy roles any more," he says. "My career has taken a new turn and now I'm lovable."

Elam, a veteran of more than 100 movies and 200 TV shows—most of them Westerns—almost always played a villain.

"I played likable characters once in a while but nobody noticed until the two 'support your' films with Garner. Those movies attracted so much attention they opened a lot of doors for me. But I'd still like to play a good heavy about once a year just to keep my hand in," he said.

A Valentine's Patch of Blue

A patch of Blue on Valentine's Day?

Depending on what your sentiments are toward movies, this coming week will be either a blockbuster or a bust. Nobody knows that better than Merv Griffin, whose CBS late-night talk show finally breathed its final breath last week.

CARSON

GRIFFIN

Beginning Monday night, February 14, CBS will debut network movies in the 10:30 p.m. (local time) slot. This entire week's late evening schedule should prove interesting, what with CBS throwing five heavyweight films against the two remaining talk show hosts, NBC's Johnny Carson and ABC's Dick Cavett.

Each network is well aware that ratings will carefully be taken, and is programming accordingly. Carson's show will be originating from Hollywood, where a host of top name personalities will be taped for appearances. Cavett, who has tended to go with fewer guests—including some shows with the "one guest only" format—is expected to also have top flight talent.

CBS, meanwhile, will find out whether movies will keep more people out of bed and in front of the tube. The network, in addition, is hoping that the flicks will lure a goodly segment away from Carson and Cavett.

"A PATCH OF Blue," the 1965 offering with excellent performances from Elizabeth Hartman, Sidney Poitier and Shelley Winters will kick off the "CBS Late Movie" schedule. Ironically, the film is one of the select few of recent vintage that is in black and white. The network was undoubtedly aware of what reaction that—in this day and age of color television—may have. But color isn't everything...this film's content is what really counts.

Other 10:30 p.m. CBS movies during this first week will be "Anniversary," a Bette Davis chiller (Tuesday); "Twilight of Honor," a courtroom drama centering around the murder of a town's leading citizen with Richard Chamberlain and Joey Heatherton (Wednesday); and "The Glass Bottom Boat," a better-than-average comedy with Doris Day and Rod Taylor (Thursday). The final fare of the week (Friday) will be "The Fearless Vampire Killers," starring the late Sharon Tate and her husband, actor-producer Roman Polanski.

The Carson and Cavett shows both appear to be on solid footing, with Carson's "Tonight Show" drawing the larger audiences. Just what effect the movies will have on the talk shows...we'll have to wait and see.

*** **

TWO MOVIE classics, "Ben Hur" and "Cleopatra" will be among the top offerings this week, but you'll have to have two TV sets around in an attempt to watch the beginning of one and the ending of another. As usual, the networks (in this case, CBS and ABC) have ratings in mind and we're faced with the dilemma of deciding which one to watch or how to watch both. "Cleopatra" will be shown on two consecutive nights, Sunday, Feb. 13 and Monday, Feb. 14, at 8 p.m. on ABC. CBS will show "Ben Hur" on consecutive Sundays, Feb. 13 and Feb. 20, starting at 6:30 p.m. and ending at 8:30 p.m.

Final Movie Note: First TV showing of the 1961 Academy Award-winning "West Side Story" is set for a two-night run on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 14-15. Another date to circle on your TV movie calendar?

ON THE COVER: Rex Harrison (on throne) stars as Julius Caesar, Richard Burton (right) stars as Marc Antony and Roddy McDowell as Octavian in the spectacular "Cleopatra." The Academy Award winner will be telecast in two parts, on Sunday, Feb. 13 and Monday, Feb. 14 at 8 p.m. on the ABC Television Network.

For Nixon visit. . .

TV loads 40 tons of pool equipment

During the last month, over a thousand cases of television equipment weighing over 40 tons arrived at NBC News' loading facility in Fairview, N.J. The equipment, which will be used by the three networks for extensive pool coverage of President Nixon's visit to China, left Jan. 29 for Peking from John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York, via Trans-World Airlines.

The flight plan called for 22 hours of actual flying time. The special 707 jet—carrying the equipment and approximately 61 technicians from the three networks—flew to Los Angeles, then to Honolulu, refueled at Wake Island, flew to Guam, and then on to Shanghai, where it picked up Chinese navigators for the final approach to Peking Airport.

All satellite transmission from China will be done on a pool basis, with tape and film facilities for processing stories located at a special transmission center. The Chinese have prepared this facility so TV programs can be transmitted to the Pacific satellite and sent directly to the network news operations in New York.

Hard-hitting hockey

The Chicago Black Hawks' goalie Tony Esposito (center) is surrounded by the fastest men in the world, the athletes of the National Hockey League. In our area, hockey can be seen as the CBS Television Network televises key games on Sunday afternoons, while WGN-TV (Channel 9), Chicago, telecasts a large number of Black Hawk games. In this picture we see the face-off (top left); searing speed (top right); slam-bang action along the boards (lower left); and the moment of tangle in front of the goal (lower right). Hockey's where the action is.

Arnie's Army to be rooting for No. 5

For golf's all-time top money winner, Arnold Palmer, it would be difficult to express a preference for any tournament. But if Arnie had to pinpoint one, it could very well be the Bob Hope Desert Classic, the final two rounds of which will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Saturday, Feb. 12, and Sunday, Feb. 13, 4-5:30 p.m. both days.

Palmer has captured one-third of the Hope Classics—four out of twelve—and his most recent triumph in these 90-hole marathons was achieved in 1971. After a 14-month period void of victories, Palmer defeated Ray Floyd in a sudden-death playoff on the first hole by sinking a 25-foot putt. BACK IN 1960, in the inaugural Classic, the first recruits in "Arnie's Army" gathered in Palm Desert, Calif. Palmer was the victor and he went on from there to become the U.S. open champion.

The "army," in much larger numbers, will be present this year when Arnie defends his title in the five rounds of the $145,000 tournament, to be played over four courses—Bermuda Dunes, Eldorado, La Quinta and Indian Wells. The NBC colorcasts will cover the last four holes on the final two days at Indian Wells.

Sunday, Feb. 13, will be a special day for television sports fans. Before the cameras zero in on the decisive shots in the Desert Classic, NBC-TV will colorcast the closing ceremonies of the XI Winter Olympics, via satellite, from Sapporo, Japan 2-4 p.m.

Journalist reflects. . .

Brinkley pleased with youthful mood

NBC News correspondent David Brinkley, in a recent NBC Radio Network broadcast, reflected on the encouraging change in the mood and behavior of young people.

Brinkley said "Nobody knows yet exactly what happened to the public mood in 1971, particularly that of the young people. But we know something. We know that urban riots, campus riots and so on were much reduced. The burning of banks and ROTC buildings was stopped almost entirely, and if a dean of students was kicked down the stairs in 1971, I didn't hear of it. The radical movement—left and right—was fairly quiet."

DAVID BRINKLEY

"YOUNG PEOPLE WHO in previous years were rioting on the campuses, holding peace marches and so on, were actually said to have returned to work. There were reports that incoming freshman classes sang school songs, and did not start any fires. Even the Berkeley campus was reasonably quiet."

"Younger people were said—and we shouldn't make too much of this—were said to have figured out that violence accomplished nothing, and in fact usually had the opposite of the desired effect. It was clear they continued to reject their parents' preoccupation with material possessions, and if that truly is the case it is hard to quarrel with them."

"In Washington and other big cities, there were a number of new stores of various kind opened by a lot of young people who might once have been called hippies, and it was clear the American mercantile instinct was not dead. They ran their stores with much the same aggressiveness we've seen in the previous generation of merchants, made the same complaints about shoplifters, and same complaints about the city hall bureaucracy and its lazy bungling, the same complaints about taxes we've been hearing for years at the annual meetings of the Chamber of Commerce."

"There was more pot smoking but less whiskey drinking, more shoplifting but fewer riots. This would be the time to say something pompous, if I knew what to make of all this. But I don't."

tv MAILBAG

Is Rod Serling, who wrote THE TWILIGHT ZONE, the same man who is the host on NIGHT GALLERY? If he is, can I please have his address?

—Terry Plettner
Schaumburg

ROD SERLING

They are one and the same! Serling is not only the host but the writer of ROD SERLING'S NIGHT GALLERY. His Emmy Award-winning teleplays, "Patterns" and "Requiem for a Heavyweight" were made into motion pictures. He has also received TV-Radio Mirror's Golden Dozen Award for the most original series, and Fame's Annual Critics' Poll Award. He holds the first Peabody Award ever bestowed on a writer.

Write him in-care-of NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

I am a great fan of ALIAS SMITH AND JONES, and so are a lot of my friends. Who will play the part of Hannibal Heyes now?

—Jeri Dyklinga
Hoffman Estates

As a great fan you're probably already aware that the part of Hannibal Heyes is being played by a blue-eyed, athletic type named Roger Davis.

Davis is not new to the series, since it's his voice that has introduced each episode.

We have some questions concerning Flip Wilson. What is his background? Where can we write to him? Please print a picture of him.

—Michele and Karen Hanrahan
Elk Grove Village

FLIP WILSON

About his childhood Flip once commented, "We were so poor I couldn't see any way out. I realized I wouldn't have any Christmans until I made one for myself." Flip dropped out of school at 16, lied about his age, and joined the Air Force. Flip worked as a bellhop after his service sojourn and persuaded the manager to let him do a comedy walk-on. He played club dates until 1965 when he did a guest spot on THE TONIGHT SHOW STAR-ING JOHNNY CARSON, and the rest is history.

Write Flip in-care-of NBC, 30 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10020.

How old are Eddy Arnold, Shirley Temple, and Janet Leigh?

—Tammy Miles
Elk Grove Village

The little sweetheart who took a trip on "The Good Ship Lollipop" is 43-years-old. Janet Leigh is 44, and the country singer from Henderson, Tenn. was born in 1918.

I always read your Mailbag every week. Could you tell me where to write to the Chicago Blackhawks? I would like to write to Bobby Hull and Keith Magnuson.

—M.A.F.
Palatine

For you and the other hockey fans who have requested the same. Write to the Blackhawks at 1800 West Madison, Chicago.

Where can I write to Dennis Cole of BEARCATS? Is he married?

—Mary Racette
Buffalo Grove

DENNIS COLE

Cole, a former stuntman, is divorced and has a son, Joey, who was born in 1962. Before Dennis landed an acting assignment he worked as a doorman-bouncer in a nightclub.

Write him in-care-of CBS, 51 West 52nd St., N.Y., N.Y. 10019

On THE NEW DICK VAN DYKE SHOW is the girl who plays his wife really his wife? How old is she?

—Patty Hawthorne
Arlington Heights

Hope Lange, the 38-year-old actress who plays Jenny Preston, was formerly married to actor Don Murray and is the mother of two children.

Van Dyke is married to his childhood sweetheart, Marjorie Willett, and they are the parents to two sons and two daughters.

I would like to write to Tony Curtis and Roger Moore. I like watching THE PERSUADERS.

—Joan Celpkie
Rolling Meadows

TONY CURTIS

Your letter will reach Danny Wilde (Tony Curtis), the quick-thinking American millionaire, and Lord Brett Sinclair (Roger Moore), the aristocrat, if you address the envelope to ABC, 1330 Ave. of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10019

How old is Mizzi Gayner? I says she is in her middle 30's. My son-in-law said she was in the late 40's. Who is right?

Also, Ginger Rogers is in her late 50's. Right or wrong?

—MRS. A.B.
Arlington Hts.

Another family dispute? Well, you're both about equally wrong on Miss Gaynor. She is 40 years old.

You're very close on Miss Rogers. She's 60.

Follow the leader

PLAYING FOLLOWERS of a mystical leader are Anne Lockhart and Rick Weaver, daughter and son of famous show business names, in an episode of "Cannon" Tuesday, Feb. 15, 8:30-9:30 p.m. on the CBS Television Network. Miss Lockhart is the daughter of June Lockhart and Weaver is the son of Dennis Weaver. William Conrad stars on "Cannon."

Moon Lake Village Planners Ignored Us: Park District

"A whole little community of 17,000 who are going to need recreation" is Fred Weaver's reaction to a 6,700 multi-unit planned community proposed for Hoffman Estates.

Weaver, president of the Hoffman Estates Park District Board of Commissioners, expressed the sentiment Wednesday at a village plan commission public hearing on a request by Robin Construction Co. to make changes in Phase II of its 425-acre Moon Lake Village project here.

"The park district would like an additional site," Weaver told Robin representatives. Weaver is a member of the Hoffman Estates Plan Commission.

Citing market changes, Robin wants to build 1,408 ownership condominium and ownership units in exchange for apartment rental units as was proposed when the village approved the original plan.

THE DEVELOPERS also are planning a 530 yard, 71-par golf course that wasn't included in the original plan. Under village ordinances, major changes in approved projects must be presented again to village officials.

Expressing irritation at the act Robin talked to school and fire officials and ignored the park district in its planning, Weaver was a little skeptical on whether enough recreation area was being planned to handle population generated by the development. Robin projects the 6,700 units, when fully occupied, will produce between 16,000 and 17,000 Hoffman Estates residents.

In addition to the 460 Phase I apartment units already built, Robin is proposing 4,814 apartment rental units, a small number of single-family residences and the 1,408 ownership condominiums and townhouses.

In addition to the 107-acre golf course, Robin will scatter swimming pools, tennis courts and lakes throughout the development. The facilities, however, will be basically privately-owned and only open to residents of the development.

THE COMPANY has already agreed to donate an eight-acre school site in the northwestern part of the development and a 7.6-acre site in the northwest eastern corner. Per its agreement with School Dist. 54, the park district will be given approximately four acres on each site. The school retains the land, usually between three and four acres, on which the school building will be constructed.

Weaver said the park district should also receive a third open-space site, preferably four acres, for recreational "programming." Envisioned for the site, he added, would be the typical programming such as tot lots, athletic activities such as volleyball and softball, adult activities, arts and crafts, and others.

If contributed, the park district would likely build a structure on the site, Weaver added.

Robin representatives were non-committal. They said the company would be willing to discuss the matter.

They noted in the revised plan, 229.9 acres or 71.5 of the acreage is open space as compared to the 194.5 acres or 59.1 per cent in the original plan. The golf course, initially would be a fee course.

THE PLAN commission deferred a decision to its March 8 meeting. After the commission recommends, the village board will make the final decision.

If approval is gained, Robin would like to begin construction of the golf course and some of the units this spring.

'Life' Program Helps Those Who Need It

by NANCY COWGER

The new widow who does not know how to deal with life insurance papers, the victims of a fire who need food, clothing and shelter, the family with a sick mother who cannot do the cooking and cleaning — these are among the people Community Life Program wants to help.

Community Life Program was formed only three weeks ago, as an inter-faith emergency assistance group of volunteers. The group has held only two meetings, and already it has 180 volunteer members, said Bob Wosneski, 1332 Blandon, Schaumburg, one of the organizers.

The group will hold its first service project this weekend, a drive to collect food staples and used clothing and toys to stock a distribution center from which families in need can be supplied with necessities.

Collections will be held 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday in the basement of St. Hubert's Church, 126 Grand Canyon Blvd., Hoffman Estates.

FROM 35 TO 40 members of the new organization have agreed to work at the collection, and the drive will be staffed throughout the hours it is open, said Wosneski.

Proximity, not criminal tendency, is blamed for the higher incidence of police complaints from local apartment complexes compared to the number from single-family homeowners.

Persons who are interested in joining the volunteers, or who seek assistance, may contact the group by phoning Wosneski at 894-2077, the church rectory at 894-6677, or Emmett Gale, another organizer, at 894-1231.

Charged Cop To Face Quiz

A Schaumburg policeman charged with infractions of department rules and regulations is to face the Schaumburg Police and Fire Commission Feb. 24.

Raymond Kwiek, 31, of Arlington Heights, was suspended from the Schaumburg Police Department Feb. 1, four years to the day following his last day of service.

The charges were placed by Chief Martin Conroy who yesterday said only that allegations against Kwiek include giving a misstatement to a sergeant and failure to report a subpoena in a criminal case.

Martin Coniglio, police and fire commission chairman added that Kwiek's attorney has requested a continuance because Kwiek will be out of town on the date the hearing is scheduled.

Neither Coniglio nor Chief Conroy would elaborate any further on the charges.

Kwiek, contacted yesterday had no comment and would not reveal the name of his attorney.

Community Life Program has set up four divisions for aiding residents of Schaumburg and Hoffman Estates. The services will be offered in some cases to welfare families, but generally "to people who need help," said Wosneski. The divisions were organized to cover all basic needs for assistance.

Service divisions are material services, to be administered through the distribution center; professional services, to include legal, dental and medical assistance; home services, to include such things as baby-sitting, providing transportation, cleaning or cooking, and human resources, seen now as investigatory work in the communities to determine where and what the needs are.

Until now the organization has received no formal publicity, but has chosen instead to spread word of its plans through posters, leaflets and announcements from church pulpits. Its members include representatives from the Methodist, Catholic, Lutheran and Jewish faiths in the communities.

WOSNESKI SAID the group wanted to take things gradually until members were sure they would "get off the ground." While the organization is, in a

by JERRY THOMAS

Proximity, not criminal tendency, is blamed for the higher incidence of police complaints from local apartment complexes compared to the number from single-family homeowners.

Police Chiefs John O'Connell of Hoffman Estates and Martin Conroy of Schaumburg both admit more calls come into the stations from apartment renters than from single-family areas.

"This does not prove that renters have more police problems," insists Chief O'Connell. "In a single-family block if there is a family fight chances are no one hears it and there is no complaint. In an apartment unit that same fight becomes a neighbor's concern and often reason enough for the neighbor to call police," said O'Connell.

"This is what I mean when I said concentration of families is responsible for many of the police incidents we count as part of the village police work," said O'Connell.

THE CHIEF said he would not discourage calls like the one he talked about. "People should be concerned about one another's safety," he added.

O'Connell noted that most apartment units in Hoffman Estates — seven big rental developments — Century Towers, Hermitage Trace, Prairie Ridge, Grand Canyon Apartment Hoffman-Rosner, Moon Lake and Hilldale have private streets.

"We still patrol them," said O'Connell. "Our department is concerned with crime in the entire community and I believe apartments and the people that rent them are all part of the community," said the chief.

"Usually renters are the younger members of the village, like six of my single patrolmen and two married men who live in apartment complexes. Four Schaumburg policemen rent apartments also.

"I wouldn't call them drifters, or transients. For the most part people who rent do so because they are attempting to learn about the community they work in and may be saving money to buy a home. But sometimes they just prefer the amenities of apartment life," said O'Connell.

CHIEF CONROY said he expects more calls to come from one apartment complex. "International Village in Schaumburg with 700 units for rent is equal to a big chunk of our single-family development," he pointed out.

Conroy added that International Village might have more residents but is still easier to patrol than many single-family units would be.

"I'll say this much for apartment developments, we have a lot fewer stray dog complaints," said Conroy.

Both chiefs said apartments do not provide an extra problem for the police.

BOTH CONROY and O'Connell are closely watching legislative progress on a recent bill proposed by Rep. David Regner.

The bill now in committee would give villages the power to pass ordinances allowing village police to enforce traffic violations and patrol privately owned streets.

At present both Conroy and O'Connell patrol private streets at the developers request, however if a developer denied them this access they could be without jurisdiction on the private property.

O'Connell added in criminal case the private property designation doesn't apply but added that routine traffic violation is another issue.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The administration has asked Congress to officially recognize devaluation of the dollar by raising the price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce.

The director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs denied that his former deputy, John H. Finlator, had been muzzled in expressing his view that the use of marijuana should be legalized.

The average American consumer will spend nearly 6 per cent more for food this year, paying out a record of about $125 billion, the Agriculture Department has predicted.

Oregon State University officials say they may seal off the campus to all but students and faculty because of four attacks on students, one of them the fatal stabbing of a coed.

To combat a record one-year jump in welfare costs, the government has decided to advance the states about $1 billion in aid funds that could return thousands of persons to the welfare rolls this year.

The State

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will ask the state legislature for an emergency appropriation to help offset an expected $107 million deficit in the state welfare budget, it has been revealed.

Elgin High School remained closed after a meeting between student leaders, faculty and administration to discuss conditions that led up to fighting between black and white students.

Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan announced the return of 19 indictments charging the Republic Steel Corporation's South Chicago works with air and water pollution, reckless conduct and criminal damage to property.

The World

Avery Brundage, veteran president of the International Olympic Committee said Winter Olympic competition should be stopped because it is "not universal" and is plagued with scandal.

A powerful booby trap blew a leg off a British army officer near the Irish Republican border. In downtown Belfast a bomb blast ripped through a sporting goods store, injuring at least three persons.

The United States refused to set a date for the next session of the Paris peace talks in protest against a French authorized conference called by left-wing groups for this weekend to denounce U.S. policies.

The War

Wave after wave of American B52s pounded a camp from which Viet Cong fired rockets into the U.S. air base at Da Nang. The B52 raids amounted to the most concentrated attacks by the Stratofortresses in five months.

Roselle-Schaumburg Road Site

Day Care 'Special Use' OK'd

If "Boom Boom Balloon" day care center can operate at a reasonable profit while conforming to Schaumburg's ordinances, its developers will locate the proposed facility in the west side of Roselle Road north of Schaumburg Road.

The Schaumburg Zoning Board of Appeals Wednesday gave a favorable recommendation for special use of the site as a day care center and recommended a change in zoning from residential to B-2 business.

Schaumburg does not have an ordinance governing day care operations, however the plan commission recently formulated an ordinance the village trustees should act on this month.

Zoning board chairman Russell Parker warned the petitioner Frank Muneo of Barrington that the zoning board will stipulate that the recommendation be acted upon only after the village board acts on the proposed ordinance.

MUNE0, A general contractor and land developer, owns the lot that fronts for 100 feet on Roselle Road, and is 330 feet deep.

The zoning board did not offer any objections to his petition for business zoning. Muneo pointed out that surrounding development is predominantly commercial and business.

He introduced Richard and Bonnie Clatch, who own and operate a day care center in Glenview, as prospective tenants for the one-story 7,500 square foot building he wants to build on his lot.

The Clatch Glenview center operates under state license. Their presentation showed the operation of the facility that handles 85 youngsters between two and six years old.

PARKER TOLD the Clatches the village's proposed day care ordinance asks for more play space per child than their present operation offers in both indoor and outdoor areas. "This does not mean the village board will adopt this criteria. Only they can determine what the final ordinance will stipulate," Parker added.

Atty. Eugene Di Monte representing Muneo said his client is interested mainly in developing the lot as business property. He accepted the zoning recommendation and agreed further development would be contingent on the village board's actions.

"The Clatches have substantial experience in day care operation and would be valuable witnesses to the board of trustees as it contemplates adoption of the day care ordinance, DiMonte said.

DiMonte assured the zoning board his clients would conform with the new ordinance or any village ordinances. They would open a day care center, unless the restrictions make it economically impossible, he added.

MUNE0 SAID he has a verbal contract with the Clatches for lease of 3,000 square feet of his proposed building. Initially the other half of the building will be rented as office space. He noted that the Glenview center has operated for seven years without complaint and invited the officials to inspect it.

Parker told the petitioners the zoning board's recommendations will reach the village board by Tuesday.

Cop Charged With Murder

Franklin Park Patrolman Peter DiVenere has been charged with murder, attempted murder and two counts of aggravated assault in connection with the shooting Wednesday of his ex-wife and slaying of her male companion.

Arrested early Wednesday in a trailer court in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, DiVenere is being held in Cook County Jail. A preliminary hearing on the charges has been scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

DiVenere, 38, of 3306 Lincoln Ave., Franklin Park, is charged with the murder early Wednesday of Charles McConnell, 23, and the shooting of Mrs. Laurel DiVenere, also 23. Both McConnell and Mrs. DiVenere lived in apartments at 7472 Jensen Blvd., Hanover Park, where the shootings took place.

Mrs. DiVenere remained in serious condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center yesterday with gunshot wounds of the back, right arm and abdomen.

The classes will be offered to two age groups, seven to 14 years old and 15 years through adult.

A 15 registration fee is charged for the 10 week session. Further information about the program may be obtained by calling the park district at 529-6600.

Stamp Covers On Display At Library

A collection of handcrafted first day of issue stampcovers designed by a Hoffman Estates resident is currently on display at the Schaumburg Township Library, 20 Library Ln., Schaumburg.

The exhibition, which focuses on a special aspect of stamp collecting, was done by Robert C. Baasela retired Air Force officer who has attended the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and the American Academy of Art in Chicago.

Some of the covers have sculptured relief to emphasize the theme of the stamp. The artist has written several articles about the topic of first day covers for various magazines. The exhibit also includes some practical information for persons interested in beginning a collection of first day covers.

Women To Tour Medical Center

A special two-hour tour of various facilities at the University of Illinois Medical Center in Chicago is being planned for women of the area by the Schaumburg Park District.

The activity is part of the park district women's special event series. The medical center tour is scheduled for Feb. 23.

The tour will include a film about the development of the medical center and the work that goes on there and a question and answer session. The program will be conducted by students of the medical school.

Transportation will be provided by the park district. The bus is scheduled to leave at 8:30 a.m. and return by 3 p.m. A $3 registration fee is being charged. A reduced $2 fee is charged to the senior citizens for the cost of transportation. Further information can be obtained by calling the park district at 894-3258.

THE RICHARD JOHNSONS view themselves on national television Wednesday night during Public Broadcasting Service documentary entitled "The Man in the Middle". The family said they felt "somewhat of a negative approach was taken" but Johnson said there are some real problems that the middle-class American must face. There is something special about being on national television and now the family can testify to that.

Subject Of Nationwide Documentary

by DOUG RAY

The Washington reporter wanted ordinary people and that's just what he found at the Richard Johnsons.

The Johnsons are a Rolling Meadows family, like many others in the middle-class community, who strive to pay monthly bills, worry about where the money will come from, but after each month manage to keep their heads above the water.

The family was the subject of a Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) documentary in Channel 11 Wednesday night entitled "The Man in the Middle." Reporter Robert MacNeil, who spent a week with the family at 2402 Willow St., presented the plight of middle class suburbia, too wealthy for federal aid but not rich enough to have much left over after all accounts are cleared.

Watching the broadcast with the Johnsons, however, showed that the family is not as destitute as the program depicted. "They were showing the hardships of life," Johnson said during the program. "We're not as poor as it seems," he said.

MacNEIL TOLD the viewing audience, which may have been as many as 3 million persons, that the Johnsons pay all their bills and can't manage to save anything — thus "The Man in the Middle." What was spliced out of the program was Johnson's statements about the stock program through his job. "Sure we do without, but not as much as they made it seem," Johnson said.

It was also stated in the program that a school lunch for the Johnson girls, who attend a Lutheran school in Arlington Heights, costs 45 cents and that is too much for the family to afford. The girls bring peanut butter and jelly instead.

But the girls said during the broadcast that they dislike the school's hot lunches and prefer the sack-lunch variety.

"They left a lot out," said Mrs. Johnson and her husband agreed. "The positive things they didn't put in," he said.

Johnson said he felt many of his neighbors could identify with the program aimed at presenting middle class problems. "We're not out to make a killing," he said, "just to survive."

BEING ON NATIONAL television was a big treat for the entire group. The girls giggled when they saw themselves. Richard and Mary Ann Johnson beamed with smiles.

It took the production crew about 30 to 40 hours to film the program, Johnson said. Segments were cut to end up with a half-hour broadcast, which showed the middle class American in a tough spot.

"We really are in a squeeze," Johnson said. "But a lot of us are in the same boat."

Schaumburg Man, 33, Faces Drug Charge

A 33-year-old Schaumburg man was charged with drug possession Wednesday by Schaumburg village police.

Charged with three counts of possession of a controlled substance, a felony, and possession of a hypodermic needle was John Zajac, 625 Trent Ln., Schaumburg.

Zajac was arrested at 11:30 p.m. after police obtained a search warrant for his vehicle parked at the Trent Lane address.

He was released on $5,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in Schaumburg court on Mar. 8.

Village Board To Gather At The Bar-On Business

Members of the Schaumburg Village Board will gather at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the bar area of the Paddock Restaurant in Town Square Shopping Center, Schaumburg and Roselle roads. But the trustees and mayor will not be attending a party.

The trustees will inspect remodeling of the restaurant, which still is under way, to determine if they wish to allow the owner, Frank Radosta, to continue with his bar expansion plans.

Radosta started the restaurant as a quick-service establishment, and later applied for a license to sell beer, wine and ale, said Mayor Robert O. Atcher. The license was granted, and Radosta later requested a Class A license, which allows sale of mixed drinks, said Atcher. The second license also was granted, he said, with the understanding only a small part of the restaurant would be devoted to bar space, and the establishment would remain basically a food service facility.

In December, said Atcher, the restaurant closed. Since then it came to the attention of the building department extensive remodeling was being done.

A BUILDING inspector was sent to the restaurant and he reported major expansion of both food and bar areas, said Atcher. In light of the change from a small restaurant to an establishment with an expanded bar, Atcher said he asked Radosta to appear before the board for reconsideration of the liquor license approval. Also, said Atcher, there are some building code violations in the remodeling, and Radosta did not wish to correct them without assurance he would be allowed to keep the liquor license.

The seating capacity of the restaurant and bar before remodeling totaled 76, said Radosta. Then the bar had only 9 stools. After remodeling, the restaurant area will seat 96 persons, while the bar will seat 25. Total floor space, including a kitchen, covers 1,800 square feet.

Radosta denied the new facility will be more liquor oriented than the previous one, pointing out he has added 14 full dinner items to the menu, including steak and lobster. The new bar, a 50-foot horseshoe, will be separated from the dining area with a four or five foot high partition, which will also serve as a planter, and separate doors will provide access to the two areas.

Trustees said they did not feel they could "pass judgment" on the restaurant without seeing it first-hand.

Money Was Still In Vault

Bank of Buffalo Grove officials said yesterday the reason armed robbers were able to get more than $100,000 in Tuesday night's holdup was that the money from the weekend transactions was still in the bank vault.

George Miller, bank president, told the Herald it is not unusual for that amount of money to be on hand before the weekly transfer of cash is made.

Miller said the money taken — about $113,000 — was mostly in small bills and checks.

According to Miller, the money will be replaced either today or Monday by insurance companies. He assured subscribers that their accounts are covered under the insurance policies.

He asked persons not to call the bank unless it is absolutely necessary because the switchboard has been unable to handle the flood of calls since the robbery.

THE FEDERAL Bureau of Investigation is pressing its investigation into the case and has assigned a large number of agents, according to FBI Agent Joe Stumpf.

Stumpf would not comment directly on the case, but said "a lot" of agents have been assigned. He said the FBI is investigating under federal bank robbery statutes.

He said the FBI is working with the Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) and the Buffalo Grove Police. Buffalo Grove Det. Sgt. Frank Harth is working on the investigation for local police.

The two robbers have apparently made good their initial escape. The pair was last seen fleeing the bank on foot in a westerly direction after the robbery, between 6 and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Bank employees who were handcuffed by the masked bandits during the robbery described the suspects as under 25 years of age with long hair.

Brownies To Treat Senior Citizens

A group of Brownies from Troop 793 at the Aldrin School in Schaumburg will try to make Valentine's Day a little brighter for some of the area's senior citizens.

The Brownies, 23 in all, will visit the Abbington House in Roselle Monday and present the residents with flowers, candy and a Valentine card.

This is the first year the group led by Mrs. Marilyn Kerber and Mrs. Marlene Zniack, will visit residents of the nursing home.

The troop will also sing a few songs for the senior citizens, according to Mrs. Kerber.

Conant Teachers Present 'Love Rides The Rails'

Greasepaint and play-acting delivered in gobs Saturday will transform teachers at James B. Conant High School in Hoffman Estates into fools and heroes.

Money is what motivates the teachers' antics. But the cash collected from the faculty produced, directed and clown production of "Love Rides the Rails" won't go in teachers' pockets.

The Conant Yearbook account is in the red this year and unless enough money is raised to make up the deficit, it may not be printed.

The curtain rises at 8 p.m. Saturday in the Conant cafeteria.

Village Clears Way For New Furniture Store

Sometime next spring a new Wickes Corp. furniture store will open on Dundee Road in Wheeling.

The 150,000-square-foot store will include offices for national headquarters for the Wickes Furniture sales operation.

Wheeling's village board approved zoning variations Monday to allow construction of the store.

One final step, approval of a subdivision of the Wickes property by the village plan commission and village board, remains.

But the zoning variations approved by the board this week assure that the Wickes store will be built.

Two-thirds of the store will be used for warehouse storage of furniture, with salesrooms in the rear third of the building.

The warehousing is necessary for the store's unusual sales concept of having furniture available that people can take home with them.

IN ADDITION to a variation to allow retail sales in the store the village granted parking requirement variations for the store, and several sign variations.

The board action came despite a minority report from zoning board member Ed Slepicka that a 372-square-foot, double-face pylon sign on the property would lead to other large signs on Dundee Road. Slepicka said Wheeling's past stringent enforcement of sign ordinances has spared the village from being overwhelmed with signs, as neighboring communities have.

The remaining subdivision will allow the company to build the furniture store without having to tear down the farmhouse next to the village municipal building.

In the future the second lot of the subdivision between Wickes and the municipal building will be considered for commercial or industrial development.

The zoning variation came after several months of confusion over proposed rezonings of the property for the store. The zoning variation route was taken instead of rezoning the property, at the suggestion of Village Atty. Paul Hamer.

May Purchase Village Stickers This Weekend

Village offices in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will be open this weekend to accommodate residents who haven't bought their 1972 village vehicle stickers.

The Wheeling village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd., will be open Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The Buffalo Grove municipal building at 50 Raupp Blvd. will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The deadline for the purchase of vehicle stickers is Feb. 15 for both villages.

The sticker fee for cars in Buffalo Grove is $10 and the fee for autos in Wheeling is $8. The fee for motorcycles is $6 in Wheeling and $5 in Buffalo Grove.

The stickers will be on sale during regular business hours today through Tuesday (8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Wheeling and 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Buffalo Grove.)

In addition, the village hall in Wheeling will be open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

If vehicle stickers are not purchased by Feb. 15, a $5 late charge is added in Wheeling and a fine of "not less than $15 nor more than $500" is levied in Buffalo Grove.

JAMES WILSON, a resident of Buffalo Grove, asks Trinity Seminary student, August Contractor, to describe the leaves he is holding in her native language. Wilson is a member of the Summer Institute of Linguistics and was demonstrating his work for the eighth graders at Jack London Junior High School.

Foreign Languages Are Made Easy

by RICH HONACK

"And I thought English was hard to understand."

That was the comment of one eighth grader at Jack London Junior High School after a linguistics demonstration by James Wilson. Wilson is a member of the Summer Institute of Linguistics, a world-wide program of the study of languages that are never written down.

"We are involved in 23 countries," said Wilson, "trying to give people a written form of communication."

He said the Institute is hired by different governments to write the "mother tongue" of many backwoods tribes so the government can understand and communicate with them.

Just before the class Wilson, a Buffalo Grove resident, was introduced to August Contractor. Miss Contractor is originally from Gujarat, India, and is currently studying at Trinity Divinity School in Deerfield.

Wilson instructed Miss Contractor to speak no English during the demonstration. She was only allowed to speak in her native language, which Wilson had never heard or seen.

HE TOLD the class that since Miss Contractor understood English he would talk to her in Spanish. He said the demonstration would not be successful if either person understood the other.

"I am going to write down everything August will say in phonetic script," Wilson said.

He explained the script would allow him to record the discussion so that he could look back and analyze his work.

The demonstration began when Wilson took a block of wood from a paper bag. He showed the wood to Miss Contractor and she responded with a word in her "mother tongue."

Wilson repeated the word several times and wrote it on the blackboard phonetically, with the English next to it.

He reached into his "bag-of-tricks" again and showed her a smaller piece of wood. He explained to her, with gestures that he was seeking the word for smaller. Miss Contractor responded with an English translation.

WHEN HE had filled the blackboard with phonetic script and English definitions, Wilson started to analyze his work. He told the class he was looking for "common" phrases in the body of the words and showed them one example.

Many of Miss Contractor's words ended in "c-e" Wilson said this meant "either this is or it is" and discovered his findings were correct after talking with Miss Contractor.

The class, shocked by Wilson's quick understanding of the language, began to applaud him. "I have just scratched the surface here today. It would take months of work and study to make my findings complete," he said.

"Our linguists in the field work 24 hours a day on the language in their respective villages. After they learn the language and analyze it they try to get educational materials printed to teach everyone how to read and write."

He ultimately prepared them to read literature in their national language," he said.

"We try to make the people bilingual," said Wilson, "for you see, when a person only speaks one language he is a prisoner of that language."

Police Seek Common Link In Robberies

Police are trying to link Tuesday's bank robbery in Buffalo Grove to a recent series of robberies in the area, including the Wednesday night robbery of the Cumberland Pharmacy in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines police are investigating that possibility. Although Buffalo Grove police have said such a connection is remote, they haven't ruled it out in their investigation.

FBI agents handling the bank robbery investigation would not comment yesterday when asked if they thought the robberies were related.

The common link between the Buffalo Grove and the Des Plaines crimes is the description of the suspects. The robbers reportedly used similar green duffel bags as money satchels and wore ski masks.

OTHER SIMILAR parts of the description are that the robbers were young — in their 20's — and had long hair. One of the Bank robbers wore bell-bottom blue jeans, as did the lone pharmacy robber.

The description also fits suspects who robbed a Convent Food Store in Arlington Heights and a gas station in Prospect Heights, both on Sunday.

In the Tuesday Buffalo Grove robbery, two men in their 20's with long hair and faces covered with ski masks robbed the Bank of Buffalo Grove of about $133,000.

Earlier in the day an Arlington Heights patrolman spotted two persons fitting that description in a car near Buffalo Grove. The patrolman was investigating the Sunday robbery. However the patrolman lost the suspects in traffic.

In the pharmacy robbery, $60 and narcotic drugs were taken. The lone bandit also wore a ski mask and had long hair.

A second person connected with the robbery drove a get-away car which matched a description of a car used in the gas station robbery Sunday.

IT IS ALSO believed that ski masks were used by robbers in at least one of the crimes Sunday.

Although it appears a bit unusual the same persons would hit a pharmacy for only $60 and drugs after netting more than $100,000 the night before, the robbers also showed a strange quirk in the bank robbery, police said. After cleaning out the vault, the robbers took $29 in cash from a teller's purse. They also took the teller's car keys, but then fled on foot.

Government To Survey Nike Site

The first step toward the possible conversion of 100 acres of the Arlington Heights Nike Base into a regional park will take place March 6, when a representative of the United States General Services Administration will survey the property.

The GSA surveys and disposes of property that is designated surplus to the government. Part of the job includes surveying property, such as the Nike Base, to supply a preliminary analysis of its use to the Department of Defense.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., who endorsed the proposal for turning the Nike Site into a recreational area, hopes to be at the site March 6. A month ago Percy met with about 20 mayors and park district representatives from the Northwest suburbs who suggested the plan.

PERCY ASKED the GSA for a ruling on whether the property was being adequately utilized by the military, and last week the GSA agreed to undertake the survey.

"The survey will be very extensive and even include the inspection of business affairs of the GSA. I expect it will take most of the day."

The survey will be sent to the Department of Defense for review and comment. If the department agrees with the GSA findings, the decision will be sent to the Armed Services Committee in the Senate.

If the committee also agrees with the decision, it will be sent back to the GSA. At that time the GSA would dispose of the property, if it is declared surplus.

A REGIONAL PARK is planned for the Nike site, if local plans are approved. Included in features of the proposed park would be a golf course, picnicking and hiking area and storm retention basin for boating and fishing.

"This is one of the most imaginative plans for the setting aside of open space that I have ever seen," Percy said.

The park would serve Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village, all of which do not have the national minimum standard of 10 acres per 1,000 people.

"We're very optimistic about getting the property for a park, and glad that the process has been started," said Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation in Arlington Heights.

Cop Charged With Murder

Franklin Park Patrolman Peter DiVenere has been charged with murder, attempted murder and two counts of aggravated assault in connection with the shooting Wednesday of his ex-wife and slaying of her male companion.

Arrested early Wednesday in a trailer court in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, DiVenere is being held in Cook County Jail. A preliminary hearing on the charges has been scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

DiVenere, 38, of 3306 Lincoln Ave., Franklin Park, is charged with the murder early Wednesday of Charles McConnell, 23, and the shooting of Mrs. Laurel DiVenere, also 23. Both McConnell and Mrs. DiVenere lived in apartments at 7472 Jensen Blvd., Hanover Park, where the shootings took place.

Mrs. DiVenere remained in serious condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center yesterday with gunshot wounds of the back, right arm and abdomen.

LeForge Announces His Candidacy

Robert LeForge, 1105 N. Maple Ln., Prospect Heights, announced his candidacy for reelection to the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board Wednesday night.

LeForge, who has served eight years

on the board including five years as board president, has said he will continue to emphasize fiscal responsibility to school planning if he is elected.

"There is a tend in the district to sell more tax anticipation warrants (loans on expected tax income) each year," LeForge said. "We should be budgeting our income carefully so we don't spend future tax revenue."

LeForge said, "If the school board continues to spend beyond its income by taking out loans, it will catch up with the district sooner or later."

LeForge, who has lived in Prospect Heights 14 years, is a general operations supervisor for Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Currently incumbents, LeForge and Alan Krusky, 2027 Rosehill Dr., Arlington Heights, are the only announced candidates for three positions on the school board.

IRS To Rule On Pay

Chances for retroactive pay for Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers suffered a setback Wednesday, after the school board voted to ask the Internal Revenue Service for a written opinion before approving the back payments.

Board Member Robert LeForge said the legality of making the retroactive payments was unclear and asked that no action be taken until a written opinion is obtained from the IRS, the enforcing body of the federal pay board.

Supt. Edward Grodsky recommended that the retroactive payments be made to teachers and other personnel including secretaries. He said contract negotiations were completed July 22, but the contract was not signed by the board until Sept. 1 or ratified by the teachers until Sept. 3.

Grodsky said he feels the district is complying with IRS rulings because contract negotiations were completed before the wage-price freeze went into effect on Aug. 15.

Grodsky added the school board passed a budget July 7 which included the salary increases.

JAMES HENDREN, business manager, said payments could have been made so employees received back salary in the last paycheck in February.

Recent IRS guidelines for making retroactive payments require that the employer must have made appropriations for the salary increases before Aug. 15 and the employer must have determined the new rates, not necessarily in writing, before Aug. 15.

"The question is whether official ratification of the contract takes precedence over the gentleman's agreement made with the end of negotiations July 22," Grodsky said. "I think the gentleman's agreement was legal, and retroactive payments can be made."

"The money is allocated for the increases and is being held for the teachers until the time it is released by the school board," he said.

Concert Series To Close

The Wheeling Community Concert series closes its 1971-72 season Tuesday, Feb. 15 at 8 p.m. The final concert of the series will be the New York Pro Musica. The concert will be in the Wheeling High School theater.

Pro Musica tradition consists of performing medieval and renaissance music in an authoritative way. It adds a spark of imagination and brings the music to life, said a spokesman for the concert committee.

Paul Maynard will direct five vocalists and five instrumentalists in a six-part program of music from Spain and England.

Pro Musica recently finished performances at New York's Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts and the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C. It has also toured the Soviet Union, South America and parts of Europe.

Concert series renewal memberships for the 1972-73 series will be available Tuesday night. Memberships will include a new rate of $25 for family season tickets. Regular adult memberships are $10 and student memberships are $5.

School Custodian Reinstated

Leo Caja, maintenance mechanic for Prospect Heights School Dist. 23, was reinstated at full salary by the school board Wednesday after being fired for incompetency last week.

Caja, a 14-year employee of the district, was given two weeks' written notice Feb. 3 by James Hendren, Dist. 23 business manager. Hendren said he had received complaints from teachers and principals that indicated Caja's work was not satisfactory.

Caja appeared at the school board meeting along with 15 members of Service Employees International Union Local 11, including several union officials.

He denied he was negligent in performing his duties and said some of the jobs he was told he failed to do were never communicated to him.

The board decided the facts in the case were unclear, and Caja was reinstated at a $11,000 yearly salary until board members could meet with union officials to discuss the matter further.

Faculty To Attend IEA Convention

Dist. 21's Faculty Council will send three representatives to the Illinois Educational Association (IEA) convention Feb. 17.

Those attending the convention will be: Dan Sass, president; Margo Richter, president elect and Madge Robinson, past president and treasurer for IEA regional council 11.

The three-day convention will be at the Conrad Hilton Hotel. Major items on the agenda are the new proposed budget, evaluation of new programs, election of officers and the annual business meeting.

Summer School Reinstated

Summer school will be offered this summer by Prospect Heights School Dist. 23 for kindergarten through eighth grade students.

The school board voted Wednesday to reinstate summer school on the condition that student fees and state aid pay for the program with no cost to the district.

"The program has been designed so that classes without enough enrollment to justify the expense would be dropped," according to Robert Marshall, MacArthur Junior High School assistant principal and summer school director.

Registration for summer classes will be accepted until April 24. School will run from June 26 to July 21 with classes beginning at 8:30 a.m. and ending at noon. Classes will not meet Monday, July 3, and Tuesday, July 4, to give the students a four-day holiday weekend.

Marshall said classes will meet at MacArthur Junior High and Eisenhower Elementary schools. Children living in the school district will be charged a $5 book rental fee, and students outside district boundaries will be required to pay a $25 tuition fee that includes book rental fees.

Landfill Operation To Be Evaluated

Arlington To Make Study Of Incinerator Alternative

The Arlington Heights Environmental Control Commission got a green light from the village finance committee Wednesday night to arrange for an independent study of the Arlington Heights landfill operation.

ECC chairman Edward Kokkelenberg told the finance committee, during its third formal hearing on the 1972-73 village budget, that he expected the study would cost about $4,000.

He said an outside evaluation of the landfill's present operation and what might be done to extend its life was essential to the ECC's study of Arlington Heights solid waste disposal needs.

KOKKELENBERG said he expected the study to answer four basic questions:

—What is the current life expectancy of the landfill as now operated?
—What can be done, if anything, to extend its life?
—How much would these improvements cost?

—What would the estimated life of the landfill be if Arlington Heights were to start incinerating its refuse?

The ECC is working toward a May 15 deadline, by which time it hopes to have completed its report on solid waste disposal for the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Kokkelenberg said the ECC already has narrowed disposal alternatives to further landfilling or incineration.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Public Works Director Gene Willroth said Wednesday night that he did not think an additional study of the landfill would add anything to what the administration already knows about that operation.

He said that any outside consulting engineers would still have to work with daily figures compiled by the public works department.

However, finance committee chairman Frank Palmatier said he did not think it was correct to assume that the study would follow any prescribed method and he urged Kokkelenberg to go ahead and contact several engineering firms for quotations of the cost of a study.

Kokkelenberg said he had received a telephone estimate of $4,000 from Consoer Townsend & Associates in Chicago. He said he also planned to talk with several other engineering firms.

THE ECC CHAIRMAN said there are six basic questions that the commission still has not answered in its present investigation of refuse disposal in Arlington Heights.

He said it has not yet decided which means of disposal — landfill or incineration — pollutes less, particularly with respect to pollution per dollar cost of both operations.

The commission is also studying whether it would be wise for Arlington Heights to "buy time" by adopting an interim refuse disposal system in anticipation of major technological breakthroughs, Kokkelenberg said.

Other topics of investigation included the cost of delay caused by further study and analysis, the extent to which the solid waste disposal problem can be diminished through recycling and what can be done to environmentally safeguard both incinerator and landfill operations.

KOKKELENBERG said that based upon estimates of the total amount of glass and metal contained in Arlington Heights refuse, less than 2 per cent of this material is now being recycled.

The village health department operates two recycling stations in Arlington Heights which have collected more than 300,000 pounds of glass and 50,000 pounds of cans since last June.

Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson has already submitted a report, prepared by the village administration, recommending construction of a 600-ton incinerator at the village landfill site.

Hanson's report also recommends that pollution controls on the proposed incinerator be emphasized so as to be in complete compliance with new federal air quality standards. The report further stated that sufficient room be left for installation of new pollution-control equipment as it becomes available.

Eye Consultant For Incinerator Controversy

The Village of Buffalo Grove is considering hiring its own consultant to work on the Arlington Heights incinerator controversy.

At Tuesday's village board meeting, Buffalo Grove trustees directed Village Mgr. Daniel Larson to contact environmental engineering firms to get cost estimates for help in preparing a case against the incinerator plan.

Larson said yesterday that if Arlington Heights decides to build the incinerator Buffalo Grove will wait to present its case until hearings are held before the state Environmental Protection Agency.

Breakfast Is Slated

A sausage and pancake breakfast Feb. 20 will raise money for the "Ireland and Russia rooms" of Passport '72, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Buffalo Grove.

The breakfast will begin after the 8 a.m. Sunday Mass and continue through the remaining Masses. The cost will be 50 cents for children under nine and $1 for all others.

The money will be used for decorations for the two rooms of Passport '72, which will be held April 15 and 22.

MIKE AND MARK ELLIS rehearse lines for their roles in the upcoming Wheeling High School winter plays. The three one-act plays will be presented tonight and tomorrow evenings at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available at the door.

Stolen $113,000 Was Still In Bank Vault

Bank of Buffalo Grove officials said yesterday the reason armed robbers were able to get more than $100,000 in Tuesday night's holdup was that the money from the weekend transactions was still in the bank vault.

George Miller, bank president, told the Herald it is not unusual for that amount of money to be on hand before the weekly transfer of cash is made.

Miller said the money taken — about $113,000 — was mostly in small bills and checks.

According to Miller, the money will be replaced either today or Monday by insurance companies. He assured subscribers that their accounts are covered under the insurance policies.

He asked persons not to call the bank unless it is absolutely necessary because the switchboard has been unable to handle the flood of calls since the robbery.

THE FEDERAL Bureau of Investigation is pressing its investigation into the case and has assigned a large number of agents, according to FBI Agent Joe Stumpf.

Stumpf would not comment directly on the case, but said "a lot" of agents have been assigned. He said the FBI is investigating under federal bank robbery statutes.

He said the FBI is working with the Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) and the Buffalo Grove Police. Buffalo Grove Det. Sgt. Frank Harth is working on the investigation for local police.

The two robbers have apparently made good their initial escape. The pair was last seen fleeing the bank on foot in a westerly direction after the robbery, between 6 and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Bank employees who were handcuffed by the masked bandits during the robbery described the suspects as under 25 years of age with long hair.

Police Seek Common Link In Robberies

Police are trying to link Tuesday's bank robbery in Buffalo Grove to a recent series of robberies in the area, including the Wednesday night robbery of the Cumberland Pharmacy in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines police are investigating that possibility. Although Buffalo Grove police have said such a connection is remote, they haven't ruled it out in their investigation.

FBI agents handling the bank robbery investigation would not comment yesterday when asked if they thought the robberies were related.

The common link between the Buffalo Grove and the Des Plaines crimes is the description of the suspects. The robbers reportedly used similar green duffel bags as money satchels and wore ski masks.

OTHER SIMILAR parts of the description are that the robbers were young — in their 20's — and had long hair. One of the Bank robbers wore bell-bottom blue jeans, as did the lone pharmacy robber.

The description also fits suspects who robbed a Convenient Food Store in Arlington Heights and a gas station in Prospect Heights, both on Sunday.

In the Tuesday Buffalo Grove robbery, two men in their 20's with long hair and faces covered with ski masks robbed the Bank of Buffalo Grove of about $113,000.

Earlier in the day an Arlington Heights patrolman spotted two persons fitting that description in a car near Buffalo Grove. The patrolman was investigating the Sunday robbery. However the patrolman lost the suspects in traffic.

In the pharmacy robbery, $60 and narcotic drugs were taken. The lone bandit also wore a ski mask and had long hair. A second person connected with the robbery drove a get-away car which matched a description of a car used in the gas station robbery Sunday.

IT IS ALSO believed that ski masks were used by robbers in at least one of the crimes Sunday.

Although it appears a bit unusual the same persons would hit a pharmacy for only $60 and drugs after netting more than $100,000 the night before, the robbers also showed a strange quirk in the bank robbery, police said. After cleaning out the vault, the robbers took $29 in cash from a teller's purse. They also took the teller's car keys, but then fled on foot.

May Purchase Village Stickers This Weekend

Village offices in Wheeling and Buffalo Grove will be open this weekend to accommodate residents who haven't bought their 1972 village vehicle stickers.

The Wheeling village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd., will be open Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. The Buffalo Grove municipal building at 56 Raupp Blvd. will be open Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

The deadline for the purchase of vehicle stickers is Feb. 15 for both villages.

The sticker fee for cars in Buffalo Grove is $10 and the fee for autos in Wheeling is $8. The fee for motorcycles is $6 in Wheeling and $5 in Buffalo Grove.

The stickers will be on sale during regular business hours today through Tuesday (8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Wheeling and 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Buffalo Grove.)

In addition, the village hall in Wheeling will be open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tuesday.

If vehicle stickers are not purchased by Feb. 15, a $5 late charge is added in Wheeling and a fine of "not less than $15 nor more than $500" is levied in Buffalo Grove.

Government To Survey Nike Site

The first step toward the possible conversion of 100 acres of the Arlington Heights Nike Base into a regional park will take place March 6, when a representative of the United States General Services Administration will survey the property.

The GSA surveys and disposes of property that is designated surplus to the government. Part of the job includes surveying property, such as the Nike Base, to supply a preliminary analysis of its use to the Department of Defense.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., who endorsed the proposal for turning the Nike Site into a recreational area, hopes to be at the site March 6. A month ago Percy met with about 20 mayors and park district representatives from the Northwest suburbs who suggested the plan.

PERCY ASKED the GSA for a ruling on whether the property was being adequately utilized by the military, and last week the GSA agreed to undertake the survey.

"The survey will be very extensive and even include the inspection of business affairs of the GSA, "I expect it will take most of the day.

The survey will be sent to the Department of Defense for review and comment. If the department agrees with the GSA findings, the decision will be sent to the Armed Services Committee in the Senate.

LeForge Announces His Candidacy

Robert LeForge, 1105 N. Maple Ln., Prospect Heights, announced his candidacy for reelection to the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board Wednesday night.

LeForge, who has served eight years on the board including five years as board president, has said he will continue to emphasize fiscal responsibility to school planning if he is elected.

"There is a trend in the district to sell more tax anticipation warrants (loans on expected tax income) each year," LeForge said. "We should be budgeting our income carefully so we don't spend future tax revenue."

LeForge said, "If the school board continues to spend beyond its income by taking out loans, it will catch up with the district sooner or later."

LeForge, who has lived in Prospect Heights 14 years, is a general operations supervisor for Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Currently incumbents, LeForge and Alan Krinsky, 2027 Rosehill Dr., Arlington Heights, are the only announced candidates for three positions on the school board.

Cop Charged With Murder

Franklin Park Patrolman Peter DiVenere has been charged with murder, attempted murder and two counts of aggravated assault in connection with the shooting Wednesday of his ex-wife and slaying of her male companion.

Arrested early Wednesday in a trailer court in unincorporated Elk Grove Township, DiVenere is being held in Cook County Jail. A preliminary hearing on the charges has been scheduled for 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Niles branch of Circuit Court.

DiVenere, 38, of 3306 Lincoln Ave., Franklin Park, is charged with the murder early Wednesday of Charles McConnell, 23, and the shooting of Mrs. Laurel DiVenere, also 23. Both McConnell and Mrs. DiVenere lived in apartments at 7472 Jensen Blvd., Hanover Park, where the shootings took place.

Mrs. DiVenere remained in serious condition at Alexian Brothers Medical Center yesterday with gunshot wounds of the back, right arm and abdomen.

IRS To Rule On Pay

Chances for retroactive pay for Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers suffered a setback Wednesday, after the school board voted to ask the Internal Revenue Service for a written opinion before approving the back payments.

Board Member Robert LeForge said the legality of making the retroactive payments was unclear and asked that no action be taken until a written opinion is obtained from the IRS, the enforcing body of the federal pay board.

Supt. Edward Grodsky recommended that the retroactive payments be made to teachers and other personnel including secretaries. He said contract negotiations were completed July 22, but the contract was not signed by the board until Sept. 1 or ratified by the teachers until Sept. 3.

Grodsky said he feels the district is complying with IRS rulings because contract negotiations were completed before the wage-price freeze went into effect on Aug. 15.

Grodsky added the school board passed a budget July 7 which included the salary increases.

JAMES HENDREN, business manager, said payments could have been made so employees received back salary in the last paycheck in February.

Recent IRS guidelines for making retroactive payments require that the employer must have made appropriations for the salary increases before Aug. 15 and the employer must have determined the new rates, not necessarily in writing, before Aug. 15.

"The question is whether official ratification of the contract takes precedence over the gentleman's agreement made with the end of negotiations July 22," Grodsky said. "I think the gentleman's agreement was legal, and retroactive payments can be made."

Concert Series To Close

The Wheeling Community Concert series closes its 1971-72 season Tuesday, Feb. 15 at 8 p.m. The final concert of the series will be the New York Pro Musica. The concert will be in the Wheeling High School theater.

Pro Musica tradition consists of performing medieval and renaissance music in an authoritative way, it adds a spark of imagination and brings the music to life, said a spokesman for the concert committee.

Paul Maynard will direct five vocalists and five instrumentalists in a six-part program of music from Spain and England.

Pro Musica recently finished performances at New York's Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts and the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington D.C. It has also toured the Soviet Union, South America and parts of Europe.

Concert series renewal memberships for the 1972-73 series will be available Tuesday night. Memberships will include a new rate of $25 for family season tickets. Regular adult memberships are $10 and student memberships are $5.

Urge Transfer Of Junior High Pupils To Plum Grove

JOANN VAN WYE

The transfer of all junior high students from Stuart Paddock School to Plum Grove School, both located in Palatine, has been recommended to the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education.

The recommendation is the major change proposed in the student assignment, boundary and attendance area proposal for the 1972-73 academic year.

The board deferred action Wednesday on the proposal to an adjourned board meeting scheduled for next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

If approved an estimated 300 students will be transferred from Paddock to Plum Grove next year.

PAUL JUNG, director of personnel and information services, explained the transfer has been planned for two years and is part of the district's long range plan to offer a total junior high school program.

The long range plan is to develop Plum Grove, Winston Park and Palatine Hills School now under construction, all located in Palatine, and Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows, into junior high schools. Junior high students currently attending Paddock School and Gray M. Sanborn School in Palatine are to be transferred to Plum Grove School and Palatine Hills School.

By consolidating all seventh and eighth grade classes in four schools, the district feels it will be able to offer the students more options and more varieties of experience, said Mrs. Lorita Langley, director of pupil personnel services.

Although Palatine Hills Junior High will not be open until the fall of 1973, a year later than originally planned, the administration is recommending students be transferred from Paddock to Plum Grove because they will not be affected by the opening of Palatine Hills.

Jung explained the move was being recommended at this time because there are empty rooms at Plum Grove and if junior high students were not transferred elementary grades would have to be added. He said this would be a regressive step in view of the board's desire to create a total junior high program.

PETITIONS FROM students and their parents objecting to the transfer were presented to the board.

"It does not matter what year we make the transfer, someone is going to be unhappy," said Board Pres. Walter Sundling. He said he understood the students' loyalty to the school but pointed out the students would have more opportunities at Plum Grove.

The proposal calls for no changes in student assignments to the six schools in Rolling Meadows and the five schools in the Winston Park subdivision in Palatine. Jung explained this was due to a stabilization of these areas.

The proposal recommends that Hunting Ridge School in Palatine remain a kindergarten through fifth grade school but only serve the Winston Knolls subdivision in Hoffman Estates and Hunting Ridge subdivision in Palatine.

If approved this would mean 128 students currently attending Hunting Ridge from the subdivisions of Whytecliffe, Cannongate, Willow Walk and Windemere would be transferred to Paddock School.

THE TRANSFER of two educable mentally handicapped courses from Hunting Ridge to Kimball Hill School in Rolling Meadows is also recommended.

Jung said even with the transfers, if approved, the school would be operating at capacity. He said there are 130 homes in Hunting Ridge and Winston Knolls to be completed and occupied by the fall. Based on past statistics, Jung told the board this would mean approximately 95 new students in Hunting Ridge School next fall.

Asked if the proposed transfers at Hunting Ridge would be permanent, Jung said "in any area that continues to grow rapidly and get new students it is not possible to guarantee what is going to happen. The philosophy of the district is to do what is in the best interest of the students."

For the first time in 17 years, it was proposed that kindergarten classes be added at Paddock. In the past kindergarten classes from this area have been held at Pleasant Hill School in Palatine. The transfer of 136 current fifth grade students at Sanborn and Joel Wood schools to Paddock is also proposed. Last year the fifth grade students from these two schools were sent to Lincoln School.

CHANGES AT Pleasant Hill include the transfer of current fifth grade students at Hunting Ridge to Pleasant Hill. Last year the Hunting Ridge fifth grade students were transferred to Plum Grove but the sixth grades are being taken out of Plum Grove, except for one special opportunities class, next year.

The assignment of two classes of fifth grades to Lake Louise School in Palatine from Joe Wood is also proposed. This would affect about 60 students.

In presenting the proposal to the board, Jung said it enabled the district to maintain a full day schedule for all students and enables the district to keep abreast of growth.

If approved, the proposal will let us house all students in present facilities, said Supt. Frank Whiteley. He said it had been hoped there would be room to establish music and art rooms in the schools but these plans would have to be delayed because all of the rooms would be used for classes.

THREE PORTABLES located at Jane Addams, Virginia Lake and Winston Churchill schools, all in the Winston Park subdivision, will continue to be used for classrooms if the proposal is adopted.

The student assignment, boundary and attendance area proposal for next year has a built in growth of 571 more students. It is anticipated most of the growth will be within the Lincoln and Hunting Ridge School boundaries.

CARRYING OUT THEIR ROUTINE with a combination of wonder and amazement, Bill Dyszel and Paul Clapper performed their parts in "Who Made the Salad?", one of many tunes and acts in this week-end's "Cabaret," Palatine High School's annual variety show. Shows will be held at 8 p.m. today and at 2 and 8 p.m. Saturday in Cutting Hall at the school. Admission is $1.50 per person for the evening shows and $1 for the matinee.

Cracker Barrel

SECOND THE MOTION. Palatine Township Supervisor Howard I. Olsen suggested that a resolution praising two YMCA employees for their assistance in the township's search for a new youth director would be in order. He proceeded to compose a long-winded tribute to the two, but when he finally finished, no one said a word. Finally, auditor M. Russell Bramwell spoke up. "I'll make the motion, Howard, if you'll write the resolution." Olsen agreed, somewhat reluctantly. But then Town Clerk Margaret E. Chapman saved the day. "We've got a model for that type of resolution," she said. "All we have to do is fill in the names."

AN AGELESS ARGUMENT. Although Jaycees members are all supposed to be under 36, a few persons over the age limit were invited to the recent Palatine Jaycees annual recognition dinner. Jack Kemmerly, local realtor who was one of the judges for the Man of the Year award, commented that "life begins at 40" which prompted a response from a more youthful Ken Eriksen of Eriksen Insurance.

"Life may begin at 40, but it's a helluva lot more fun now," he said. Kemmerly met the challenge and retorted with a voice of experience, "Life is like wine. With a little aging it's much better."

A NEW VAUDEVILLE TEAM? The formal name of the Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting was an "installation and awards dinner." But it became more informally known as the "Del and Dobby Show," named after the coming and outgoing chamber presidents Del Johnston and Dobby Dobkin, the stars of the show.

Discussion On Library

The Palatine Township League of Women Voters and the Palatine Library Board will hold a panel discussion open to all residents from 8 to 10 p.m. March 29 at the library on the present and future needs of the local library.

League representative Mrs. Jean Tindell asked the library board at its meeting Wednesday to participate in the panel to provide an open forum for residents and league members with questions and comments on the library.

The panel discussion will be the initiation of the league's new study on the library, which is expected to be carried on through next fall or winter.

League president Jackie Prince explained the new study would be an update of a previous study of the library finished in 1969. The league concluded at that time that the Palatine Library was in strong need for more space and facilities and should seek a larger site for operations.

All library board members were asked to participate in the panel to discuss the library as it exists now and its future needs.

The library board Wednesday agreed to provide space in the children's section of the library for the March 29 session. The public is encouraged to attend.

Meyer, Eilering Seek School Board Reelection

Joel Meyer and Otto Eilering have announced they will seek reelection to the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education in the April 8 election.

Meyer, who originally won a seat on the board as a write-in candidate in 1957 has been elected as a first-ballot candidate every three years since 1957. A resident of Rolling Meadows since 1954, Meyer lives a 2406 George. He is assistant dean of the engineering school at Northwestern University Technological Institute.

Eilering, of 291 N. Marion, Palatine, has been a Palatine resident for more than 20 years. He is an engineer for Westinghouse. Eilering will be seeking his third term.

MEYER IS chairman of the board's budget and finance committee and also a member of the personnel relations, administration and professional negotiations committee.

Chairman of the transportation and building and grounds committee, Eilering also serves on the board's public and professional relations, new building and hot-lunch program committees.

In 1969, Eilering and Meyer both were unopposed in their bid for reelection. Mrs. Mary Thompson, the board's executive secretary, said the two incumbents are the only ones to pick up nominating petitions to date for this election.

Nominating petitions are available at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine. The first day for filing nominating petitions is Feb. 23 and all petitions must be in by March 17. March 21 has been set as the last day for withdrawing candidacy.

In order to qualify to vote in the April 8 election, voters must establish residency by March 9. Absentee ballots can be applied for from March 9 to April 3 by mail and until April 5 in person.

To vote in the school board election a person must be 18 years of age, a U.S. citizen, a resident of the state for six months and a resident of Dist. 15 for 30 days.

Knights Of Columbus Donate To Retarded

The Holy Ghost Council of the Knights of Columbus in Palatine recently presented checks to three local organizations for mentally retarded children.

More than $800 was given to Clearbrook School of Rolling Meadows, Countryside Center of Palatine and Mount St. Joseph School of Lake Zurich by members of the group, Angelo J. Polvere of Inverness and Stanley Martin of Palatine.

Willow Bend PTA is having an interesting and informative meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the school at 4700 Barker Ave. in Rolling Meadows. Many Palatine area children attend the school.

There will be a brief business meeting followed by a debate on parochialism. Speaking on the "for" side of the debate will be Eugene Schlickman, state representative for the third district. Opposing Schlickman will be Virgil Kraft, regional director of Americans United for Separation of Church and State.

The public is invited to this current and hotly contested debate. Do plan to attend.

IF YOU LIKE SURPRISES and you're getting tired of the extremely cold weather we are having here the Immanuel Lutheran Church supper club has the answer for you. Feb. 20 from 6 to 9 p.m. they will provide dinner and entertainment in the school basement on the corner of Wood and Plum Grove Rd. The theme for the evening will be southern, however that is all I can tell you about it as I have been sworn to secrecy. Cost for the evening is $1.50 per person. Further information can be obtained by calling Ann Friskies, 358-5588, or Nancy Henning, 358-2321. Call now and get your reservation in.

DON'T FORGET SAT. afternoons at 1

p.m. when the Palatine Public Library presents Mrs. Tipton Mihalick enchanting children in grades one through four with stories they'll love. No registration is needed for the half hour sessions.

Acquaint your children with our library facilities. They will soon learn to love to read. Books can be a good friend on a lonely day when all the other kids are away.

DON'T FORGET to get valentines for your children this weekend. Monday is the all-important day for sweets and sweethearts. I'm a little worried because my first grade boy brought three valentines home already and they are all from the same girl. I was a little relieved, though when he said she had passed them all out to the rest of the class and had three left over and he happened to be there.

I HAVE HEARD people say they needed a shovel to clean out their house — well I'm afraid it would take a bulldozer to clear a path through mine. I can't seem to keep ahead of it. That old saying "the harrier I go, the behinder I get" certainly must have been written for me.

Do call and let me know your news. I'm waiting at 358-1025. If there's no answer just try again. I do try to get out into the fresh air now and then.

Schools Eye Alternative To NEC Data Processing

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school officials will look into alternate ways to get data processing services in preparation for a possible withdrawal from the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC).

The district is now buying data processing services through a cooperative run by NEC, an organization of 10 Northwest suburban school districts. Dist. 59 has in the past been highly critical of NEC.

Members of the board of education agreed Tuesday night to look into private sources during the next few weeks for the data processing service which provides payroll and student records. The district wants to see if the services would be cheaper than continuing them through NEC.

NEC is now discussing whether to continue buying computer services from Harper College or to purchase its own computer. A special meeting of the governing board will be held Saturday to recommend action on one of the two alternatives.

BOARD MEMBER Judith Zanca said, "I see advantages to the co-op, but I'd like to rid ourselves of some of the distasteful parts of NEC."

Other board members agreed they would be favorable to withdrawing from the co-op if services elsewhere would be less expensive. This year data processing services from the co-op cost the district about $23,000, according to Asst. Supt. Arthur Perry.

In addition, Supt. James Erviti told the board it may now be possible for the district to withdraw from NEC while remaining a member of the data processing co-op, something that has not been possible in the past.

Recently the NEC governing board agreed to allow districts outside of NEC to join the co-op without becoming a member of the NEC board. The action came after Des Plaines Dist. 62 asked if it could join the co-op. Dist. 62 has not yet decided to join.

"AN IMPORTANT question is how serious they are about that action," Erviti said. "I don't know if they realized that because of what they did, one district could pull out of NEC and still stay in the co-op."

Board Member Sharrille Hildebrandt, the Dist. 59 representative on the NEC governing board, said NEC did understand that possibility because "I told them it was possible."

Board Pres. Harold Harvey agreed with that idea, saying, "If we join the data processing co-op without being a member of NEC, it would make more sense than belonging to NEC and getting involved with its other problems."

He added that the district could then compare the costs of outside data processing service with the cost of data processing from the co-op without figuring in NEC administrative overhead. This year, in addition to the $23,000 for data processing, the district is paying $1,000 plus 41 cents per student for the administrative costs of NEC.

HARVEY SAID the district could make a decision on whether to remain in NEC, withdraw from NEC and buy services from the co-op, or buy services from outside sources once cost figures for all alternatives are in.

Once the NEC board recommends a course of action for the co-op it will ask all member boards to ratify that.

Currently eight districts belong to the data processing co-op: NEC members High School Dist. 211 and Arlington Heights Dist. 25 do not belong to the co-op.

A RABBIT hopped into a willow tree at the Rolling Meadows home of Herald photographer Bob Strawn last week and decided to stay. Only an occasional departure to seek food has taken the bunny away from his new home. He is not disturbed by the clatter of the garbage truck, Strawn's cat peering from a nearby window or the new-fallen snow.

Explains Protest Reasons

Lindstrom Still Making News

by DOUG RAY

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom sports a flat-top hairstyle that is as archaic today as critics feel is his philosophy on Communism.

But the newspaper photographers still clicked frame after frame of the controversial minister, who called the news conference yesterday at the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago. Television cameramen captured his mannerisms as reporters recorded his message.

And although his following amounts to only a handful of Americans, Lindstrom is making headlines.

Lindstrom's latest endeavor is the formation of the Christian Defense League, which will protest Sunday's Russian Osipov Balalaika Orchestra performance at the Opera House. He called the news conference to tell the public why.

"The Christian Defense League is opposed to all cultural-exchange programs with Communist countries," he said. "Such a concert gives aid and comfort to our dedicated and self-declared enemies."

THE ASSOCIATE director of the 3-month-old organization, Dr. Philip Bennett of Palatine, had some harsh words about the administration's activities with Communist countries. "Nixon is a liar . . . the man must be opposed" in the 1972 elections, Bennett said. He charged that the President has broken promises to the American people by visiting Communist countries and is "giving aid to the enemy" by encouraging trade and cultural exchanges.

"We will stop the performance Sunday in any legal way we can," Charles Conrad, Arlington Heights director of the Christian Defense League, told reporters. "We will embarrass the state department in any way," he said. He charged that the state department organized the cultural exchange program.

"At one time this was unpatriotic . . . but not at all today," Lindstrom said of American relations with Communist countries.

"The Christian Defense League will take nonviolent actions around the world (protest marches, picketing, contact with government officials, harassment of Communist propagandists, harassment of those who trade with and give aid and comfort to the enemy.)" as ways of focusing attention upon the plight of our 'blooded brother' and helping to alleviate their suffering."

LINDSTROM CITED a Senate subcommittee report in 1958 regarding Communist cultural exchanges. "Every member of a Soviet cultural mission is an observer for Soviet military intelligence," the report stated.

Sunday's protest movement is the latest in a series of activist movements spearheaded by the Prospect Heights minister. In 1966, he formed the Volunteers for Vouden and later the "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

After visiting Europe he charged that many German and United States military personnel who served in the armed forces between 1944 and 1953 are now in Soviet slave labor camps. He huddled with the Cuban underground and came back to the United States with reports of 794 Americans in Cuban prisons.

He has demonstrated for the release of all prisoners in Communist countries and was whisked away by police from the International Conference Center in Paris where he held signs which read "Stop the Negotiations, Let's Have Victory in Vietnam."

The 33-year-old minister recently denounced the rock opera "Jesus Christ, Superstar" as being an insult to Christ and his followers.

The Christian Defense League, he said, "has between three and four thousand good prospects" for membership. If the organization mushrooms the way he envisions, the headquarters will be moved from Prospect Heights, where he is pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty, to a more central location, he said.

OK Bilingual Study Grant

Application for a $25,000 federal grant to start a bilingual program has been approved by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education.

If the grant is approved, it is proposed that the bilingual program include non-English speaking students, Spanish and English speaking students and students who are disadvantaged in both languages in kindergarten through second grade.

Miss Joanne Newman, division director of curriculum implementation, told the board there are approximately 275 Spanish-speaking students enrolled in the district but only an estimated 20 of them would qualify for the bilingual program as proposed.

"In order to teach basic skills in two languages while improving proficiency in each, eligible first and second grade students would be enrolled in the same school, attending the bilingual program in the morning and joining their peers for the afternoon," the educational committee report stated.

In the afternoon the bilingual-bicultural teacher and two aides would visit schools with eligible kindergarten students and work with older non-English speaking students entering the district for the first time.

THE BILINGUAL program would be designed to teach academic skills in two languages and English as a second language while developing Spanish skills and cultural understanding, according to the report. Language experience techniques would be the primary teaching method.

Enrollment in the program would necessitate the permission of the parents. The parents would be invited to visit the class often and the teacher and aides would make home visits.

The objectives of the bilingual program would be for the students to perform 50 per cent of the Dist. 15 basic skill objectives for kindergarten through second grade, tell his name, address and telephone number in English and Spanish; read and perform three simple Spanish directions, and demonstrate knowledge of English by acting out common verbs and prepositions and matching nouns with correct pictures.

In addition to improving the child's language ability, the program will aim at improving his self-image.

The $25,000 request includes the salary of a teacher, two full-time aides, travel expense, materials and transportation.

Les Ehringer, chairman of the board education committee, explained the committee was only asking for approval to submit an application for funds so the district could get on file and not approval of the program.

The bilingual program is 100 per cent reimbursable. If the federal grant is denied, the district can apply for state funds to support the program.

Clearbrook Founder To Be Feted

A dinner-dance to honor Mrs. Arthur Krause of Rolling Meadows for her work 17 years ago in founding what is now Clearbrook Center will be held Feb. 26 at Lancer's Steak House, Algonquin and Meacham roads.

Mrs. Krause founded what is now Clearbrook as a Sunday School for the retarded in 1955. The school was expanded to a day school and in 1957 was chartered by the state as the Community School for the Retarded Children.

The name was changed to Clearbrook Center in 1963 when Mrs. Krause and the other parents of retarded children who made up the governing board ceded their authority and control to a board of lay directors.

On Feb. 26, she will be honored by friends and fellow workers. The board of directors of Clearbrook will present a plaque proclaiming her the founder and first board president of the school.

The Rolling Meadows City Council has passed a resolution praising Mrs. Krause for her 17 years of service to the community. The resolution will be presented to Mrs. Krause Feb. 26.

The testimonial will begin with a reception from 6:30 to 8 p.m., followed by dinner and dancing. Tickets are $12.50 per person, and can be reserved through the Clearbrook Center.

Past Pact Ousts Request For NOC $$

Citing an agreement allegedly made several years ago, Mayor Roland Meyer has turned down a request from the Northwest Opportunity Center to meet with him and discuss the possibility of NOC receiving funds from the city.

Meyer said when NOC was granted a special permit in 1967 to conduct classes for Mexican-Americans in their building on Kirchoff Road in Rolling Meadows, NOC's director agreed that the service agency would not request operating funds from local taxing bodies.

"The reason we granted a special use permit was that they assured us at the time that they wouldn't ask us for funds," he said.

Mrs. Karen Stanley, center director, said she knows of no such agreement, but added she was not with the local NOC office in 1967. Meyer said he didn't remember the name of the man who entered the agreement on behalf of NOC.

A letter addressed to Meyer was sent by Mrs. Stanley two weeks ago. The letter requested a meeting with Meyer and City Mgr. James Watson to discuss the possibility that the city might grant funds to NOC in order to ease the burden of a $40,000 budget facing the center in 1972-73.

MRS. STANLEY said the center wanted the city to participate in funding NOC to the extent that NOC serves the city. She said NOC was looking to get about $1,500 from Rolling Meadows, based on her figures that NOC served 67 city families in 1971 at a cost of about $28 per family.

NOC is trying to raise $25,000 through appeals to the communities in the northwest suburbs that it serves. The city council in Des Plaines has received a similar request to that sent to Meyer.

Without financial aid from the communities, the center may be forced to cut back its operation or cease it entirely, Mrs. Stanley said.

CHANCES FOR receiving help from Rolling Meadows are dim, in light of Meyer's response to NOC, which the center received two days ago. Meyer said although he won't meet with NOC representatives to discuss funding, they can take their proposal directly to the City Council. But Meyer said the aldermen have expressed agreement with his position.

Joel Meyer and Otto Eilering have announced they will seek reelection to the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education in the April 8 election.

Meyer, who originally won a seat on the board as a write-in candidate in 1957 has been elected as a first-ballot candidate every three years since 1967. A resident of Rolling Meadows since 1964, Meyer administration and professional negotiations committee.

Chairman of the transportation and building and grounds committee, Eilering also serves on the board's public and professional relations, new building and hot-lunch program committees.

In 1969, Eilering and Meyer both were unopposed in their bid for reelection.

Mrs. Mary Thompson, the board's executive secretary, said the two incumbents are the only ones to pick up nominating petitions to date for this election.

Nominating petitions are available at the E. S. Castor Administration Building, 505 S. Quentin Rd., Palatine.

The first day for filing nominating petitions is Feb. 23 and all petitions must be in by March 17. March 21 has been set as the last day for withdrawing candidacy.

In order to qualify to vote in the April 8 election, voters must establish residency by March 9. Absentee ballots can be applied for from March 9 to April 3 by mail and until April 5 in person.

To vote in the school board election a person must be 18 years of age, a U.S. citizen, a resident of the state for six months and a resident of Dist. 15 for 30 days.

THE RICHARD JOHNSONS view themselves on national television Wednesday night during Public Broadcasting Service documentary entitled "The Man in the Middle". The family said they felt "somewhat of a negative approach was taken" but Johnson said there are some real problems that the middle-class American must face. There is something special about being on national television and now the family can testify to that.

TV Family: 'We're Not All That Poor'

by DOUG RAY

The Washington reporter wanted ordinary people and that's just what he found at the Richard Johnsons.

The Johnsons are a Rolling Meadows family, like many others in the middle-class community, who strive to pay monthly bills, worry about where the money will come from, but after each month manage to keep their heads above the water.

The family was the subject of a Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) documentary in Channel 11 Wednesday night entitled "The Man in the Middle." Reporter Robert MacNeil, who spent a week with the family at 2402 Willow St., presented the plight of middle class suburbia, too wealthy for federal aid but not rich enough to have much left over after all accounts are cleared.

Watching the broadcast with the Johnsons, however, showed that the family is not as destitute as the program depicted. "They were showing the hardships of life," Johnson said during the program. "We're not as poor as it seems," he said.

MacNEIL TOLD THE viewing audience, which may have been as many as 3 million persons, that the Johnsons pay all their bills and can't manage to save anything — thus "the Man in the Middle." What was spliced out of the program was Johnson's statements about the stock program through his job. "Sure we do without, but not as much as they made it seem," Johnson said.

It was also stated in the program that a school lunch for the Johnson girls, who attend a Lutheran school in Arlington Heights, costs 45 cents and that is too bring peanut butter and jelly instead. But the girls said during the broadcast that they dislike the school's hot lunches and prefer the sack-lunch variety.

"They left a lot out," said Mrs. Johnson and her husband agreed. "The positive things they didn't put in," he said. Johnson said he felt many of his neighbors could identify with the program aimed at presenting middle class problems. "We're not out to make a killing," he said, "just to survive."

BEING ON NATIONAL television was a big treat for the entire group. The girls giggled when they saw themselves. Richard and Mary Ann Johnson beamed with smiles.

It took the production crew about 30 to 40 hours to film the program, Johnson said. Segments were cut to end up with a half-hour broadcast, which showed the middle class American in a tough spot.

"We really are in a squeeze," Johnson said. "But a lot of us are in the same boat."

11 Of 12 City Elected Officials Endorse Meyer

In a campaign development that should surprise no one, Mayor Roland Meyer has announced that 11 of 12 elected Rolling Meadows officials have agreed to endorse his candidacy for the State Legislature.

The one endorsement that Meyer did not get is that of Ald. Jim Huddleston, who served on the Republican selection committee that in December endorsed Meyer's primary opponents, Virginia Macdonald and Donald L. Totten for two vacancies in the 3rd legislative district. Meyer and Huddleston have never had a close political alliance.

The local officials — nine aldermen, the city treasurer and city clerk — join Meyer's list of municipal leaders who have endorsed him. Schaumburg Mayor Robert Atcher, Elk Grove Pres. Chuck Zettek and former Elk Grove Pres. Jack Pahl have announced for Meyer.

Meyer said he will continue to seek endorsements from municipal officials throughout the district who have not yet committed themselves to a candidate.

His "name" support must come from individual leaders because the five Republican township organizations in the district are backing Totten and Macdonald.

THE PARTY candidates have also cracked what was expected to be Meyer's principle base of support, however, by landing the endorsements of Mayor Frederick Downey of Hoffman Estates and Mayor Herbert Behrel of Des Plaines.

Meyer said earlier this week that Downey's party allegiance didn't surprise him, but that he thought he had a good chance to win Behrel's support.

Two months ago Meyer said he had the support of five mayors and village presidents in the 3rd district. To date only Atcher and Zettek have come out for Meyer, but Palatine Mayor Jack Moodie is expected to formally endorse Meyer next week and Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert may follow suit. Behrel is reportedly one of the five mayors, with these four who gave Meyer an initial base of support.

Meyer said Wednesday he will continue to try to build a pyramid of support by seeking endorsements in other friendly towns similar to those he received from his own city council members.

He announced the Rolling Meadows endorsements himself and stressed that the backing comes from the officials as individuals and not as a joint action of the city council.

"SOME OF THE aldermen asked me if I wanted them to pass a resolution in council" endorsing his candidacy, Meyer said. "I told them I preferred they endorse me as individuals."

He said he asked each of the officials for an endorsement, but did not ask Huddleston because, "Jim is a patronage worker and I don't agree with that kind of operation. Besides, he's already committed through the township organizations."

The value of endorsements from individual aldermen or trustees may be questionable, but Meyer doesn't think so.

"In a primary," he said, "the endorsements from mayors and other officials are as important or more so as endorsements from township committeemen."

Tammy Meade

A little girl was born on Jan. 24, 1963 to a Rolling Meadows couple, with a severe defect known as a "hole in the heart," a gap through the heart muscle.

Her condition was not operable until she was 5½ months old, when her heart was catheterized to determine the extent of the injury. She suffered a stroke at this time.

These severe complications were only the beginning of 8½ years of traumatic problems.

The little girl has undergone several major operations, the latest Jan. 25 when surgeons performed delicate open heart surgery and transplanted a human artery.

During the operation and since she has suffered heart failure several times. She has taken more than 80 pints of blood to replace the blood lost in hemorrhaging, and has had a tracheotomy performed to facilitate breathing.

At the present time she is in the intensive care unit at Children's Memorial Hospital where she will remain for several weeks.

HER STAY in the hospital will extend for many months until she is strong enough to return to her home at 3701 Holly Ln.

Her doctors stayed at the hospital for over 36 hours from Tuesday morning, Jan. 25 until Wednesday evening Jan. 26 because of their concern for "the miracle child" as she is known at the hospital.

This brave little girl's name is Jan Kathy Peterson, daughter of Neal and Wilfred (Winnie) Peterson.

Neal and Winnie moved to Rolling Meadows when they were newlyweds fifteen years ago. They are the parents of two other children, Joan, 12, who attends Carl Sandburg and Danny, 8, who is in the third grade at Central Road School.

Winnie hasn't been home from the hospital since Jan's operation but Joan and Danny are very capably being cared for by concerned friends, relatives and neighbors. Last Sunday prayers and Masses were said for Jan at all the churches in our city.

A NEIGHBOR of the Petersons mentioned that Winnie called very elated because "Jan smiled, moved her legs, and lifted her right arm."

Won't you pray for Jan's recovery and that she'll soon be back home and able to live a normal life?

If you would like to do more, a Jan Kathy Fund is being started by Fredrick Jacobson, 5th Ward alderman.

The Petersons are members of Trinity Lutheran Church where there is a blood replacement program which will help but the hospital bills will be enormous.

If you wish to donate to this fund, please send your contribution to the Jan Kathy Fund, % The Bank of Rolling Meadows, 3250 Kirchoff Rd., Rolling Meadows.

As Fred said, "Let's help our own."

Schools Eye Alternative To NEC Data Processing

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 school officials will look into alternate ways to get data processing services in preparation for a possible withdrawal from the Northwest Educational Cooperative (NEC).

The district is now buying data processing services through a cooperative run by NEC, an organization of 10 Northwest suburban school districts. Dist. 59 has in the past been highly critical of NEC.

Members of the board of education agreed Tuesday night to look into private sources during the next few weeks for the data processing service which provides payroll and student records. The district wants to see if the services would be cheaper than continuing them through NEC.

NEC is now discussing whether to continue buying computer services from Harper College or to purchase its own computer. A special meeting of the governing board will be held Saturday to recommend action on one of the two alternatives.

BOARD MEMBER Judith Zanca said, "I see advantages to the co-op, but I'd like to rid ourselves of some of the distasteful parts of NEC."

Other board members agreed they would be favorable to withdrawing from the co-op if services elsewhere would be less expensive. This year data processing services from the co-op cost the district about $23,000, according to Asst. Supt. Arthur Perry.

In addition, Supt. James Erviti told the board it may now be possible for the district to withdraw from NEC while remaining a member of the data processing co-op, something that has not been possible in the past.

Recently the NEC governing board agreed to allow districts outside of NEC to join the co-op without becoming a member of the NEC board. The action came after Des Plaines Dist. 62 asked if it could join the co-op. Dist. 62 has not yet decided to join.

"AN IMPORTANT question is how serious they are about that action," Erviti said. "I don't know if they realized that because of what they did, one district could pull out of NEC and still stay in the co-op."

Board Member Sharrie Hildebrandt, the Dist. 59 representative on the NEC governing board, said NEC did understand that possibility because "I told them it was possible."

Board Pres. Harold Harvey agreed with that idea, saying, "If we join the data processing co-op without being a member of NEC, it would make more sense than belonging to NEC and getting involved with its other problems."

He added that the district could then compare the costs of outside data processing service with the cost of data processing from the co-op without figuring in NEC administrative overhead. This year, in addition to the $23,000 for data processing, the district is paying $1,000 plus 41 cents per student for the administrative costs of NEC.

HARVEY SAID the district could make a decision on whether to remain in NEC, withdraw from NEC and buy services from the co-op, or buy services from outside sources once cost figures for all alternatives are in.

Once the NEC board recommends a course of action for the co-op it will ask all member boards to ratify that.

Currently eight districts belong to the data processing co-op. NEC members High School Dist. 211 and Heights Dist. 25 do not belong to the co-op.

A RABBIT hopped into a willow tree at the Rolling Meadows home of Herald photographer Bob Strawn last week and decided to stay. Only an occasional departure to seek food has taken the bunny away from his new home. He is not disturbed by the clatter of the garbage truck, Strawn's cat peering from a nearby window or the new-fallen snow.

Explains Protest Reasons

by DOUG RAY

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom sports a flat-top hairstyle that is as archaic today as critics feel is his philosophy on Communism.

But the newspaper photographers still clicked frame after frame of the controversial minister, who called the news conference yesterday at the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago. Television cameramen captured his mannerisms as reporters recorded his message.

And although his following amounts to only a handful of Americans, Lindstrom is making headlines.

Lindstrom's latest endeavor is the formation of the Christian Defense League, which will protest Sunday's Russian Osipov Balalaika Orchestra performance at the Opera House. He called the news conference to tell the public why.

"The Christian Defense League is opposed to all cultural-exchange programs with Communist countries," he said. "Such a concert gives aid and comfort to our dedicated and self-declared enemies."

THE ASSOCIATE director of the 3-month-old organization, Dr. Philip Bennett of Palatine, had some harsh words about the administration's activities with Communist countries. "Nixon is a liar... the man must be opposed" in the 1972 elections, Bennett said. He charged that the President has broken promises to the American people by visiting Communist countries and is "giving aid to the enemy" by encouraging trade and cultural exchanges.

"We will stop the performance Sunday in any legal way we can," Charles Conrad, Arlington Heights director of the Christian Defense League, told reporters. "We will embarrass the state department in any way," he said. He charged that the state department organized the cultural exchange program.

"At one time this was unpatriotic... but not at all today," Lindstrom said of American relations with Communist countries.

as ways of focusing attention upon the plight of our 'bloodied brother' and helping to alleviate their suffering."

LINDSTROM CITED a Senate subcommittee report in 1958 regarding Communist cultural exchanges. "Every member of a Soviet cultural mission is an observer for Soviet military intelligence," the report stated.

Sunday's protest movement is the latest in a series of activist movements spearheaded by the Prospect Heights minister. In 1968, he formed the Volunteers for Vouden and later the "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

He has demonstrated for the release of all prisoners in Communist countries and was whisked away by police from the International Conference Center in Paris where he held signs which read "Stop the Negotiations, Let's Have Victory in Vietnam."

The 33-year-old minister recently denounced the rock opera "Jesus Christ, Superstar" as being an insult to Christ and his followers.

The Christian Defense League, he said, "has between three and four thousand good prospects" for membership. If the organization mushrooms the way he envisions, the headquarters will be moved from Prospect Heights, where he is pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty, to a more central location, he said.

Recycling Areas For Glass, Paper Needed: Study

Mount Prospect should set up two permanent reclamation centers for the recycling of glass and paper.

This was the recommendation made recently by Deputy Village Engineer Natalie Karney. Mrs. Karney has been studying the problem of solid waste disposal for some time in order to develop a recycling program for the village.

The two locations selected by Mrs. Karney would be at the Mount Prospect Shopping Plaza, Rand and Central roads, and on the village-owned property to the immediate east of Fire Station 2 on Golf Road.

"When permission of use is granted to us by the Shopping Plaza Merchants Association," she wrote, "arrangements can immediately be made to have a paper bin dropoff (set up)."

A second bin, for glass, would be added when funds are approved.

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Junior Woman's Club has been cosponsoring recycling projects at the Plaza with a different organization each month since September. In the first three months, 36.1 tons of paper and 10.3 tons of glass were collected.

The second recommended site, in Mrs. Karney's report was recently bought by the village. She wrote that an estimated 3,000 square feet of the lot be paved to accommodate the recycling bins and the pickup trucks.

Mrs. Karney states that Mount Prospect Fire Chief Lawrence Pairitz has "offered no objection to this site proposal and he has also agreed to help provide the necessary supervision" to prevent vandalism.

A third recommendation, made in the report, is that tin can recycling bins be added in a second stage of the program. Both of the proposed centers will be open 24 hours a day.

The centers could make a profit, according to Mrs. Karney. But even if they do not, she wrote, they still are needed.

"IT SHOULD be noted that this project is a service program performed by the village to show its support for the ecological movement now under way to save our environment," she wrote.

"No social cost is involved, except asking people to get into the habit of saving their glass and paper and bringing them to the reclamation centers. The monetary cost is small compared to such benefits as conservation of diminishing natural resources; less trash in the weekly collection, therefore less cost and longer life for existing landfill sites. A self-sustaining program, however, will reflect the amount of involvement by the people of Mount Prospect."

According to her figures, paper bins would cost nothing, and the village would be paid $8 a ton for paper by the Container Corp. Glass bins would cost $3,777.40 per bin a year if Barrington Trucking's facilities are used and $1,944 if Arc Disposal Co.'s facilities are used. The village would be paid $20 per ton of glass.

THIRTY-EIGHT teams from 22 schools in the Chicago area competed Saturday in the ninth annual Lutheran School Invitational Tournament hosted by

St. Paul Lutheran School in Mount Prospect. The team from St. Peter Lutheran School in Arlington Heights won in the seventh and eighth grade division while the team from St. Paul Lutheran School in Melrose Park captured the fifth and sixth grade title.

Police Seek Link In Area Robberies

Police are trying to link Tuesday's bank robbery in Buffalo Grove to a recent series of robberies in the area, including the Wednesday night robbery of the Cumberland Pharmacy in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines police are investigating that possibility. Although Buffalo Grove police have said such a connection is remote, they haven't ruled it out in their investigation.

FBI agents handling the bank robbery investigation would not comment yesterday when asked if they thought the robberies were related.

The common link between the Buffalo Grove and the Des Plaines crimes is the description of the suspects. The robbers reportedly used similar green duffel bags as money satchels and wore ski masks.

OTHER SIMILAR parts of the description are that the robbers were young — in their 20's — and had long hair. One of the Bank robbers wore bell-bottom blue jeans, as did the lone pharmacy robber.

The description also fits suspects who robbed a Convenient Food Store in Arlington Heights and a gas station in Prospect Heights, both on Sunday.

In the Tuesday Buffalo Grove robbery, two men in their 20's with long hair and faces covered with ski masks robbed the Bank of Buffalo Grove of about $133,000.

Earlier in the day an Arlington Heights patrolman spotted two persons fitting that description in a car near Buffalo Grove. The patrolman was investigating the Sunday robbery. However the patrolman lost the suspects in traffic.

In the pharmacy robbery, $60 and narcotic drugs were taken. The lone bandit also wore a ski mask and had long hair. A second person connected with the robbery drove a get-away car which matched a description of a car used in the gas station robbery Sunday.

IT IS ALSO believed that ski masks were used by robbers in at least one of the crimes Sunday.

Although it appears a bit unusual the same persons would hit a pharmacy for only $60 and drugs after netting more than $100,000 the night before, the robbers also showed a strange quirk in the bank robbery, police said. After cleaning out the vault, the robbers took $29 in cash from a teller's purse. They also took the teller's car keys, but then fled on foot.

LeForge To Be Candidate

Robert LeForge, 1105 N. Maple Ln., Prospect Heights, announced his candidacy for reelection to the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 School Board Wednesday night.

LeForge, who has lived in Prospect Heights 14 years, is a general operations supervisor for Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Currently incumbents, LeForge and Alan Krinsky, 207 Rosehill Dr., Arlington Heights, are the only announced candidates for three positions on the school board.

Robert LeForge

LeForge, who has served eight years on the board including five years as board president, has said he will continue to emphasize fiscal responsibility to school planning if he is elected.

"There is a need in the district to sell more tax anticipation warrants (loans on expected tax income) each year," LeForge said. "We should be budgeting our income carefully so we don't spend future tax revenue."

LeForge said, "If the school board continues to spend beyond its income by taking out loans, it will catch up with the

In spite of all the snow, it's time to start thinking "baseball" — if you have a boy between 8 and 17 years old. Tomorrow is the final sign-up day for the 1972 baseball season.

Registration will be from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 See Gwun. To be eligible, a boy must have been born on or after Aug. 1, 1954, but before Dec. 1, 1963. Cost is between $17 to $20 per boy (depending on his age), with special family rates.

Mom or Dad must be on hand to sign their son's registration card. If your boy is new in this program, you'll also be asked for proof of his birth date.

Since more than 750 boys are involved in this program, many men are needed as coaches, team managers, and helpers. Anyone interested in volunteering for these important spots may call Bud Clark at 392-5306.

Also, boys over 15 and men are needed to umpire. These are paying jobs, and a refresher course in umpiring is given. For further information call John Dickey at 392-8949.

SOMETHING different in the way of lingerie fashion shows will take place Monday evening at Scandia House in the Mount Prospect Plaza.

AN ANNUAL custom at Prospect High School is the awarding of a small Spirit Cup to the class with the most students attending a selected basketball game. When Prospect plays Glenbard North tomorrow evening, a new large and permanent trophy will be awarded.

The Barbara Carlson Spirit Award is being donated by Ralph and Eleanor Carlson of 104 Mac Arthur Dr. They are giving it in memory of their daughter, Barbara, who died last September. Earlier Barbara had been elected vice-president of the 1972-73 junior class. This new trophy will be awarded during halftime of the varsity game.

Following the game, the junior class will sponsor a Coke dance in the field house. Slackwater Rye will provide the music. Mike Fisher is dance chairman.

Band Needs $13,000 For Munich Trip

The Wheeling High School band must raise an additional $13,000 by next Tuesday to keep alive its plans to travel to Germany for the Olympics in August.

The Wheeling Instrumental League is working to raise a total of nearly $140,000 to pay for the trip. An initial payment of $15,000 is due Tuesday, and the first week of fund-raising has netted only $2,000.

Don Hoeck, head of the "Munich '72" campaign, said if the additional money is not raised in the next seven days, the band will be forced to drop its plans to participate in an international band competition at the Olympics.

"The need is urgent," Hoeck said, "and the future of the dream of our bandmen is in the hands of local residents."

HE SAID HIS committee has contacted businessmen around the state and "we have been told repeatedly that they (the businessmen) will help if the local people show their interest."

As a result, the committee will concentrate its efforts this week in the Northwest suburbs, with particular emphasis on Wheeling, Buffalo Grove, Arlington Heights and Prospect Heights, the four communities served by Wheeling High School.

Hoeck asked local residents to send contributions to the Wheeling Instrumental League, Wheeling High School, Wheeling 60090.

If the committee raises the $15,000, it is expected that much of the rest of its campaign will be directed at large businesses throughout the state. In its invitation to the contest, the Wheeling band was designated the official representative of Illinois.

State and local political leaders have been asked to write letters of support for the band's campaign, and at a meeting Monday night the Wheeling Village Board agreed to write a letter stating that "the entire Village of Wheeling" backs the campaign.

Hoeck said by mid-March, his committee must have about $70,000, either in cash or pledges, and by April 22 it should have raised at least $105,000.

The band, which has won national and local awards, was invited to the Olympic Marching Band Tour and Competition last month.

The Wheeling band plans to take 200 to 220 persons — band members, the band staff and chaperones — to Germany. The competition will be held in several German cities from Aug. 13 through Aug. 27.

Lindstrom Still Making News

by DOUG RAY

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom sports a flat-top hairstyle that is as archaic today as critics feel is his philosophy on Communism.

But the newspaper photographers still clicked frame after frame of the controversial minister, who called the news conference yesterday at the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago. Television cameramen captured his mannerisms as reporters recorded his message.

And although his following amounts to only a handful of Americans, Lindstrom is making headlines.

Lindstrom's latest endeavor is the formation of the Christian Defense League, which will protest Sunday's Russian Osipov Balalaika Orchestra performance at the Opera House. He called the news conference to tell the public why.

"The Christian Defense League is opposed to all cultural-exchange programs with Communist countries," he said. "Such a concert gives aid and comfort to our dedicated and self-declared enemies."

THE ASSOCIATE director of the 3-month-old organization, Dr. Philip Bennett of Palatine, had some harsh words about the administration's activities with Communist countries. "Nixon is a liar... the man must be opposed" in the 1972 elections, Bennett said. He charged that the President has broken promises to the American people by visiting Communist countries and is "giving aid to the enemy" by encouraging trade and cultural exchanges.

"We will stop the performance Sunday in any legal way we can," Charles Conrad, Arlington Heights director of the Christian Defense League, told reporters. "We will embarrass the state department in any way," he said. He charged that the state department organized the cultural exchange program.

"At one time this was unpatriotic... but not at all today," Lindstrom said of American relations with Communist countries.

"The Christian Defense League... will take nonviolent actions around the world (protest marches, picketing, contact with government officials, harassment of Communist propagandists, harassment of those who trade with and give aid and comfort to the enemy...) as ways of focusing attention upon the plight of our 'bloodied brother' and helping to alleviate their suffering."

LINDSTROM CITED a Senate subcommittee report in 1958 regarding Communist cultural exchanges. "Every member of a Soviet cultural mission is an observer for Soviet military intelligence," the report stated.

Sunday's protest movement is the latest in a series of activist movements spearheaded by the Prospect Heights minister. In 1966, he formed the Volunteers for Vouden and later the "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

After visiting Europe he charged that many German and United States military personnel who served in the armed forces between 1944 and 1953 are now in Soviet slave labor camps. He huddled with the Cuban underground and came back to the United States with reports of 794 Americans in Cuban prisons.

He has demonstrated for the release of all prisoners in Communist countries and was whisked away by police from the International Conference Center in Paris where he held signs which read "Stop the Negotiations, Let's Have Victory in Vietnam."

The 33-year-old minister recently denounced the rock opera "Jesus Christ, Superstar" as being an insult to Christ and his followers.

The Christian Defense League, he said, "has between three and four thousand good prospects" for membership. If the organization mushrooms the way he envisions, the headquarters will be moved from Prospect Heights, where he is pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty, to a more central location, he said.

IRS To Rule On Pay

Chances for retroactive pay for Prospect Heights Dist. 23 teachers suffered a setback Wednesday, after the school board voted to ask the Internal Revenue Service for a written opinion before approving the back payments.

Board Member Robert LeForge said the legality of making the retroactive payments was unclear and asked that no action be taken until a written opinion is obtained from the IRS, the enforcing body of the federal pay board.

Supt. Edward Grodsky recommended that the retroactive payments be made to teachers and other personnel including secretaries. He said contract negotiations were completed July 22, but the contract was not signed by the board until Sept. 1 or ratified by the teachers until Sept. 3.

Grodsky said he feels the district is complying with IRS rulings because contract negotiations were completed before the wage-price freeze went into effect on Aug. 15.

Grodsky added the school board passed a budget July 7 which included the salary increases.

JAMES HENDREN, business manager, said payments could have been made to employees received back salary in last paycheck in February.

Recent IRS guidelines for making retroactive payments require that the employer must have made appropriations for the salary increases before Aug. 15 and the employer must have determined the new rates, not necessarily in writing, before Aug. 15.

"The question is whether official ratification of the contract takes precedence over the gentleman's agreement made with the end of negotiations July 22," Grodsky said. "I think the gentleman's agreement was legal, and retroactive payments can be made."

Minority Group Distribution In Schools OK'd

River Trails School Dist. 26, which enrolls 139 students of minority groups, has taken "caution to make sure ethnic groups were placed in every school..." according to a report filed with State Supt. Michael Bakalis.

Dist. 26 officials filed the report after Bakalis required districts throughout the state to make known their integration policies. According to the report, Dist. 26 3,136 students include 57 Negroes, 17 Orientals, 65 Spanish Americans and one American Indian.

Sixty-five of those students attend River Road School in Des Plaines. The school houses students from Maryville Academy, a home for dependent children, which in 1968 said it could no longer afford to educate its own children. As a result, Dist. 26 has taken over the responsibility and leases a part of the academy for the school.

"The River Road School has a higher expenditure level per student than any other school in Dist. 26," according to the report. "Classes are smaller and most of the students fit into a special education category. As soon as they are able and with no distinction to race, creed or color, these students are integrated into the other district schools. We plan to continue this plan of integration."

Norris Named To Court Committee

Lloyd Norris, a former Mount Prospect trustee, has been appointed to the new Committee on Courts and Justice. The citizens' committee, made up primarily of business and civic leaders from the metropolitan Chicago area, is concerned with court reform and the criminal justice system. Norris is director of the public safety division of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry.

Cook County Agency Nixes $35,000 Bid For Attorney

The Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission has rejected a $35,000 grant application by the Village of Arlington Heights to hire and train a village attorney and legal advisor to the police department.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said, however, Arlington Heights would proceed with its plan to hire the full-time attorney on its own.

In rejecting the application, the commission said it felt Arlington Heights was wealthy enough as a community to pay for the legal advisor itself.

The Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission is responsible for screening requests for federal funds under the 1970 Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act.

The act calls for over $240 million in criminal justice improvements in Chicago and Cook County over a five-year period.

THE EXECUTIVE director of the commission, William F. Lacy, said Arlington Heights' application would be forwarded to the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission for final consideration.

But, he said, the application would carry a recommendation from the Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission that the grant request be denied.

Hanson said he has finished interviewing candidates for the village attorney position and said he hoped to be able to announce the appointment in the near future.

Arlington Heights Police Capt. Maury English appeared before the 33-member commission Tuesday to explain the village's plans for the police legal advisor.

At the meeting, commission member and Oak Lawn Mayor Fred Dumke reportedly said he felt Arlington Heights did not show sufficient financial need to warrant the grant.

JOHN BOYLE, presiding judge of Cook County Circuit Court, suggested the village rely on the state's attorney's office for legal advice.

However, both Hanson and English said the state's attorney was too often unavailable and that Arlington Heights needed a full-time attorney, who would also serve as village prosecutor.

English said he was still hopeful the Illinois Law Enforcement Association might approve the grant despite the commission's veto.

Sixty per cent of the Chicago-Cook County Criminal Justice Commission's members are appointed by the Mayor of Chicago and 40 per cent are named by the president of the Cook County Board, Lacy said.

The commission is chaired by Chicago Police Supt. James B. Conlisk Jr.

Eye Incinerator Alternative

The Arlington Heights Environmental Control Commission got a green light from the village finance committee Wednesday night to arrange for an independent study of the Arlington Heights landfill operation.

ECC chairman Edward Kokkelenberg told the finance committee, during its third formal hearing on the 1972-73 village budget, that he expected the study would cost about $4,000.

He said an outside evaluation of the landfill's present operation and what might be done to extend its life was essential to the ECC's study of Arlington Heights solid waste disposal needs.

KOKKELENBERG said he expected the study to answer four basic questions:

—What is the current life expectancy of the landfill as now operated?

—What can be done, if anything, to extend its life?

—How much would these improvements cost?

—What would the estimated life of the landfill be if Arlington Heights were to start incinerating its refuse?

The ECC is working toward a May 15 deadline, by which time it hopes to have completed its report on solid waste disposal for the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Kokkelenberg said the ECC already has narrowed disposal alternatives to further landfilling or incineration.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Public Works Director Gene Willroth said Wednesday night that he did not think an additional study of the landfill would add anything to what the administration already knows about that operation.

He said that any outside consulting engineers would still have to work with daily figures compiled by the public works department.

However, finance committee chairman Frank Palmatier said he did not think it was correct to assume that the study would follow any prescribed method and he urged Kokkelenberg to go ahead and contact several engineering firms for quotations of the cost of a study.

Kokkelenberg said he had received a telephone estimate of $4,000 from Consoer Townsend & Associates in Chicago. He said he also planned to talk with several other engineering firms.

THE ECC CHAIRMAN said there are six basic questions that the commission still has not answered in its present investigation of refuse disposal in Arlington Heights.

He said it has not yet decided which means of disposal — landfill or incineration — pollutes less, particularly with respect to pollution per dollar cost of both operations.

The commission is also studying whether it would be wise for Arlington Heights to "buy time" by adopting an interim refuse disposal system in anticipation of major technological breakthroughs, Kokkelenberg said.

Other topics of investigation included the cost of delay caused by further study and analysis, the extent to which the solid waste disposal problem can be diminished through recycling and what can be done to environmentally safeguard both incinerator and landfill operations.

KOKKELENBERG said that based upon estimates of the total amount of glass and metal contained in Arlington Heights refuse, less than 2 per cent of this material is now being recycled.

The village health department operates two recycling stations in Arlington Heights which have collected more than 300,000 pounds of glass and 50,000 pounds of cans since last June.

Arlington Heights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson has already submitted a report, prepared by the village administration, recommending construction of a 600-ton incinerator at the village landfill site.

Hanson's report also recommends that pollution controls on the proposed incinerator be emphasized so as to be in complete compliance with new federal air quality standards. The report further stated that sufficient room be left for installation of new pollution-control equipment as it becomes available.

GJETOST — THAT'S Norwegian for goat cheese — is one of the Scandinavian foods tested by children in Mrs. Hauschild's second grade class at Dist. 21's Riley School in Arlington Heights. Suzanne Morris' and Mrs. Hauschild pass out tasters. Mrs. Hauschild, whose father is a native of Norway, taught the children a Norwegian song.

CLOSE TO HOME. At last Monday's village board meeting, the trustees funded several engineering studies for upcoming special assessment projects initiated by the Board of Local Improvements. One project study okayed was the installation of street lights along Northwest Hwy between Highland Avenue and Wilke Road. "As an affected party, I reluctantly agree," said Village Pres. Jack Walsh who owns and operates the Firestone tire store at 630 W. Northwest Highway.

STRONGER THAN DIRT. The finance committee was discussing the village landfill again Wednesday night when Public Works Dir. Gene Willroth justly praised the experience of the landfill's director, Bill Rose. "I think he has faced dirt in about as many forms as you can find dirt," said Willroth.

MUFFLED MOWERS. When Lewis O'Donnell, plan commission member, made a motion that the village Environmental Control Commission look into new noise standards for the village, he had second thoughts. "That probably means I won't be able to use my power mower next year," he said.

SEXY BOARD. Arlington Heights resident Al Linsey told the Form of Government committee that it's hard to find qualified members for the board of trustees because trustees work so hard for so little pay. "Some people won't do that work for so little money," Linsey said. A FOG member then asked what some people would do the work for. "Some would probably do it for sex," said former trustee and FOG Chairman J. Burton Thompson.

CULTURAL CENTER. With money the main hangup to a village cultural center, Dr. E. Jesse Jacobs, member of the cultural commission, suggested the commission change its name to the Rolling Meadows Cultural Commission. "Then he could pay for a cultural center — in cash, too," he said.

GOLDEN EGGS. How much does a cultural center cost? asked Joe Weber, chairman of the cultural commission. A commission member suggested $1 million. "Are you kidding, you can't build a chicken coop for $1 million these days," Weber said.

NIGHT AND DAY. It's no secret that many people in village government give up numerous evenings during the year for the purpose of public meetings and hearings. Tuesday night the low and moderate-income housing committee was waiting for Trustee Alice Harms to arrive from home. "She's probably washing the dishes or ironing clothes," one person said with a facetious touch of male chauvinism. "What Alice needs is a night care center instead of a day care center," added Trustee Frank Palmatier. Mrs. Harms arrived moments later.

NUMBER PLEASE. The village manager was explaining the municipal building's telephone service to the finance committee last Wednesday when a question was raised about the cost of Arlington Heights' two Chicago exchanges. The phone numbers were initiated to save trustees and other village folk who work downtown money on toll calls. "You see, the manager said, both Chicago numbers are unlisted."

Government To Survey Nike Site

The first step toward the possible conversion of 100 acres of the Arlington Heights Nike Base into a regional park will take place March 6, when a representative of the United States General Services Administration will survey the property.

The GSA surveys and disposes of property that is designated surplus to the government. Part of the job includes surveying property, such as the Nike Base, to supply a preliminary analysis of its use to the Department of Defense.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., who endorsed the proposal for turning the Nike Site into a recreational area, hopes to be at the site March 6. A month ago Percy met with about 20 mayors and park district representatives from the Northwest suburbs who suggested the plan.

PERCY ASKED the GSA for a ruling on whether the property was being adequately utilized by the military, and last week the GSA agreed to undertake the survey.

"The survey will be very extensive and even include the inspection of business affairs of the GSA," "I expect it will take most of the day.

The survey will be sent to the Department of Defense for review and comment. If the department agrees with the GSA findings, the decision will be sent to the Armed Services Committee in the Senate.

If the committee also agrees with the decision, it will be sent back to the GSA. At that time the GSA would dispose of the property, if it is declared surplus.

A REGIONAL PARK is planned for the Nike site, if local plans are approved. Included in features of the proposed park would be a golf course, picnicking and hiking area and storm retention basin for boating and fishing.

"This is one of the most imaginative plans for the setting aside of open space that I have ever seen," Percy said.

The park would serve Palatine, Wheeling, Schaumburg and Elk Grove Village, all of which do not have the national minimum standard of 10 acres per 1,000 people.

"We're very optimistic about getting the property for a park, and glad that the process has been started," said Thomas Thornton, director of parks and recreation in Arlington Heights.

This Morning In Brief

The Nation

The administration has asked Congress to officially recognize devaluation of the dollar by raising the price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce.

The director of the Justice Department's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs denied that his former deputy, John H. Finlator, had been muzzled in expressing his view that the use of marijuana should be legalized.

The average American consumer will spend nearly 6 per cent more for food this year, paying out a record of about $125 billion, the Agriculture Department has predicted.

Oregon State University officials say they may seal off the campus to all but students and faculty because of four attacks on students, one of them the fatal stabbing of a coed.

To combat a record one-year jump in welfare costs, the government has decided to advance the states about $1 billion in aid funds that could return thousands of persons to the welfare rolls this year.

The State

Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie will ask the state legislature for an emergency appropriation to help offset an expected $107 million deficit in the state welfare budget, it has been revealed.

Elgin High School remained closed af-

Cook County State's Attorney Edward V. Hanrahan announced the return of 19 indictments charging the Republic Steel Corporation's South Chicago works with air and water pollution, reckless conduct and criminal damage to property.

The World

Avery Brundage, veteran president of the International Olympic Committee said Winter Olympic competition should be stopped because it is "not universal" and is plagued with scandal.

A powerful booby trap blew a leg off a British army officer near the Irish Republican border. In downtown Belfast a bomb blast ripped through a sporting goods store, injuring at least three persons.

The United States refused to set a date for the next session of the Paris peace talks in protest against a French authorized conference called by left-wing groups for this weekend to denounce U.S. policies.

The War

Wave after wave of American B52s pounded a camp from which Viet Cong fired rockets into the U.S. air base at Da Nang. The B52 raids amounted to the most concentrated attacks by the Stratofortresses in five months.

Arlington High 49 Or 50 Years Old?

Arlington High School is celebrating an anniversary this year, though no one's quite sure whether its the 49th or 50th anniversary of the school's beginning.

The school newspaper, The Cardinal, last week came out with a 50th anniversary edition, tracing the history of the school and the village from the school's inception in the early 1920s. But there is some question as to just which year the school officially opened its doors to students.

"We only have sketchy records which includes names of graduates," said Bruno Waara, principal of the school. "The actual plans for the building have been lost somewhere during the building of five additions."

Clouding the mystery are these facts: the school Dist. 214 Board of Education decided in 1921 to build the high school, the cornerstone was laid on Oct. 21, 1922 and the building was dedicated on Aug. 31, 1923. Then came the first graduation class.

IF YOU COUNT from the time the cornerstone was laid, the school is 50 years old this October. If you count the year of the first class as the first official year of the school's existence, then the school will be only 49 years old Aug. 31.

"It's possible that students were attending classes in the school before the cornerstone was laid," Waara said, "But we have no exact date on record of when the doors opened."

The first graduating class, listed as the class of 1923, held commencement exercises in the Presbyterian Church because the gymnasium of the high school wasn't completed. In 1924, 12 students graduated in the new building.

Since 1924, 12,154 students have graduated from the high school. This June over 550 students are expected to graduate.

While The Cardinal published a 50th anniversary edition Feb. 4, plans for a celebration are for spring. A committee is now being formed to plan activities.

"I hope we can include the community as well as the school in activities," said Jerry Ziliak, an English teacher who is on the committee. "I just don't know if the students will get enthused about this, though."

Included in ideas resulting from a brain-storming session at a teachers meeting was to have an historical pageant, a costume contest, bring in old graduates to speak, have the men grow beards and have a 50th anniversary school emblem.

'Barrel' Attendance High

Over 2,500 students, mostly of high school age, have attended the Arlington Heights Park District teen center, The Green Barrel, during the past month.

"We're doing a bit better than breaking even on the concessions," said Ronald Dodd, superintendent of recreation. "The money will go toward paying off improvements we made on the center to begin with. After they're paid off, we will make other capital improvements at the center."

All money made at the Green Barrel will be put toward teen activities, Dodd said.

Included in current activities at the center is a table tennis tournament. A pocket pool tournament is scheduled for later this month.

RECENT IMPROVEMENTS include $1,000 worth of tables and chairs donated by the Womans Club of Arlington Heights and a Green Barrel sign made by Greg Seaman, a senior at Arlington High School.

The center is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and Friday night from 7 to 10. Saturday hours are from 1 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. All area teens are welcome at the center located at 660 N. Ridge.

Police Seek Common Link In Robberies

Police are trying to link Tuesday's bank robbery in Buffalo Grove to a recent series of robberies in the area, including the Wednesday night robbery of the Cumberland Pharmacy in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines police are investigating that possibility. Although Buffalo Grove police have said such a connection is remote, they haven't ruled it out in their investigation.

FBI agents handling the bank robbery investigation would not comment yesterday when asked if they thought the robberies were related.

The common link between the Buffalo Grove and the Des Plaines crimes is the description of the suspects. The robbers reportedly used similar green duffel bags as money satchels and wore ski masks.

OTHER SIMILAR parts of the description are that the robbers were young — in their 20's — and had long hair. One of the Bank robbers wore bell-bottom blue jeans, as did the lone pharmacy robber.

The description also fits suspects who robbed a Convenient Food Store in Arlington Heights and a gas station in Prospect Heights, both on Sunday.

In the Tuesday Buffalo Grove robbery, two men in their 20's with long hair and faces covered with ski masks robbed the Bank of Buffalo Grove of about $133,000.

Earlier in the day an Arlington Heights patrolman spotted two persons fitting that description in a car near Buffalo Grove. The patrolman was investigating the Sunday robbery. However the patrolman lost the suspects in traffic.

In the pharmacy robbery, $60 and narcotic drugs were taken. The lone bandit also wore a ski mask and had long hair. A second person connected with the robbery drove a get-away car which matched a description of a car used in the gas station robbery Sunday.

IT IS ALSO believed that ski masks were used by robbers in at least one of the crimes Sunday.

Although it appears a bit unusual the same persons would hit a pharmacy for only $60 and drugs after netting more than $100,000 the night before, the robbers also showed a strange quirk in the bank robbery, police said. After cleaning out the vault, the robbers took $29 in cash from a teller's purse. They also took the teller's car keys, but then fled on foot.

ROLLING MEADOWS HIGH SCHOOL is presenting its second school play, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," this weekend. The cast includes (from top to bottom) Dennis Schubert (Charlie Brown), Kerry Donovan (Lucy), Chuck Brynelsen (Schroeder), Jim Sprague (Linus), Ronda White (Patty) and Gary Cole (Snoopy). Performances (the first was held last night) are scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight and Saturday and 2 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $1.25 for adults and $1 for students. Children under 12 will be admitted to the Sunday matinee for 50 cents.

Explains Protest Reasons

by DOUG RAY

The Rev. Paul Lindstrom sports a flat-top hairstyle that is as archaic today as critics feel is his philosophy on Communism.

But the newspaper photographers still clicked frame after frame of the controversial minister, who called the news conference yesterday at the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago. Television cameramen captured his mannerisms as reporters recorded his message.

And although his following amounts to only a handful of Americans, Lindstrom is making headlines.

Lindstrom's latest endeavor is the formation of the Christian Defense League, which will protest Sunday's Russian Osipov Balalaika Orchestra performance at the Opera House. He called the news conference to tell the public why.

"The Christian Defense League is opposed to all cultural-exchange programs with Communist countries," he said. "Such a concert gives aid and comfort to our dedicated and self-declared enemies."

THE ASSOCIATE director of the 3-month-old organization, Dr. Philip Bennett of Palatine, had some harsh words about the administration's activities with Communist countries. "Nixon is a liar... the man must be opposed" in the 1972 elections, Bennett said. He charged that the President has broken promises to the American people by visiting Communist countries and is "giving aid to the enemy" by encouraging trade and cultural exchanges.

"We will stop the performance Sunday in any legal way we can," Charles Conrad, Arlington Heights director of the Christian Defense League, told reporters. "We will embarrass the state department in any way," he said. He charged that the state department organized the cultural exchange program.

"At one time this was unpatriotic... but not at all today," Lindstrom said of American relations with Communist countries.

"The Christian Defense League... will take nonviolent actions around the world (protest marches, picketing, contact with government officials, harassment of Communist propagandists, harassment of those who trade with and give aid and comfort to the enemy...) as ways of focusing attention upon the plight of our 'bloodied brother' and helping to alleviate his suffering."

LINDSTROM CITED a Senate subcommittee report in 1958 regarding Communist cultural exchanges. "Every member of a Soviet cultural mission is an observer for Soviet military intelligence," the report stated.

Sunday's protest movement is the latest in a series of activist movements spearheaded by the Prospect Heights minister. In 1966, he formed the Volunteers for Vouden and later the "Remember the Pueblo" Committee.

After visiting Europe he charged that many German and United States military personnel who served in the armed forces between 1944 and 1953 are now in Soviet slave labor camps. He huddled with the Cuban underground and came back to the United States with reports of 794 Americans in Cuban prisons.

He has demonstrated for the release of all prisoners in Communist countries and was whisked away by police from the International Conference Center in Paris where he held signs which read "Stop the Negotiations, Let's Have Victory in Vietnam."

The 33-year-old minister recently denounced the rock opera "Jesus Christ, Superstar" as being an insult to Christ and his followers.

The Christian Defense League, he said, "has between three and four thousand good prospects" for membership. If the organization mushrooms the way he envisions, the headquarters will be moved from Prospect Heights, where he is pastor of the Church of Christian Liberty, to a more central location, he said.

Stolen $113,000 Was Still In Bank Vault

Bank of Buffalo Grove officials said yesterday the reason armed robbers were able to get more than $100,000 in Tuesday night's holdup was that the money from the weekend transactions was still in the bank vault.

George Miller, bank president, told the Herald it is not unusual for that amount of money to be on hand before the weekly transfer of cash is made.

Miller said the money taken — about $113,000 — was mostly in small bills and checks.

According to Miller, the money will be replaced either today or Monday by insurance companies. He assured subscribers that their accounts are covered under the insurance policies.

He asked persons not to call the bank unless it is absolutely necessary because the switchboard has been unable to handle the flood of calls since the robbery.

THE FEDERAL Bureau of Investigation is pressing its investigation into the case and has assigned a large number of agents, according to FBI Agent Joe Stumpf.

Stumpf would not comment directly on the case, but said "a lot" of agents have been assigned. He said the FBI is investigating under federal bank robbery statutes.

He said the FBI is working with the Illinois Bureau of Investigation (IBI) and the Buffalo Grove Police. Buffalo Grove Det. Sgt. Frank Harth is working on the investigation for local police.

The two robbers have apparently made good their initial escape. The pair was last seen fleeing the bank on foot in a westerly direction after the robbery, between 6 and 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Bank employees who were handcuffed by the masked bandits during the robbery described the suspects as under 25 years of age with long hair.

WHAT IS A MIGRAINE HEADACHE?

The word migraine comes from the technical name hemicrania which translated means half-a-head. This is because in so many people the pain begins in the center of the forehead or over one eye. It most commonly remains in the front of the head. Other features common to migraines are flashing patterns or spots in vision just before the headache, followed by nausea and dizziness. More than twice as many women as men have migraines.

A migraine cannot be treated like a common headache with aspirin. It requires a different type of drug entirely and only a physician can determine how any one person should be treated.

Oppose Grant To Place For People

Des Plaines City Council committees last night decided they will recommend rejection of a $10,000 grant requested by the financially troubled Place for People, but members agreed to study other possible ways of giving city aid to the group.

Committee members decided that a direct grant could not be given after reviewing a legal opinion from City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi.

Citing his two previous statements on aid to the youth center which serves 300 Des Plaines teenagers each week, DiLeonardi had stated that a city cannot use tax money to make "outright donations" or to give funds without control over their use or assurance that the money would be used to fulfill the city's responsibilities.

Two solutions were considered by the committees last night as ways of providing city funds to the center: Contracts for counseling service, or hiring of a full-time city employee to provide youth services" and consulting advice to the center.

According to Alderman Robert Sherwood, 20, the city now has contracts with the Salvation Army service and the Maine Township Mental Health Assn. to provide youth counseling.

THE CITY PAYS for diagnostic examinations for young people who are recommended to the counseling agencies by the city's police or health departments. If the parents cannot pay, the city will pay up to $250 per case.

The Maine Township service is paid for on a "per case" basis and the Salvation Army receives a payment per year from the city for accepting cases.

Ald. Kenneth Kehe, 2d, said that if the city contracts with the center to provide services, it would probably have to require that parents of the teenagers be notified. The city would also require determination of financial need before it could pay for counseling. Ald. Lois Czubakowski, 5th, said that youngsters would be afraid to seek counseling if they knew their parents would be notified.

Ald. Alan Abrams, 8th, and Ald. Robert Michaels, 8th suggested that the city hire a member of the Place for People staff or someone else to work at the center. In this way, they said, he could provide counseling and consulting advice and the center would save money on his salary.

Ald. Abrams said the city could provide a youth consultant under its home rule authority to protect public health.

Still Hope For New City Hall By May

Des Plaines aldermen remained optimistic about beginning construction of a new city hall this May, following a special closed meeting Wednesday night that was called to discuss "serious" financing problems.

Although the meeting was closed to the public and the press, it was learned yesterday that most aldermen still feel the part-private, part-city ownership of an eight-story downtown building would be the least expensive financing plan.

The meeting was called by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel after the city received a report from building architects, Holmes and Fox. The report had been requested by several aldermen so they could determine whether the dual "condominium" ownership plan would really bring the financial benefits its advocates have promised.

Despite larger yearly expenses than the city would pay if it owned the entire building, the condominium plan would mean a smaller initial investment, $890,000, compared to more than $2 million if the city owned all eight stories, the report said.

Other advantages of the city owning only four of the eight stories, would be that the city would not "get into the real estate business" a step Mayor Behrel does not want to take, aldermen have said.

IT WAS NOTED at the meeting the city would have to take responsibility to find private renters if it owned all eight floors. The tax situation on the city-owned, but privately-rented sections of the proposed building, is still unclear. No taxes would be paid by the city on the floors used for the city government.

One disadvantage of owning only four of eight floors is that future city government expansion may be very expensive, because of the probable high cost of buying additional floors.

Some city officials feel an option could be written into the building contracts which would assure that the city could buy more floors at the then "fair market price."

Several aldermen at the Jan. 3 council meeting had said they thought the city was told it could purchase additional floors at the original price after construction. Apparently the Holmes and Fox report indicated the aldermen were incorrect.

ALSO, AT Wednesday night's meeting, it was pointed out that buying additional floors even at future higher property costs, would still be cheaper than building new floors or a new building.

City officials have been studying construction of a new city hall for the past four years. It would combine scattered city offices and to increase administrative efficiency, they have said.

City offices are now in the municipal building, 1412 Miner Street, and in offices at 1426 Miner, 1454 Miner, and 1535 Ellinwood St.

The proposed structure would be located on city owned property, 1426-28 Miner, part of which the city recently agreed to purchase for $5,000.

Burglary Suspects Held

Two burglary suspects were arrested Wednesday afternoon when they reportedly were caught robbing a Des Plaines home.

Richard Wright, 19, of 970 Rose Ave., Des Plaines, and Julius Rohlfes, 21, of 10029 Higgins Rd., Rosemont, were arrested at the home of Denzell Hale, 1418 Sixth Ave., police said.

Police were called to the scene after neighbors spotted Wright entering the rear door of the Hale home. The neighbors knew the Hales were not at home at the time, police said.

Other neighbors reportedly saw Rohlfes in a parked car in front of a house down the street. When police arrived Rohlfes was apprehended while in the car, police said.

Sgt. Peter Senteff and Patrolman Ronald Robinson went to the rear entrance of the house and noticed it had been forced open with vise grips, according to police reports.

Senteff then reportedly noticed one room of the home had been ransacked and heard noises inside.

Meanwhile Patrolman Ronald Adams went to the front of the home and observed a suspect later identified as Wright, pulling drawers out of an end-table in the living room, according to police.

SGT. SENTEFF and Officer Robinson then moved in to apprehend Wright, who reportedly ran to the front door where he was caught by Officer Adams.

Both subjects were searched after they were given their rights. Vise grips, and a 12-inch knife reportedly belonging to the Hale's son were found in Wright's trouser pockets. A gold metal watch, reportedly belonging to the Hales was also found in Wright's pockets.

A stereo, clock radio and sterling silverware valued at $1,000 had allegedly been moved from other rooms in the house and put in the den, according to police reports.

A $10 bill and a $5 dollar bill that had reportedly been in a jewelry box in the den were also found in Wright's pockets, according to police.

Wright's bond was set for $12,500 and Rohlfes' for $7,500. Both will appear in the Des Plaines branch of Cook County Circuit Court this morning at 9:30 a.m. to answer burglary charges.

Drug Offenses Up Sharply In 1971

The number of drug offenses for adults and juveniles in Des Plaines continued to rise sharply in 1971 while major crimes committed by both groups showed only a slight increase.

According to the 1971 Des Plaines Police Department annual report released this week, major crimes numbered 1,975 last year, a 4.1 per cent increase over the 1,884 incidents reported in 1970.

The number of narcotics offenses, rose 20.1 per cent from 120 in 1970 to 145 last year.

While juvenile offenses increased 3.5 per cent from 1,118 to 1,505, narcotics and burglary offenses by youths had a sharp increase. There were 62 juvenile drug offenders last year, a 47.6 per cent increase over the 42 drug incidents in 1970, the report said.

Burglary crimes showed the steepest increase among juveniles with 76 reported last year, a jump of 117 per cent over the 35 reported in 1970.

Sgt. Kenneth Fredricks, head of the department's youth division, attributed the sharp increase of juvenile burglaries to the increase in drug offenses.

"There's a greater need for money among drug users in order to supply the drugs, so as drug use increases so does the number of burglaries," Fredricks said in an interview.

Juvenile drinking offenses showed a 116 per cent increase in 1971. In 1970 there were 50 such incidents compared to 108 last year, the report said.

"Kids are using both drugs and drinking more now than before. They used to do one or the other but there seems to be less pressure from parents about drinking. Parents would rather have their kids drink than use drugs," Fredricks said.

The only decreases in major crimes among adults were thefts of goods valued at more than $50 and auto thefts. There were 382 major thefts last year compared to 427 in 1970, while auto thefts were down from 149 in 1970 to 139 last year.

OTHER INCIDENTS categorized as major crimes are murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, theft of goods under $50, and bicycle thefts.

Most major crimes showed slight rises with burglaries and bicycle thefts showing the greatest increase. Of the 1,975 major crimes reported, 1,903 were burglaries, thefts or auto thefts.

There were 431 burglaries in 1971, an increase of 27 over the 404 in 1970. Bicycle thefts had the highest increase with 417 reported stolen last year compared to 326 stolen bicycles in 1970.

Of the 2,214 rapes, robberies, aggravated assaults, manslaughter, thefts and auto thefts known to police last year, 473 were cleared by arrest, according to the report.

POLICE CHIEF Arthur Hintz, commenting on the report, said "It shows the men are on the job. Although there were no drastic increases in offenses there were a larger number of service calls that are continually increasing."

The greatest decrease in juvenile offenses were auto thefts. There were 11 incidents of juvenile auto thefts last year compared to 31 in 1970 for a 64.5 per cent drop.

"There weren't as many auto thefts last year because most young people now have greater use of their parents' cars or have cars of their own," Sgt. Fredricks said.

Housing Issue Deserves Review

The Des Plaines City Council showed itself to be a model of intransigence and shortsightedness this week in voting to ignore the issue of low-income housing here.

The council Monday rejected a measure that would have assigned a special commission to study the need for low-income housing among Des Plaines residents, adopting instead a resolution that instructed the housing commission to act as if this important issue did not exist.

After two weeks of maneuvering by Ald. Robert Sherwood (2nd), chairman of the health and welfare committee, the aldermen voted 10 to 4 to adopt his version of the instructions to the commission, going against the majority of Sherwood's three-member committee, which favors a city-sponsored housing inquiry.

We urge city council members to take a look at the consequences of their decision and to vote for reconsideration of their mandate to the housing commission at the next council meeting.

By sticking their collective heads in the sand and refusing even to study housing needs among local families, our aldermen clearly are not acting responsibly. They have provided an excellent case study of how not to handle the housing issue.

The controversy started last year when the Concerned Metropolitan Citizens Committee (CMCC) asked the city to adopt several measures to encourage development of new low-income housing here.

The matter was assigned to Sherwood's committee, which held a single hearing and then refused to accept any further oral or written testimony. The committee urged rejection of the proposal and the city council subsequently voted it down. The council also went along with a committee recommendation that a special city housing commission be established.

Sherwood then announced that he's against low-income housing and doesn't want housing needs of local families studied. Des Plaines residents are overwhelmingly against low-income housing, he said, so further study isn't needed. The aldermen agreed by a vote of 10 to 4.

So the city now has a housing commission that has been prohibited from studying housing needs. Its virtually meaningless assignment indicates that Des Plaines officials did not intend to take the matter seriously.

We believe that a community has the right and obligation to control development within its boundaries. That power, exercised by the city through zoning and other ordinances, is an important one.

In our opinion, the city council has provided ammunition for critics of suburban areas who have claimed that individual communities are incapable of using their zoning powers responsibly in housing matters. Those powers, the critics have said, should be taken away or overruled by the courts.

Des Plaines, we fear, may become an example of a community that has not faced this issue responsibly.

City's Fire Losses Dip 40 Pct. In '71: Report

Fire losses in the City of Des Plaines dropped more than 40 per cent last year compared to 1970, according to the 1971 annual fire department report released this week.

In 1970, the value of fire loss to buildings was $438,800, compared to $241,593 last year.

Chief Frank Haag attributed the drop in fire losses to the lack of large fires last year and to the stepped-up training and fire prevention efforts of the department.

"Good fire fighting, training and inspections by the fire prevention bureau unquestionably kept the fire losses down last year," Haag said.

According to the report, the per capita value loss to the city was $4.24 last year compared to $7.68 in 1970.

Haag said the 44.8 per cent drop in per capita loss "is well below the national average of approximately $12.10 per capita."

The report also lists only .05 per cent increase in ambulance calls last year, with 1,256 in 1971 compared to 1,152 in 1970. Ambulance calls last year represented 60.5 per cent of all calls received by the fire department.

There was a 28.3 per cent drop in building fires last year, from 256 in 1970 to 186. There were 117 residential building fires, including homes, apartments, hotels and motels, compared to 137 residential building fires in 1970.

The report listed 16 non-residential fires last year compared to 13 in 1970 while the number of fires in commercial stores remained at the same number, 31.

Fires in industrial buildings dropped 50 per cent from 24 in 1970 to 12 last year and there was only one mobile home fire compared to seven in 1970.

Outdoor fires increased 57 per cent last year with rubbish fires increasing 44.5 per cent from 92 in 1970 to 133 last year. There were a total of 176 outdoor fires last year, up from 112 in 1970.

The fire department answered a total of 2,088 calls last year compared to 1,945 in 1970.

The total dollar value in property involved in fire department calls last year was $16.3 million compared to $59.9 million in 1970.

Haag said the total fire loss of $241,593 was only two per cent of the total property value involved in fires and said it was a remarkably low figure for a city the size of Des Plaines.

There were 15 firefighters burned or injured on duty last year, the same number injured in 1970. Six citizens were listed as burned or injured compared to eight in 1970. There were no deaths.

Firefighters and ambulances on the way to calls were delayed 14 times for a total of 34 minutes by trains last year. This was an improvement over 1970 when trains caused a delay 29 times for a total of 64 minutes.

"We had an excellent year last year," Haag said "and hopefully we'll have six additional men next year and keep our statistics below the national figures as we have for so many years."

Taxpayers Treat City Officials To Lunch

Des Plaines Public Works Comr. Joseph Schwab took three city officials to lunch last month, and city taxpayers picked up the tab.

For $18.45, taxpayers treated Schwab, Alfred Prickett, building commissioner; Robert Bowen, city engineer, and Ald. Howard Thomas (6th).

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel, who gave Schwab permission to charge the lunch to the city, said he sees "nothing wrong" in Schwab's actions. Taking people to lunch to discuss business is a common practice in private industry, Mayor Behrel said.

When a reporter pointed out at the mayor's press conference Tuesday that there is a difference between treating another company's officials with company funds and treating other city officials with city funds, the mayor said "this is the only time this has happened, to my knowledge." Behrel has been mayor since 1957.

Also by their actions, city officials have jeopardized Des Plaines' future chances of obtaining federal funds for housing of the low-income elderly. An aide to the area director of the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) made it clear that any more city requests to HUD will not be looked on favorably.

Although a 125-unit HUD financed apartment building for senior citizens has been approved, there seems to be a need for considerably more elderly units here. If the council does not move first to meet needs of low-income families, no more elderly units are likely to be approved, the HUD aide said.

Should there be no change in city policies, senior citizens who aren't fortunate enough to get into the 125-unit low-rent building will be able to thank Sherwood and company for the fact that Des Plaines would be unlikely to get any more federally-subsidized housing for the elderly.

Oakton Referendum Absentee Ballots Ready

Absentee ballots for Oakton Community College's March 4 bond issue referendum to raise funds for a permanent campus are now available, Oakton officials announced yesterday.

Application for absentee ballots may be made by mail any time before Feb. 28 or in person until March 1. Applications should be submitted to Oakton Pres. William Koehnline, Oakton Community College, 7900 N. Nagle Ave., Morton Grove.

The referendum will ask Maine and Niles township voters to authorize the issuance of $9,075,000 in bonds to provide about one third of the $28.1 million sought for a permanent campus for the college.

According to Koehnline, about $5.7 million of the funds would be used to pay for the cost of land, buildings, utilities, mechanical and other permanent equipment for the permanent campus and about $3.4 million would be used for classroom equipment and other items.

KOEHNLINER HAS said the tax rate resulting from the bond issue would average an estimated 4.2 cents per $100 of assessed property valuation.

If a taxpayer's annual property tax bill is about $800, passage of the $9,075,000 bond issue would add $3 to his bill, according to a referendum information sheet compiled by Oakton officials.

About $4.50 would be added to a $750 annual property tax bill and about $8 would be added to a $1,000 bill, Oakton officials have said.

ACCORDING TO what Koehnline has termed "very conservative" enrollment growth projections, Oakton will have 3,950 students next fall, 5,050 students by 1973, 5,600 students by 1974, 5,950 students by 1975 and 7,000 students by 1979, when Oakton's lease on its temporary campus facilities expires.

Oakton's attorneys recently filed a condemnation suit against the Chicago Catholic Archdiocese to purchase a 105-acre site adjacent to Maryhill Cemetery in Niles for the permanent campus.

Archdiocesan officials have claimed the land has already been platted for graves to replace other overcrowded cemeteries and cannot be sacrificed. They have vowed to fight the condemnation suit "all the way to the Illinois Supreme Court."

OAKTON OFFICIALS have claimed a vote for the referendum is not necessarily a vote in favor of condemning the Maryhill site. According to Koehnline, the funds sought in the referendum, if successful, will be used to pay for the permanent campus no matter where it is constructed.

Police Seek Common Link In Robberies

Police are trying to link Tuesday's bank robbery in Buffalo Grove to a recent series of robberies in the area, including the Wednesday night robbery of the Cumberland Pharmacy in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines police are investigating that possibility. Although Buffalo Grove police have said such a connection is remote, they haven't ruled it out in their investigation.

FBI agents handling the bank robbery investigation would not comment yesterday when asked if they thought the robberies were related.

The common link between the Buffalo Grove and the Des Plaines crimes is the description of the suspects. The robbers reportedly used similar green duffel bags as money satchels and wore ski masks.

OTHER SIMILAR parts of the description are that the robbers were young — in their 20's — and had long hair. One of the Bank robbers wore bell-bottom blue jeans, as did the lone pharmacy robber. The description also fits suspects who robbed a Convenient Food Store in Arlington Heights and a gas station in Prospect Heights, both on Sunday.

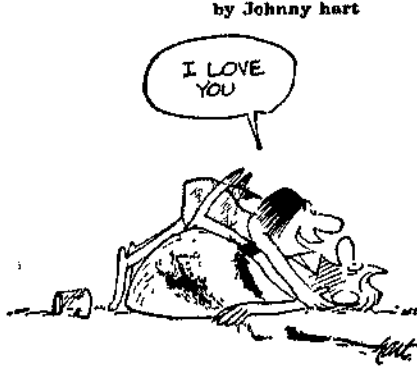

In the Tuesday Buffalo Grove robbery, two men in their 20's with long hair and faces covered with ski masks robbed the Bank of Buffalo Grove of about $133,000.

Earlier in the day an Arlington Heights patrolman spotted two persons fitting that description in a car near Buffalo Grove. The patrolman was investigating the Sunday robbery. However the patrolman lost the suspects in traffic.

In the pharmacy robbery, $60 and narcotic drugs were taken. The lone bandit also wore a ski mask and had long hair. A second person connected with the robbery drove a get-away car which matched a description of a car used in the gas station robbery Sunday.

IT IS ALSO believed that ski masks were used by robbers in at least one of the crimes Sunday.

Although it appears a bit unusual the same persons would hit a pharmacy for only $60 and drugs after netting more than $100,000 the night before, the robbers also showed a strange quirk in the bank robbery, police said. After cleaning out the vault, the robbers took $29 in cash from a teller's purse. They also took the teller's car keys, but then fled on foot.

Special Voter Signups Tuesday

Residents of Elk Grove, Maine, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships will be able to register to vote Tuesday at 15 locations established for a special voter registration drive.

The registration points were among almost 100 locations approved Monday by the Cook County Board of Commissioners.

The special one-day registration drive is aimed primarily at 18 to 21-year-old voters, but is open to the general public, according to Edward J. Barrett, county clerk.

Registration Tuesday will enable voters to cast ballots in the March 21 primary election.

Moodie To Head Area Municipal Conference

John L. Moodie, mayor of Palatine, has taken over leadership for 1972 of the Northwest Municipal Conference.

Moodie replaces Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert as president. He was officially installed last week at the annual Northwest Municipal Conference dinner.

During his year as president of the conference, Moodie said he wants "to make the conference more meaningful to the individual municipalities by making services to them more effective. Just how we'll do it is what we'll discuss at the next meeting."

Moodie has been mayor of Palatine since his first election in 1969, and has served on the Palatine Village Board since 1967. Before seeking public office, he was a member of the Palatine Plan Commission.

Palatine will also be represented in the Northwest Municipal Conference with the election of Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun as secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer was also elected vice president of the conference. Meyer is currently seeking the Republican nomination for state representative from the third district. He replaces Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh in the vice president position.

Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, was the guest speaker at the annual dinner. The Northwest Municipal Conference is composed of representatives from 14 different cities and villages in the Northwest suburbs to provide a forum for solving common or overlapping problems.

City Asks Dempster-Thacker Bridge

The City of Des Plaines has asked the Cook County Board for permission to construct a bridge over a section of county forest preserve land, to connect Dempster and Thacker streets at the Des Plaines River.

At his press conference Tuesday, Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel said the city is seeking approval from the county, as one of the final steps before applying for $4 million in state and federal funds to construct two downtown road overpasses.

The two overpasses include a River Road bridge over Miner Street and the Chicago and North Western Rwy. tracks as well as the Thacker-Dempster connection over the Des Plaines River, railroad tracks and a corner of Northwestern Woods.

BOTH PROJECTS have been in planning stages for several years, as ways of eliminating traffic bottlenecks and providing bypasses according to city officials.

Negotiations between the city and the county forest preserve district have been conducted since late last summer, when the Illinois Division of Highways refused to act on a $2.1 million city application to construct the River Road overpass.

The highway division said an east-west connection, like the Dempster-Thacker hook up would be needed along with the north-south River Road overpass to create a traffic pattern which the state feels will relieve traffic congestion.

The district, which first rejected a city plan to construct the connection on forest preserve land, later worked with the city to draw up plans for an overpass.

Behrel said the forest preserve staff had requested a formal city statement seeking permission to build over the preserve land. Behrel said this request was sent Wednesday. The county board also serves as the forest preserve board of commissioners.

Youth Saved From Drowning

A 16-year-old Arlington Heights youth was saved from drowning by friends Wednesday in the Blake Pool at the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

John Todd, 1106 Campbell Ave., was practicing at the pool with the Mount Prospect Swimming club when he reportedly decided to swim underwater for 75 yards without coming up for air, according to Des Plaines police.

He went 50 yards when, according to reports, friends said he apparently came up for air then went back down to the bottom of the pool in a shallow area.

Friends reportedly thought he was fooling around then began to worry after a minute. They then dragged him on to the pool deck where he was administered first aid until the Des Plaines Fire Department ambulance arrived and gave him oxygen.

Todd was taken to Holy Family Hospital and kept there for observation. Doctors there said the youth apparently blacked out while underwater, police said.

Mary Ann Makuch Named Homemaker

Mary Anne Makuch, a Maine West High School senior, has been named the 1972 Betty Crocker Homemaker of Tomorrow for Maine West, according to home economics department chairman Lucille Stiles.

The daughter of Chester Makuch, 1931 Stockton Ave., Des Plaines, Mary Anne won the award based on her test scores on homemaking exams. She is now eligible for state and national scholarships. She has also been awarded a silver charm from General Mills, sponsor of the Betty Crocker contest.

News Crews Visit Homemade Ice Rink

The Fredian family of 615 W. Hackberry, Arlington Heights, was visited by Frank Mathey of the WLS Channel 7 news crew Monday morning.

A film was made of a homemade ice rink in the Fredians' backyard with Mathey and four Fredian boys skating. The boys — Jim, age 15; Bob, 13; and Mike, 11 constructed the surface themselves. John, 9, also skates with his older brothers.

The film will be shown on the air this week.

The three older Fredian boys all compete in the Arlington Heights Minor Hockey Association.

The Home Line

Winter invariably brings heart-rending stories of deaths in home fires. Accidents will happen no matter what precautions are taken, but every family ought to have escape plans for such emergencies. If it's at all possible, parents should figure out at least two routes to the outside from every room in the house. After all, fire may block a stairway or hall exit. From upper floors, porches and garage roofs, ladders or trees all ought to be traced as ways to safety. Everyone should be coached to understand that hall or bedroom doors should be closed to help hold back a fire. And impress the rule — "once out, stay out." After a plan has been laid out, practice once in a while. We have fire drills in our schools; we ought to have them in our homes, too.

Dear Dorothy: I'm a secretary and spend much of each day at my desk. As a result, most of my things soon begin "cupping." I can't afford to send these things to the cleaner after only one wearing. Is there any way to solve the problem?—Miss Eva O.

Can only suggest you hike up your garment when you sit down, wear the proper slip and if the dress looks as if it needs pressing, try one of the new steamers. It will bring back most materials so they look neat.

Dear Dorothy: Was interested in the comment about using only cream on the face when the skin gets too dry from using water. This happens to me every year or two and for a short while I just use cleansing cream until the skin settles down. It only happens in the winter, so it must have something to do with the humidity in our home. Whatever it is, I've learned to cope with it.—Katherine L.

THE TOWN HALL CRIER contemplates the possibilities of using unrelated materials, textures and home accessories for a pleasing design with Diddy Blyth, left, and Marilyn Provencher. They look forward to their dilemma being solved by Carleton Varney, president of Dorothy Draper and Co., when he speaks at Park Ridge Town Hall's Community Benefit Day Feb. 17 at the Pickwick Theater.

AN IMPORTANT SEMINAR ON MIND CONTROL & ESP

for Everyone Interested in Developing Mental Powers

Recently, many national publications such as Glamour, Life, and the Wall Street Journal featured articles titled "BRAIN WAVES" and "BRAIN TRAINING." These articles discussed a fantastic breakthrough, a new science dealing with the conscious control of brain waves. This new science is called AlphaGenics and concerns itself with the Alpha rhythms of brain. Noted researchers discussed how any person can learn to control brain waves and revealed some of the phenomenal capabilities of man with self-control of his brain waves. Exploration of this almost unknown continent — the human brain — has been pioneered by a soft-spoken para-psychologist, Jose Silva, of the Institute of Psychorhetology in Laredo, Texas. This sincere dedicated scientist has been training people to control their brain waves for many years.

ALPHA BRAIN WAVE CONTROL—Twenty-six years ago Silva and his associates began their research in Mind Control to see if it was possible to increase a person's IQ factor. Amazingly, Silva discovered that not only could IQ be increased, but a person trained in this technique could even control certain areas of the Autonomic System — heart beat, respiration, blood pressure, etc. The implications of this breakthrough with regard to health and disease were staggering. With Mind Control a person could banish pain, accelerate healing, eliminate insomnia, migraine headaches, as well as untold psychosomatic problems. In-depth studies also revealed that anyone with a normal brain and sufficient training could develop so-called ESP and clairvoyance.

35,000 GRADUATES — COAST TO COAST — Five years ago the Institute decided to release their findings to the general public. Techniques have been refined to where only a few hours of class time were all that was required to become a truly effective person.

On August 23, The National Observer discussed Silva mind control in a lengthy article. It describes how once you have mastered actual mind control you can totally relax any time you desire, banish insomnia, anxiety, tensions. Eliminate pain, enhance your learning capacity and memory. Eliminate bad habits, create good habits, control weight and smoking.

Results Guaranteed — By learning to control your alpha waves you will easily develop psychic power and learn practical applications of ESP, become a better student, parent, employee or employer and more effective problem solver.

ONE OF THE FAVORITE expressions of coaches, fans and sports writers alike is the word "psyche."

"The team was psyched up."

"The player was psyched out."

Other words which mean basically the same as psyched include:

"We were down for the game."

"He is a clutch player."

"He chokes in crucial situations."

Since sports are played by human beings, the mental aspect of athletics, just as much as the physical, is extremely important.

The difference between a clutch player and a choke player can be exemplified by the play of Tony Kubek, former star shortstop for the New York Yankees.

"It does not matter if the bases are loaded in the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series or if it is a routine practice session," said Phil Linz when he and Kubek were teammates. "Tony will come in for a ground ball the same way both times. Some players may be a little extra careful in a crucial situation — they may lay back an extra second before fielding the ball or they take a little extra time before throwing the ball. That can result in an error."

"But, Kubek will field the ball the way he always does — naturally. And when you do that, the chances of making an error are slimmer."

The nickname "Mr. Clutch" has been synonymous with the Los Angeles Lakers' Jerry West for a decade. He earned that title, of course, by coming through with clutch baskets in countless crucial situations.

Whereas, one player may give the ball a little extra "wrist" or a bit more follow through than normal in a crucial situation, West will shoot his jumper the same way he would in practice — naturally.

Shooting naturally is merely a state of mind.

In the 1960's, Arnold Palmer had as perfect a state of mind as anyone in sports. "When he came down to the final holes in a tournament," a touring pro said, "Arnie just knew that the putts were going to fall. It would never cross his mind that a putt was not going to drop. He played aggressive golf because he had the confidence which told him that he could make every shot work."

Confidence, or, rather, a lack of confidence, is what hurts Wilt Chamberlain at the free throw line. Few fans can recall that the night he scored 100 points in a game, he made 28 out of 32 free throws. Since that time, his confidence at the line has been destroyed and he struggles to make 50 per cent of his free throw attempts.

Dolph Schayes, a former NBA great, was one of the best free throw shooters in the history of the game. He based his success at the charity stripe on confidence and a "mental picture."

In an article written for Sport Magazine five years ago, Schayes said, "When I stand at the line, I have a mental picture of the ball going through the hoop. I have made so many free throws in my time that I can picture the ball going over the rim, through the hoop and into the net — before I even shoot the ball."

There were those who doubted if Schayes' theory could work for an average basketball player until an experiment was conducted recently by "Research Quarterly."

The magazine reported on the experiment which sought the effects of a "mental picture" on improving skill in sinking free throws.

One group of students actually practiced free throws every day for 20 minutes a day for 20 days. They were scored on the first and last days.

A second group was scored on the first and last days and engaged in no sort of practice in between.

A third group were scored on the first day, then spent 20 minutes a day imagining that they were shooting the ball at the basket — setting in their minds a mental picture of the ball going through the hoop.

The first group, which actually practiced 20 minutes every day, improved in scoring by 24 per cent.

The second group, which had no sort of practice, showed no improvement.

The third group, which practiced with their imaginations only, showed an improvement of 23 per cent!

But, Ryan had extreme difficulty hitting a receiver if the receiver was moving away from Ryan straight up the field. It was not that Ryan did not have the physical makeup to throw the pass on the "up" pattern, but, psychologically, he could not.

It took NFL opponents about eight years to learn of Ryan's deficiency, but, when they did, they took away Ryan's receivers' inside routes and Ryan was finished as a professional quarterback.

Sandy Koufax was a master at psyching out opponents — not only on the day he pitched, but on following days as well.

"When the Dodgers came to town and Koufax pitched the opening game of the series, he could put you immediately into a slump, an 0-for-4 day," said one National League regular. "That would, of course, help the pitchers who went for the Dodgers the next couple of days. And, if the next two pitchers were Drysdale and Osteen, you were really in trouble."

As well as the negative, an athlete's mind can work in a positive manner.

Marv Staehle of the Montreal Expos has a .215 lifetime batting average against Major League pitching. But, against Philadelphia's Rick Wise, one of the hardest throwing right-handers in the game, Staehle's average is well over .300.

"For some reason, I've always had success against Wise," Staehle said. "It dates back to when we were in the minors. Every game I face him I always count on a couple of hits."

In this case, either Staehle is psyched up or Wise is psyched out — or, a combination of both.

Other notable psyches include:

Lee Trevino, who cannot win at the Masters.

Bob Feller, according to the players themselves, was nearly impossible to hit at night.

Jan Stenerud, in the playoff game with Miami.

Marquette, impossible to beat when it is at home.

Mohammad Ali, who could beat a fighter mentally as well as physically.

Bobby Dodd, the former Georgia Tech coach of whom it was once said, "Luck follows him around."

Notre Dame, no matter how good, cannot beat Southern California in football.

A couple of psyches which were disproven during this past football season were:

The Dallas Cowboys cannot win the big one.

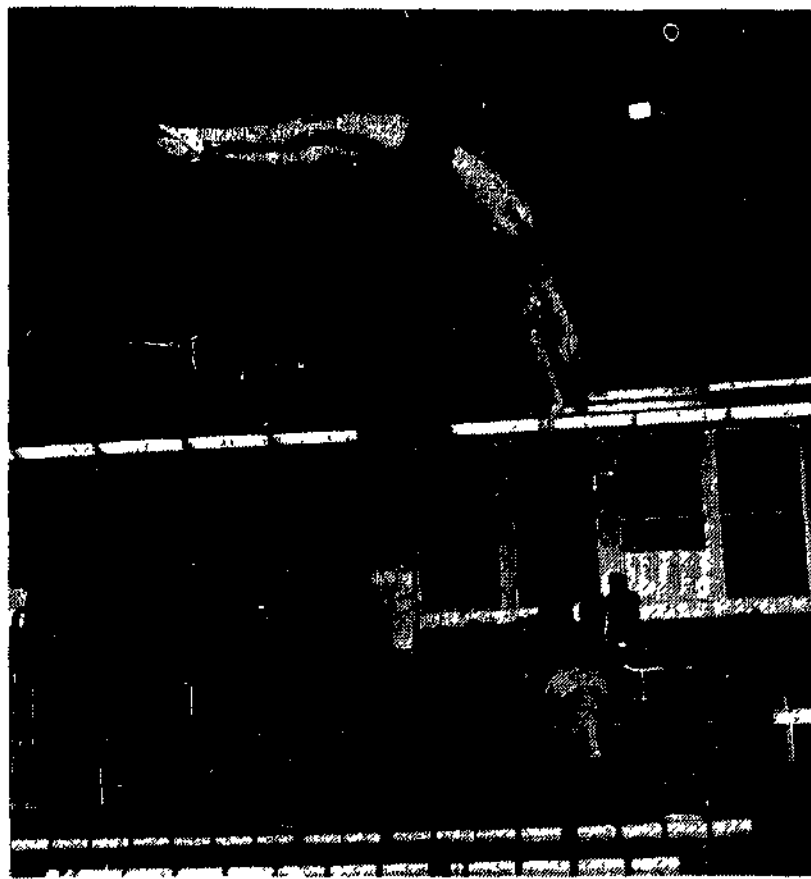

Bear Bryant has Bob Devaney's number.

There are exceptions to everything, of course, including the psyche in sports.

Before the 1964 Olympic Games got underway, Don Schollander moaned to his roommate at a practice session, "I've lost my finishing kick. I just can't find my kick."

Schollander seemed to be psyched out.

But, all he did was win four gold medals.

BENDING BACK and reaching for the water is Maine West diving Rick Weaver as he completes a back flip. Weaver will be out to garner Maine West points in the diving event in the Central Suburban League meet at Glenbrook North tonight at 7:00. Deerfield and New Trier West are favored.

Can Norsemen Do It Again?

Now comes the real test.

After winning its first varsity basketball game ever last week, Maine North will be fronted with the task of putting two good games back-to-back as the Norsemen host Niles West tonight at 8:00.

Maine North played a superb game Saturday night against Warren while posting a 64-60 come-from-behind victory. On offense and defense, shooting the ball and rebounding the ball, the Norsemen did it all well in the win. An important factor in the victory was that the Norsemen committed only nine turnovers.

Now comes the real test.

Was the win over Warren, which was no slouch, a fluke? Was it a one-shot affair? Can the Norsemen do it again?

They will find out tonight since Niles West is probably just as good as Warren.

The Indians have posted a 7-3 record against Central Suburban League competition, basically with a fine defense. In six of the 10 Central Suburban League games it has played, Niles West has held opponents under 60 points.

The Indians have a balanced attack with three starters averaging in double figures against CSL competition. Dan

Deerfield, Maine South Visit

Rugged Schedule For West Cagers

Maine West is loaded with depth. And every bit of that depth will be tested this weekend as the Warriors face their most difficult assignments of the season.

The Warrior cagers will host Deerfield, in second place in the Central Suburban League, tonight and will be home Saturday with Maine South, the arch-rival which is in first place in the Central Suburban League.

No less than seven Warriors are averaging seven or more points per game and Maine West coach Gaston Freeman, with two tough games on tap, will, as usual, be shuffling players on and off the floor, attempting to keep the five freshest players in action at all times.

Against Central Suburban League competition, Joe Thumma has the highest average per game, 13.0. Doug Myers is averaging 11.8, Rick Wolfgram 11.7, Jeff Heist 8.9, Fred Schmidt 8.8, Mark Tuttle 8.0 and Fred Campobasso 7.1.

All are expected to see plenty of action tonight and Saturday.

The Warriors have a 5-4 record against CSL competition and are 10-7 overall.

Maine West lost to Deerfield 75-71 and to Maine South 79-55 in the first go-around, but both were road games. At Maine West it is hoped that the Warriors will benefit from the home court advantage.

Deerfield has posted a 7-3 record in the CSL, including wins in its last three games. Deerfield has a balanced scoring attack with Dave Peterson averaging 11.1 points per game, Jerry Percak 10.2, Bob Tondi 10.0, Mike Darraugh 8.2, Terry Sandy 8.2 and Dan Devendorf 7.0.

Maine South has a 10-0 record in the CSL, a 17-1 mark overall and is ranked seventh in the state.

Three Hawks are averaging in double figures. 6-4 Jerry Jones 18.3, 6-2 guard Rick Kucera 17.7 and 6-6 center Tom Spencer 15.5.

SKATERS DO IT AGAIN

Dear Sirs:

The skaters may have done it again, giving us our only medals in the Olympics. Maybe the United States will wake up not and get these kids some adequate training facilities. We have only one Olympic size speed skating rink and we still turn out champions. Imagine what we could do with proper facilities. Congratulations to the Northbrook skaters and to Janet Lynn of Rockford.

LIKE NEW FORMAT

Dear Sirs:

I like your new format of concentrating on particular sports on a certain day. With everything happening on the weekend, it obviously is impossible to get everything in Monday and Tuesday so giving us wrestling, gymnastics and swimming fans something to look forward to is appreciated. I hope you do the same in the spring.

HOPES FERGIE IS HONEST

Dear Sirs:

I'll be anxious to hear the Cubs' Jenkins (Fergie) next Monday at your sports luncheon. I hope he's honest and admits the Cubs can't possibly win the pennant with the material they have now. It's unbelievable that the only left-hander on a club thinking pennant is old-timer Juan Pizarro.

PREP CAGE NOT "DOWN"

Dear Sirs:

It has been said very often this winter that Illinois high school basketball is having a "down" year. People are saying that Thornridge is the only respectable team in the state.

Well, I beg to differ with them.

I believe that the caliber of high school ball in this state is as good this year as it ever has been. The main difference is that everyone is comparing the rest of the teams in the state with Thornridge. When you do that, you are comparing those teams to one of the best basketball fives in the United States. Of course, no team in the state can compare favorably with Thornridge. But these teams, Lincoln, Hinsdale Central, East Aurora, Tilden, LaSalle-Peru, are still very good.

GOOD LUCK TO DOOLEY

Dear Sirs:

It was good to see that the Buffalo Bill organization has hired Jim Dooley as an assistant coach.

I have always felt that Dooley has a great football mind, but he just was not the motivating force which the Bears needed. In that sense, he is very much like Phil Bengtson the former Green Bay Packer coach who is now with the Chargers. Bengtson has one of the best technical football minds in the business but, like Dooley, did not have the personal makeup to be successful as a head coach.

To Coach Dooley, I wish him the best of luck.

BELTIN' BILL IS BEST

Dear Sirs:

I read with great interest recently that Bill Melton of the White Sox finished the 1971 season with a better fielding percentage than Ron Santo of the Cubs.

Since Melton had a much better season at the plate than Santo, it should qualify Mr. Beltin' Melton as the No. 1 third baseman in Chicago — and the No. 2 third baseman in baseball behind Brooks Robinson.

Much of the credit should go to Sox manager Chuck Tanner who stayed with Melton all year at third base, unlike Don Guttridge who lost faith in Bill and moved him to the outfield.

Since B. Robinson will be 35-years old this summer and Melton is only 26, it will not be long before Sox fans can proclaim that Chicago has the premier third baseman in the game.

Shakeup In Cage Schedule

The Suburban Catholic Conference schedule has faced a shakeup for this weekend.

Notre Dame will host St. Patrick on Sunday at 2 p.m. instead of tonight, which was originally scheduled.

St. Viator will not play Marist on Saturday night because the game has been canceled due to the fact that Marist has already played the allotted number of games allowed by the Illinois High School Association.

There are no changes in the schedules for the Mid-Suburban League and the West Suburban League.

Forest View, which lost a crucial 61-56 game to Conant Tuesday night, still has little hopes and will host Schaumburg in a Mid-Suburban League South Division game tonight.

The Falcons have a 6-2 record in South Division play and are in second place, trailing Conant's 7-1 record. Forest View is 10-7 overall.

Schaumburg has a 1-7 record in South Division play, including a loss to Forest View last month, and the Saxons are 2-14 overall.

Elk Grove, which has a 4-4 South Division record and is 9-8 overall, will be home with Glenbard North tonight. Glenbard North has a 1-7 record, in the South Division and is 5-12 overall.

Maine East, which is 4-7 in the West Suburban League and 7-10 overall, will host Riverside-Brookfield in a conference confrontation tonight. Maine East won the first meeting between the two schools 75-60.

St. Viator will be home with Carmel in a Suburban Catholic Conference game tonight. The host Lions are 5-7 in the Suburban Catholic Conference and 5-13 overall.

The only game scheduled for Saturday has Harper playing at Northwestern University against the Wildcat freshman team.

Notre Dame will host St. Patrick on Sunday. Oakton will travel to Triton tonight and will go against Harper on Monday at Niles East.

Elgin Rebounding Strength Helps Sink Oakton, 101-89

Elgin's superiority in the rebounding department, which resulted in a number of fast breaks, defeated Oakton 101-89 in a Skyway Conference basketball game Tuesday night.

"We were aware of their fast break," said Oakton coach Tom Jordt, "and we contained it fairly well the first time we played them. But, they had the edge in height which hurt us on the boards and they were quick to get the ball off for fast breaks."

Elgin connected on 64 per cent of its field goal attempts, most of which were layups on the end of fast breaks. Oakton also had a fine shooting percentage, 56 per cent.

The Raiders lost 47-42 at the half and the score was tied with eight minutes remaining in the contest. From that point, Elgin put its running game in full gear to win by 12 points.

Jim Welter paced Oakton in scoring and rebounding with 31 points and eight rebounds. Seven of his field goals came after offensive rebounds and the rest were jump shots from the corners. Jerry Gryzbowski tallied 16 points and Craig Christiansen had 14.

Elgin outrebounded the Raiders 46-26.

The Raiders have a stiff test coming up tonight, going against Triton which is undefeated in the Skyway Conference and has more than 20 wins against one loss overall.

Jordt's starting lineup will have 6-1 Gryzbowski and 6-1 Dennis Phelus at the guards, 6-4 Welter and 6-1 Larry Gawaluch at the forwards and Christiansen, who is 6-3, at center.

The Raiders, who have a 3-8 Skyway Conference record and who are 8-8 overall, have displayed a balanced attack this season. Phelus is averaging 17 points per game, Welter 14 and Gawaluch, Gryzbowski and Christiansen 12 points each. Over the last six games, Christiansen has averaged around 16 points per contest.

On Monday, Oakton will take on Harper, another Skyway Conference opponent, at Niles East at 7:30 p.m.

HARD CHURNING Dave Dettman of Maine West covers distance with each stroke in the freestyle events. The Warrior specialist will be seeking points for Maine West in the Central Suburban League meet tonight at Glenbrook North. Dettman ranks as the third best in the Herald area in the 100-yard, 200-yard and 400-yard freestyles. The meet will get underway tonight at 7:00.

Area Matmen In District Meets

The first step in the road to the state meet will be covered this weekend as Maine South hosts a district wrestling tournament.

The tourney will get underway tonight at 6:30 and will continue on Saturday at 1 p.m. The championship bouts will be held Saturday night at 8:30.

The top two finishers in each weight class will advance to the West Leyden Sectional which will be held Friday, Feb. 18, and Saturday, Feb. 19.

An extremely strong field has been entered in the Maine South District including defending state champion Hersey. Three Huskies are undefeated this season. Also among the entrants are Maine East, the West Suburban League champion and undefeated in dual meets this season, St. Viator, which finished second in the Suburban Catholic Conference; and Maine West, which finished second in the Central Suburban League.

Other teams entered are Forest View, Maine North, Arlington, Prospect, Luther North and Maine South.

Jack Horowitz of Maine North will bring the best record into the meet among 98 pounders. Horowitz has posted a 15-1 mark this season. Primary contenders for the 98-pound title are Paul Board of Maine East (14-4-1), Tim Marwitz of St. Viator (19-6) and Kurt Weisenborn of Hersey (17-5).

Steve Eggedal of Forest View brings an 19-1 record into the meet and could earn the top seed at 105 pounds. Maine West's Fred Gano has a 13-3 record. Maine East will enter Jay Check (12-5-2) or Bob Hofman (0-0 on the varsity level but with a splendid sophomore level record).

A wide-open affair is expected at 112 pounds with Maine East's Jim Sylverne (15-3), Prospect's Ron Chorwin (12-6-1) and St. Viator's John Marwitz (18-7-1) as the top contenders.

Mark Hyneman of Forest View will bring his undefeated record into the 126-pound matches. Hyneman has won 10 matches. Tom Bullis of Maine East has a 16-2-1 record with nine pins. Kevin Ryan of St. Viator is 22-4 and Dick Porowski of Arlington is 14-7.

Brad Smith of Hersey, a defending state champion, will bring a 21-0 record into the 132-pound matches. Contenders include Forest View's Bob Caltagiron (15-3), Prospect's John Layer (15-4), Maine East's Tony Raschillo (12-6) and Maine West's Brad Vance (8-3).

At 138 pounds, there is no clear-cut favorite but, rather, a number of fine contenders. The top grapplers at 138 include Arlington's Pete Anderson (18-2), Maine East's Scott Perlman (11-2-2), Maine North's Norm Lau (15-4-1) and Hersey's Paul Hayler (15-7).

Hersey's Tad DeLuca (20-4) is the favorite in the 145-pound division. Also hoping for a trip to West Leyden are St. Viator's Mike Mooney (12-0) and a recent winner of the Suburban Catholic Conference 145-pound championship, Maine East's John Palumbo (7-4-1). Maine North's Mike Schumacher (6-3), Maine South's Tony Rogari (the best wrestler in the school) and Maine West's Carl Sjostrand.

Scott Vaughan of Maine East will bring the best record into the meet among 155 pounders, 15-2-1. Hersey's Frank Czarnecki (9-2), Forest View's Gordy Moore (17-6), St. Viator's Ed Hellesen (11-11-6) and Maine North's Frank DeMarco (9-6-1) with wins in his last five matches are also seeking a sectional berth.

A good struggle for the top two spots at 167 pounds should unfold. Among the best entrants are Hersey's Bob Vercautse (18-3), Maine East's Marc Grant (13-4-1), St. Viator's Clem Macys (23-6), Arlington's Steve Frankovic (10-6) and Forest View's Bob Klein (10-6).

Hersey's third unbeaten wrestler, 185-pound Pat Teeley, is favored in his weight classification. Those expected to be in the running for a sectional berth are Maine West's Tom Willmings (8-3), Prospect's Jeff Sorensen (13-4), Maine East's Mike Kan (14-5), St. Viator's Ralph Bosch (17-8) and Maine North's Steve Boucher.

Kevin Pancratz of Hersey will bring in the best record among heavyweights, 19-1. Chester Dombek of Maine North (17-3) and Forest View's Chuck Meade (10-7) should be in title contention.

Conference Meets Highlight Weekend Swimming Schedule

Conference meets in three leagues will highlight the weekend swimming schedule.

The Central Suburban League swimming meet will be held tonight at Glenbrook North at 7:00. Deerfield and New Trier West are expected to battle it out for first place with Glenbrook North, Glenbrook South, Maine South and Maine West in contention for the spots third through sixth. Niles North, Niles West and Maine North will round out the field.

The Suburban Catholic Conference meet will be held at Marmion with diving getting underway Saturday at 10 a.m. and swimming at 1 p.m. St. Viator is seeking its second straight Suburban Catholic Conference title and eighth consecutive league championship. The Lions won the new disbanded Chicagoland Prep League's swimming title six straight years before joining the Suburban Catholic Conference.

The Mid-Suburban League meet will be held at Olympic Pool, which is on the Arlington High campus. Forest View, which has an undefeated record in dual meets this season, is favored to successfully defend the championship it won last year. The Mid-Suburban League meet will get underway tonight at 7:00.

McKervey's Diving Record Paces East In WSL Meet

Maine East junior Tom McKervey paced Maine East to a fourth place finish in the West Suburban Conference swimming meet with a record shattering victory in the diving competition. Tom's point total of 398.5 established new WSL, pool, and Maine East varsity records.

Maine East's 36 points placed it behind Hinsdale's 104, LaGrange's 68 and Proviso West's 39.

Other highlights of the competition for Maine East were Bob Wadman's second place finish in both the 200-yard individual medley and 100-yard butterfly with varsity record times and Phil Borgquist's varsity record time in his 400-yard freestyle fifth place finish. Borgquist also finished third in the 200-yard freestyle.

Other point scorers were Ken Meyer, fourth place 100-yard backstroke; Howard Christensen, Al Hilgers, Jerry Kosberg, and Scott Shaver, fifth place 200-yard medley relay; and the fourth place 400-yard freestyle relay team of Bob Wadman, Bob Miner, Ken Meyer, and Phil Borgquist.

The Maine East sophomore swimmers also placed fourth overall with 21 points while establishing a new sophomore record of 3:51.5 in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

HIF Toots Suburbia's Horn

Agency Wants Bite In 'Fair Housing'

by LEA TONKIN

Singing the familiar praises of suburbia, the Chicago-based Home Investment Fund is promoting a quiet exodus of families living in the city to the "good life" of the Northwest Suburbs.

Quality education, a home near your job, excellent transportation facilities and uncrowded neighborhoods are promoted by the not-for-profit agency as it counsels families intent on seeking a new home.

Nearby recreation and churches are added incentives to these potential suburban home buyers. Financial counseling and assistance is available for those ready to take the "big step" to the suburban way of life.

Clusters of real estate sales offices along major highways in all the Northwest suburban municipalities also are touting the benefits of life in the suburbs. Why should promoters outside the real estate sales profession be needed in this housing venture?

THE SLEEPER in this HIF campaign is the attempt to put meaning into the Fair Housing Law of 1968. The agency has helped minority group families move into more than 40 predominantly white communities in recent years. A social action group, HIF represents the Chicago Conference on Religion and Race.

"We have counseled several hundred people in an effort to help them find housing in the suburbs," said Paul Epstein, HIF executive director. "When someone contacts us we try to find a house they can afford. We are constantly in touch with builders and real estate brokers on this."

"There is a tremendous amount of good will among the predominantly white communities," continued Epstein. He added that there have been no incidents associated with the purchase of homes by HIF-referred buyers.

Minority families counseled by HIF have moved into communities across the entire Chicago metropolitan area, including Arlington Heights, Schaumburg, Elk Grove Village, Buffalo Grove and Hoffman Estates. "We have worked with East Indians, blacks, Filipinos, and Spanish-speaking families," said Epstein. "But primarily we are working with blacks, who have the greatest difficulty."

"The Northwest Corridor is still one of the most difficult in opening up the housing market. There is still the confusion between open housing and low-income housing," Epstein said. "The biggest problem is in gaining access to what's available in the market."

Real estate brokers and builders have a tendency to be less than cooperative with minority families," Realty brokers often feel that community attitudes are rigid on the question of accepting minority families, Epstein said.

"THE STUMBLING block in communities such as Arlington Heights is the lack of any attempt to sell to blacks. The marketing system is not designed to attract blacks," said Epstein.

Taking the responsibility for evaluation of community attitudes from the broker, a seller can indicate that he is ready to sell on an equal opportunity basis, said Epstein. "The key is the climate that is created," he said. "If people feel that they can move freely in a single market system there will be no need for this agency."

"What we are doing is to work with minority group people who can afford to live in suburban housing," added Epstein. "People have a tendency not to distinguish between the two issues: low-income housing and equal-opportunity housing. There is a need for low-income housing for whites and blacks. But there are many black families with respectable incomes and suburban housing fits their means."

The HIF agency's principal activity is counseling on the availability of suburban housing. In addition to referrals for real estate listings HIF offers partial down-payment loans and first mortgage referrals.

SEEKING A gradual but steady movement toward open housing, Epstein anticipates the time when minority families will not need special counseling to obtain suburban housing. "The direction is definitely toward greater freedom of choice," he said.

The social action group is managed on a volunteer basis by a group of Chicago-area businessmen and religious leaders. Chairman of the board is James O. Webb Jr. of Glenview, assistant vice president of Blue Cross-Blue Shield.

A Ford Foundation grant provides the money for the HIF staff. The not-for-profit group is supported by loans from business, industry foundations, religious institutions and individuals. Money invested in this self-help program, in turn loaned to minority group families, gains a modest return.

MRS. MARGARET FORD, of Des Plaines checks the throat of Cathy Henze as one of many duties she performs daily. About 20 students visit her office each day with some ailment or bruise.

Mrs. Ford Gives Third Degree

No Fibs Convince This School Nurse

by CINDY TEW

Most students at Arlington High School know better than to go to Margaret Ford, school nurse, just because they don't feel like going to a class.

"They know I give them the third degree," Mrs. Ford said. "Every time a student comes in here, I know he wants something, and I make it my business to find out exactly what it is."

Most students also know that Mrs. Ford isn't the person to go to for an aspirin or cold pill.

"A nurse cannot diagnose or prescribe medications, it's part of the oath of our profession," Mrs. Ford said. "The only medications I give out are ones doctors have prescribed and students can't carry around, like in the case of an asthmatic."

About 20 students visit the nurse's office each day except during the recent rash of flu cases when about 35 students per day came to the nurse.

Students who have had an accident in school or have become sick during the day know what pains Mrs. Ford takes to make sure they're taken care of properly.

Recently a boy injured his arm during a gym class, and was carried to the nurse's office. Mrs. Ford, a resident of Des Plaines, put the arm in a sling and called an ambulance to take the boy to the hospital of the doctor's choice.

"By the pale look of the boy and the pain, it was apparently a broken arm," Mrs. Ford said. She was right.

In the case of sickness, Mrs. Ford feels her responsibility toward the students very strongly. No one goes home without the parent's knowledge, is her motto.

"If a student is ill, and there's no one home, they're much better off staying with me than going to an empty house," she said. "I couldn't live with myself if something happened to a student on the way home or at home in the absence of a parent."

The nurse's quarters includes two resting rooms, one for boys and one for girls.

Occasionally students get upset with Mrs. Ford's protectiveness and insist they are old enough to take care of themselves. According to Mrs. Ford, however, they are her responsibility if she lets them out of the building without parental consent.

Most of the nurse's work revolves around physical education courses, since most accidents in the school happen in gym. Mrs. Ford also schedules physical education classes for students who can't take certain courses because of allergies and injuries.

"I have a very close working relation with the physical education department in working out schedules for students," Mrs. Ford said. "There are only about 12 students in the entire school who can't take any gym at all."

During the past few summers Mrs. Ford has been the nurse on student tours, and has traveled to Mexico, Spain and France. This spring she plans to go to Italy with a student group.

"Some students think it's silly to have a nurse along on a student tour," she said. "While we were in France, however, several students changed their mind when 32 out of the group of 75 got food poisoning."

Mrs. Ford knew what to do for them — let them empty their stomachs, then go to bed with some medication prescribed by a doctor. A doctor prescribed certain medicines to be used in various situations, including food poisoning, before the trip started.

Mrs. Ford and her husband Robert have two daughters and two sons in college. Her oldest daughter is a nurse in Columbus. Robert Ford works for the department of Health, Education and Welfare.

"We're a family dedicated to health," Mrs. Ford said.

EGHS Named Top Jazz Band

The Elk Grove High School Jazz Band was named outstanding band at the Oak Lawn Jazz Festival held last weekend.

The band received a trophy as "outstanding band of the day" and also placed first in Class AA, for bands from high schools with enrollment of more than 1,500.

The Prospect High School band was one of three other finalists competing for the Class AA award and earned a superior rating from the judges. Other participants from High School Dist. 214 were Wheeling High School, which received a superior rating, and Forest View High School, which received an excellent rating.

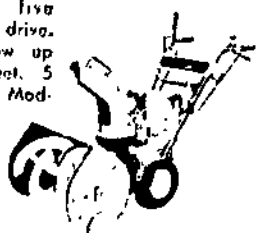

More than 90 bands participated in the 13th annual competition, known as the most prestigious jazz band contest in the state, according to Doug Peterson, Elk Grove's band director for the last four years.

"The seniors on the band have had this win as their dream for the last four years," Peterson said. He added that the high school's lab band, consisting of younger students, also played at Oak Lawn under the direction of Gary Parker, assistant band director, but did not compete.

Soloists for the winning band were seniors Larry Friedrichs, Dave Krikorian, Scott Bentall, Tony Seda, Jim Callahan, Vern Wennerstrom, Don Reilly and Tom Stewart.

The Den

Dear Dr. Lamb—I enjoy reading your column and I had to make this comment on the flat chest questions. I have heard a saying, "What God has forgotten, you can build with cotton."

Dear Reader—I am sure that many people will get a chuckle out of your letter. I might add that it is also safer than silicone injections, cosmetic surgery and a lot of other things.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My friend has high blood pressure for which medication is taken. I have learned that an electrocardiogram was taken but do not know the results. From this I presume there is a heart condition. My question is how dangerous is it to be carrying on a romance in this condition in an age bracket of 50 to 55? I know now what they mean when they say it is "an affair of the heart," as mine (which is normal) really beats too fast for comfort.

Nothing has been said by either of us as yet to acknowledge the affair, but I can tell by the smiling eyes, laughing at nothing, heavy breathing and occasional sigh or catching of the breath that the feelings are mutual. It has been a heavy strain on my health. Can't eat, can't sleep, can't concentrate, and it shows on me. Could this be construed as emotional strain?

Dear Reader—There are an awful lot of people who have new romances and new marriages even after having had heart attacks. There is no question but what emotions do affect the heart and your observation that your heart speeds up is perfectly valid. It is an indication of the increased work of the heart and circulation in response to emotional stimulation. Don't let it bother you.

Lovemaking carried to its ultimate conclusion also causes a rise in blood pressure and heart rate and it does indeed increase the work of the heart. This is one reason why it is a good idea for individuals who are still interested in life and romance to stay in reasonably good physical condition. That means maintaining a proper sensible exercise program and weight control. Put plainly, it can have an influence on one's love life.

It can be a lot more frustrating and damaging to a person's total physical health to love and be unloved. Don't forget that the psychic or emotional health is an important factor in physical health and a good satisfying healthy emotional relationship between two people is good for the psychic health.

Floros: No Repeat Of Design Error

The errors made in the design of Rolling Meadows High School will not be repeated at Buffalo Grove High School, according to Leo Floros, who last week announced his candidacy to the High School Dist. 214 School Board.

"Practicality and efficiency have never been trademarks of Dist. 214. The Rolling Meadows project is another example of that," said Floros, whose current term on the Mount Prospect Dist. 57 School Board expires April 8.

"Not only were we presented with a school with built-in problems, but as is generally the case in 214, the building was far from complete when the doors opened in September. The same thing happened at Wheeling and Hersey," he added.

Floros said he has been "seriously considering" running for one of the three seats to be filled in the Dist. 214 election for several weeks. Leah Cummins, former Dist. 214 board member, is the only other candidate to declare her candidacy.

If elected, Floros also promised to cut back administrators and costs.

Another of Floros' main goals would be establishment of unit districts in the Wheeling-Elk Grove Township areas, thus dissolving Dist. 214. A unit district includes both high schools and elementary schools in the same district.

"I believe Dist. 214 has become too big and unwieldy. It has a budget in the neighborhood of $25 million and it is almost impossible for lay members of the board to monitor and control a budget of this size," Floros said. "I think the time has come for 214 to lead the way toward a merger of elementary and high school districts in the Northwest suburban area."

His plan would be to consolidate Dist. 214 and its six feeder districts (including Dist. 21, 23, 25, 26, 57 and 58 into three or four unit districts.

"By doing this you would get more state aid, and perhaps, more importantly, you would probably have a more unified and efficient educational program from kindergarten through high school," he said.

In cutting back administrators, Floros said the district could operate efficiently with fewer than the current 100 member administrative staff.

"And I don't think that in an economic climate like this, these administrators should have received average increases of $1,500 as they did last fall," he said.

Dist. 214 at the central office and in the individual schools is top-heavy with administration and heavy-laden with non-teaching costs," he said.

Floros, 44, lives at 111 N. Emerson St. in Mount Prospect. In April, he will complete four years on the Dist. 57 School Board. The father of two students at Prospect High School, Floros is currently employed with Selx, Seabold and Associates, a Chicago public relations firm.

Residents Polled On Police Protection

Residents of unincorporated Elk Grove Township will be asked in a survey what they think about their police protection as part of a study of the possibility that the township provide additional police protection in the area.

A committee made up of Township Auditor Bernard Lee and representatives of three unincorporated subdivisions will send out the survey in two to three weeks after studying the cost of such a service, Lee said this week.

The committee was formed recently after the board received requests for extra protection from residents of Itasca Meadow Farm subdivision, south of Biesterfeld Road across from Alexian Brothers Medical Center, and Waycinden Park subdivision near Des Plaines at Mount Prospect Road and Dempster Street.

Lee said that under the law the township can levy a tax to contract for additional police protection if the tax is approved by voters in a referendum.

AT PRESENT, the Cook County Sheriff's Police provides protection to unincorporated areas. Lee said the township could contract with neighboring villages, the sheriff's police or private companies to provide additional protection.

"At our meeting some people were very high on the protection provided by the county, but others felt we needed

WMTH To Broadcast Maine West Game

WMTH, Maine West High School's radio station, will broadcast tonight's Maine West versus Maine South basketball game beginning at 8 p.m. The station is located at 885 on the FM radio dial.

A pregame show will be broadcast from 6 to 8 p.m. and an aftergame show will begin about 9:30 p.m. The basketball game will be played at Maine West, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines.

more," Lee said. Once the results of the survey are in and the committee gets estimates of cost, he said, the township board can make a decision on whether to hold a referendum for persons in the unincorporated areas.

Some of the problems cited by residents of the two subdivisions, he said, were speeders in their neighborhoods and thefts, he said. "I understand residents in Waycinden were thinking about assessing members of their homeowners association and providing protection on their own," he said. "The problem with that is there is nothing they can do if some people don't pay."

Lee said Itasca Meadow Farms has about 40 homes, and Waycinden has about 500 homes. Other unincorporated subdivisions are Forest View, with 121 homes south of Landmeier Road surrounded by Elk Grove Village; Lake Briarwood, with about 70 homes south of Algonquin Road and west of Busse Road; and Golf View Estates, with 40 homes off Golf Road.
